SEES BETTER TIMES FOR THE LUMBER TRADE

President of Lumbermen's Association Declares it Depends on People Getting to Work

Forecasting an improvement in the lumber business very shortly if people really got down to work, but adding that at present the conditions were not yet very brilliant, David Champoux, president of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, is visiting Quebec.

Mr. Champoux was inclined to believe that very little profit, if any, was being made at present by lumbermen. He said that during his term of office which he intended especially to answer for, was the preservation of the forests either from fires or from destruction through abnormal cutting. As far as winter operations had been conducted, he understood from reports on hand that only between fifty to sixty per cent of the normal cutting of timber had been going on, the majority of the large lumber interests reducing their operations to a minimum.

Aemilius Jarvis Released From Jail

After Paying the Remainder of His Fine, Amounting to $60,000

Toronto, April 23.--Having satisfied the end of justice for his part, together with Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer, in connection with the Ontario Government bond scandals, Aemilius Jarvis prominent Toronto financier, and yachtsman, was, early this morning, released from the municipal-jail farm, at Langstaff, near this city, on the expiry of his sentence of six months imprisonment imposed upon him by Chief Justice Meredith, last October. Late yesterday afternoon Jarvis fulfilled an additional penalty imposed upon him by the law, when he paid incourt through his son, Aemilius, the $600,000 fine imposed upon him by the First Appellate Court of Ontario on his appeal from the fine of $600,000 which Chief Justice Meredith had directed should be borne jointly by Jarvis and Smith. Before his appeal, Jarvis had made restitution of $140,000 to the province.

Jarvis left the prison shortly before one o'clock this morning, in company with friends, and motored to his home in the city.

GOES TO GALLOWES STOLIDLY AND DIES WITHIN 12 MINUTES

Fredericton, April 23--Harry D. Williams, convicted of the murder of his two half-nieces, Cynthia, 14, and Nevia Foster, 10, at Fosterville, in November last, was hanged at 12.01.55 o'clock this morning in a barn near the jail yard in Fredericton. His nerve never broke and he went to the gallows with the same stolid demeanour that he showed throughout his trial, saying, his hands were strapped behind him, "I place my trust in Him. He has carried me through so far. I can do nothing for myself."

He shook hands with his guards and Very Rev. Dean Neales, who was his spiritual adviser and, as he passed through the corridor on his way from the death cell to the scaffold, smiled and bade good-bye to newspaper men and others present. His display of nerve was wonderful and he never flinched.

Charles Sterling and Alex. Murray, the guards walked beside the prisoner while Dean Neales commenced the recitation of Psalm xxiii. "The Lord is my shepherd."

They passed through the corridor and through the jail yard, about ten feet, to a barn. They went inside and climbed one story to the loft where the execution was held.

As Dean Neales completed the recitation of the Lord's Prayer at 12.02 o'clock the trap was sprung and 12 minutes later Williams was pronounced dead by Dr. Allan Sterling. Dr. B. M.

Dougan, coroner, of Harvey Station, and Dr. L. A. Violette M. L. A. of St. Leonard's, also viewed the body with the coroner's jury. The body was taken by D. McAdam, undertaker, and interment was in the Rural Cemetery before dawn.

The only witnesses to the execution, with the exception of the hangman Dean Neales and the guards, were the jury, consisting of Warden John T. Christie, of Bright Peter McFarlane of Nashwaakiss; Coun. J. F. Doherty, of Springhill; Ald. W. L. Jennings, Thomas Davidson, Edward Hall and James Hawthorne.

Hangman Ellis was dressed in a Prince Albert coat, gray striped trousers, black tie and wing collar.

When he was placed on the trap and as Ellis pulled the black hat over his head, Williams turned around to look at the jurors, and others who were gathered.

Very Rev. Dean Neales expressed the opinion that Williams went to his death fully penitent. He said that no man in the city of Fredericton had more to be thankful for than he had. As soon as the body had been cut down it was viewed by the coroner's jury, who soon afterwards returned the formal verdict, and a short time after the body was taken to a local cemetery and buried. While the execution was being carried out, a crowd of several hundred people congregated in front of the jail.

New hinges had been placed on the trap of the gallows. Williams had been eating hearty meals yesterday, but was somewhat more restless than usual when he retired Tuesday night after the Salvation Army had conducted their last service in his cell. As they left, some of the women kissed him and said good-bye; he asked them not to say good-bye - just good-night. During the night he had a sound sleep.

TASCHEREAU DENIES VENIOT STATEMENT

Error Claimed in Grand Falls Hydro Development Reports

That he did not use the words ascribed to him in a statement reported to have been made by Hon. P. J. Veniot, Premier of New Brunswick, in the Legislature at Fredericton, last Thursday, in connection with the Quebec bill authorizing the Grand Falls Hydro development in such part as authorization by the local government was necessary, and that he had not seen Premier Veniot in connection with that bill, is the denial made by Premier Taschereau, of Quebec.

When a fight was being made to block the bill to give New Brunswick storage and other rights in Quebec, Hon. Mr. Veniot was quoted as saying Premier Taschereau had given this assurance:

"Quebec will stand by New Brunswick, even if I have to lash the party whip on the last member of the supporters of the government."

Says 100,000 Will Leave England For Canada In 1925

Immigrants to the number of 100,000 will come from G. B. to Canada this year, according to the prediction of J. H. Carmichael, steel magnate of London, England, whose estimate is based upon what steamship agents and other interested immigration parties have told him in the Old Country.

The Empire settlement scheme is arousing more attention to Canada in Great Britain, and Wembley exhibition was a great stimulus. Young married couples experienced in agriculture and with little capital were looking to Canada for their future livelihood. Mr. Carmichael warns that European immigration agents must be watched to see that they do not assist the entry of workers, who would only increase the ranks of the unemployed in Canada.
