RANCHING AT ROCKEY MOUNTAIN HOUSE.

W. G. Hunter, a big rancher from Rocky Mountain House in the Jasper Pass is spending a few days in the city. Mr. Hunter came down by the trail to Lacombe and thence to Edmonton. He came up from Lacombe, two or three years ago and settled in the pass. He is more than pleased with this move and says there is no better place for ranching than around the Rocky Mountain House and the Pass. Several families have settled here and are all doing splendidly. He would not recommend it for grain raising as compared with the Edmonton district, but that all kinds of garden produce does exceedingly well, and there is no danger of frost. The soil is rich and the water is good, but the best for ranching. The horses and stock are all wintered out, and although last winter was rather colder than usual, they were without stabling or hay and came out in the spring looking fat and sleek. Mr. Hunter returns in a few days.

WHAT SALT COST IN 1875.

H. W. McKenney, M.F.P. for St. Albert tells an interesting anecdote of Edmonton 23 years ago, showing the cost of living in this city at that time. Mr. McKenney was in Edmonton in 1875 as a member of the staff of the geological survey, and this is the story.

Mr. McKenney wanted some salt, so he went to the Hudson's Bay Company's store and asked for a pound. The attendant cheerfully brought the salt and asked the purchaser if he had brought the sack to put the salt in. He replied that he had not, as he expected the salt would be wrapped up in paper. This was not the custom, and as there was not any paper available the attendant suggested that the purchaser carry the salt home in his handkerchief, which suggestion was indignantly ignored, and the purchaser was obliged to buy a yard of calico in which to carry home the salt.

The salt cost 50 cents a pound and the calico 75 cents, making the total cost of the pound of salt 125 cents. That same year the members of the surveying staff were offered and refused $30 for a sack of flour.

FINE DISTRICT FOR RANCHING

W. H. Jack Talks of Things Around the Yellowhead Pass.

N. H. Jack, the well-known trader, freighter and guide, of the Yellowhead Pass, came into the city yesterday by the way of Lac Ste. Anne. Mr. Jack returned to the lake about ten days ago from a trip to the pass, accompanied by "Sam" Blakeley, the Minnesota lumber king, who was taken over the districts along the railway surveys up through the pass and down as far as the big bend of the Fraser.

Mr. Jack had nothing to say as to the results of the trip, but hinted that the timber limits were scarce in the pass proper although there were plenty farther down the Fraser.

When asked as to what he knew of the reported gold strike in the Yellowhead, Mr. Jack explained that he had spent most of the winter at Lac Ste. Anne, and this has been his first trip to his old camping grounds this season. His attention had been given solely to his employer and he heard nothing more than the report. He would not be at all surprised if gold in paying quantities were to be found as far up as the Yellowhead as a trader he had spent some time privately prospecting and had found quite a bit of coarse gold.

He thinks the Yellowhead one of the best ranching districts in the West. It is directly in the Chinook belt and spring comes on about a month earlier than on the prairie. Stock is wintered out and this spring the cattle are looking fine.

There are some and all the traders and trappers are turning their attention to ranching or freighting. Mr. Jack is taking a party of prospectors and land-seekers out to the Yellowhead the first of the week. He goes out to Lac Ste. Anne today and will bring all his gear together and provided with pack horses and outfit there.

THE BUFFALO HERD IS BECOMING ACCLIMATIZED

Palbo Herd Has Been a Week in New Home And Has Not Scattered as Mexican Cowboys Declared it Would. The Old Buffalo Who Gave so Much Trouble During Drive, is Dead. His Head is Worth $1,000.

The buffaloes of the Palbo herd have now spent the first week in their new home in the Elk Island Park, and are becoming accustomed to their new environment and in fact quite naturalized to Canadian soil, contrary to the prophecies of the Mexican cowboys, who assisted in unloading and placing of the herd in the park last week. Joe Macdonald, Michael Pablo's right-hand man, said the buffaloes would be scattered over the prairie in 60 days.

Buffalo Becoming Acclimatized. Advice from the park through Mr. Frank Walker and Mr. A. Simons, are to the effect that the buffaloes are doing well and recovering from the shaking-up they received in transportation and unloading. One big bull, however, has died since the herd was put in the park. This was the big fellow that gave such trouble during the drive on Sunday evening, and that lay down within a quarter mile from the park. The animal's head was removed and sent to Banff to the taxidermist. A dressed and preserved head is worth $1,000, so that nothing is lost by his death. A full-grown buffalo is worth as much as a cow, and in the case of the head in question, the bull's stag and cows are worth a great deal more—in some cases three times as much as was paid for them. This leaves the young calves, yearlings and two-year-olds which have at least 20 years to live and frequently the life of the bison exceeds this age limit.

The Number of the Herd. At present there are 100 bulls, sixteen stags, 33 calves and 47 cows in the park. The next shipment will greatly increase the number of calves and calves in the herd.

The general impression, which is widespread, to the effect that the race of buffaloes is dying out, is far from the truth. At the moment the people of the United States are mourning the loss of the herd of buffaloes which has been purchased by the Government. A cry has gone up from the United States to the effect that they have, so to speak, been robbed of their birthright in the matter of the buffaloes. But this is not borne out by facts. Mr. Pablo, who sold the herd to the government of Canada, commenced to breed buffaloes in the year 1883, and all the stock that he possessed at that time was 20 buffaloes. Pablo supplemented these by buying 30 more from a rancher of the distinctive and suggestive name of "Buffalo" Jones. Ever since Mr. Pablo began to breed buffaloes he has been in the habit of selling off a few every year, and therefore it is almost impossible to estimate exactly how many buffaloes would have been in his possession if he had not sold them at different periods.

RAMSAY'S SUCCESSOR

As Governor of Toronto Jail is Methodist Parson. Church Interference

Toronto, June 9.—Rev. Dr. A. B. Chamberlain, a prominent Methodist minister, received official notice of his appointment as governor of the Toronto Jail. He was appointed in 1888 at Kingston, and for twenty-five years has been stationed in Montreal, Quebec and Toronto, having served the last sixteen years here. He is a native of Fermanagh, Ireland, and is about sixty years of age. He is a graduate of McGill university.

There is some feeling in political circles over the appointment. According to Dr. Chamberlain's statements he has not been a party-man, and vigorously opposed the Tupper administration and voted Liberal on many occasions.

The new appointee has never had any experience as an official, and is not regarded by his friends as a disciplinarian. The appointment is regarded as a church interference.
