It starts; L sinuous eyelash from the sun, A golden, leaf shaped, dancing thing, dending fernlike in a magic breeze,

And saps the virgin forest's strength With writhing, biting arms, And with its red jaws through the gloom Casts elan shadows round the room,

And, waxing still,
It lastes round the knotted wood
With soft but cruel sting.
Till, gorged with strength, it fades away th a coverlet of gray,

And now,

Like molten sunset from the west,

Pulsates as with living breath

Till, dying midst the bones its greed has made,

Its heart is still and ashes mark the grave.

INK AS A WITNESS.

Results In One Case Which Amazed the Attorneys.

in the supreme court it was alleged that interlineations had been made in the papers after they were filed, and the papers were submitted to expert chemists to decide whether the interlineations had been made after the papers were filed or at the time the paper was drawn. The process followed by the chemists was simple, though tedious.

Hypochloride of soda was the only chemical used by the expert, but the result was the same as that arrived at by the other experts. Tests were made on each line of the document. The soda bleached the ink, and, as the writing in some parts was done many years ago, the first drop of soda was placed on a line which was not in controversy. The writing slowly faded, and it was 51 seconds before it was bleached.

A drop on another interlineation faded the writing in 49 seconds, on another in 51 seconds, and the interlineations made when the paper was first written faded n about 50 seconds on an average. Suddenly the ink of one of the interlineations faded in 15 seconds, and the conclusion was at once reached that it was fresher nk than the others, as the ink had not had time to thoroughly permeate the fiber of the paper.

Several interlineations were found to fade in from 13 to 16 seconds, and these jection to them. They lavish their were marked as having been made at a more recent date.

After all interlineations had been so marked, the next step was to ascertain as nearly as possible at what date the interlineations were made, and for this purose many manuscripts in which similar ink was used on the same kind of paper were taken. The exact date of the writing of each manuscript was known, and soda was dropped on each, beginning with the date of writing of the manuscript in controversy. The time necessary to fade the ink gradually decreased from 52 and 50 seconds as the soda was dropped on the manuscripts of more recent

When the fading took place in 20 sec onds, manuscripts but a month apart in writing were used, and the fading in 14 and 15 seconds was thus fixed in a certain month. The examining chemists knew nothing of the points in the controversy, and the report was made that certain interlineations were probably made in the specified month. The attorneys in the case were amazed, as the month named was that in which they believed the more recent writing had been done .-Indianapolis Press.

The Crusades and Embroidery. The crusades had a marked effect on the demand for embroidery, as besides the decoration of their cloaks and pouches the kings and their followers wanted gorgeously worked hangings for their tents and heraldic blazons for their ban-ners. The last were difficult of execution, and new stitches were invented, and applique work was introduced about this time. The Spaniards are said to have learned the use of spangles and other metal and head ornaments as applied to stuffs from the Saracens. Later precion stones and pearls were used, and in 1414 Charles of Orleans spent about £40 for 960 pearls which were to be used in ornamenting a great coat on the sleeves of which were embroidered the verses of a song beginning with "Madam, I am all The musical accompaniment of the words was also embroidered .- Specta-

To keep a horse in a dark stable is cruel to the animal and dangerous to its owner. When led out the sudden change from darkness to daylight is very trying to the horse's eyes. The retina becomes deadened and more or less useless, and after a time the sight is seriously impaired. The horse starts and shies at objects it sees imperfectly, and many a dangerous acci-dent has been caused by this rather than any vicious habit of the animal.
