ay that heretofore the country schools did not rive more instruction than this, but I believe in most of them it did not proceed further; and that in all of them there was a want of proper books of instruction for the scholars. In Lewer Canada the Legislature did not make any previation for providing school books, and in the Upper Province, where the Legislature did make a prosision, I see by the Parliamentary Reports for 1832, 1833 and 1834, an enumeration of these looks, which consisted of New Testaments, Mavor's Spelling Books, Reading Made Easys, and a free English Readers. If we are to estimate the amount of instruction which is given in the schools, by the description of books (with the exception of the New Testaments) that are provided to impart it, we cannot suppose it to be The second state of the se dence? How much of Natural Enterty, or local and Natural Philosophy did it teach? In a word, how much of instruction did they receive that was calculated to make them useful, respectable, and happy in their station in life? It is to produce these results that education is necessary and proper for man, and were all mankind properly instructed these results would be sure to follow generally. On the contrary, if education come short of what is necessary to instruct mankind in their several duties, it is imperfect; and the time and money that is expended in acquiring such an education, is little enter then wasted.

I would hope that it would be scarcely necessary I should repeat again, that it is not a knowledge of the first rudiments that can constitute it useful and respectable education. I will not ay that heretofore the country schools did not give more instruction than this, but I believe in nost of them it did not proceed further; and that in all of them there was a want of proper tooks of instructions for the achieves.
