SYDNEY, Australia, To-day.
Borden's declarations in London are being watched here. The general feeling of Australia seems to point to readiness on part of commonwealth claim our seat in imperial council, directly our share in practical defense of empire attains a magnitude which would warrant the claim. Meanwhile Australia is steadily proceeding on agreed lines in building up a efficient squadron.

DUBLIN, To-day.

Asquith last night was the recipient of another ovation at the hands of Dublinites, both inside and outside the Theatre Royal, where he made an address. Asquith who was accompanied by his wife was greeted by enormous crowds who repeated the welcome they gave him last night. Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, in introducing the Premier to his auditors, said such a reception never hitherto had been accorded to any Cabinet Minister, and never again would be until Asquith came to Dublin, attending the King to open an Irish Parliament. Asquith's speech was interrupted at times by male and female suffragettes, several of whom were violently ejected from the theatre. The speech was a warm defence of the Irish cause, and characterized opposition to Home Rule as merely obstructive and chaotic, but powerless to wreck. The Home Rule Bill, the Premier said, would be sent to the House of Lords before Christmas. He then added, with patience and discipline the end is in sight, because no longer is it possible for the Lords to override the decision of the people. The triumph of Ireland's cause, Asquith declared, would be a first step in Imperial reorganization which Home Rule was the one and the only solution. Expressing disbelief in the possibility of civil war in Ulster, the Premier repeated his previous statement that the Government stood ready sympathetically to consider proposals to strengthen and safeguard that country. While the meeting was proceeding, extraordinary scenes were witnessed outside the theatre. Suffragettes who attempted to make a demonstration were set upon by the populace, who tried to throw them in the River Liffey. The police interfered for their protection.

MURDERER CONFESSES

Killing Julia Connors, Hottville Innocent.

The murderer of Julia Connors a twelve year old girl has confessed to the crime, and Earnest Hottville the innocent Newfoundland boy who was arrested on suspicion is now absolutely cleared of the charge. A New York despatch of the 16th has the following:—
"Events moved rapidly to-day in the proceedings to fit the responsibility for the brutal murder of 12-year-old Julia Connors, in the Bronx last week. The father of Nathan Swartz, the young hanger-on of pugilism, who has been sought in connection with the crime, admitted to the grand jury that his son had confessed to him that he was guilty of killing the girl. Mrs. Frances Alexander, sister of the youth, corroborated the statement and gave the jury the first details of the tragedy which has called out all the resources of the local police for a week past.
"At the conclusion of hearing filled with sensational testimony, the grand jury unanimously voted in favor of an indictment of murder in the first degree. On account of the late hour the drawing up of the bill was put over until to-morrow. Mrs. Alexander's repetition of the story of the crime as she said her brother had told it to her, was detailed, explicit and telling in its revelation of horror.
The Story Told by the Sister
Mrs. Alexander, according to Attorney Nott, told the jury that her brother said he had met Julia Connors on Saturday night and asked her to take a pair of opera glasses to his home, which is just across the hall from the vacant flat where the murder was committed. The young man said he followed the girl, and at the top of the stairs pushed her into the flat and attempted to assault her. The child screamed, according to the story of Mrs. Alexander, and then Nathan said he plunged his pocket knife into her. She continued to scream, the witness testified, and Nathan stabbed her until she finally fell and then plunged the knife into her breast near the heart. Then Julia remained still.

and procured the box in which the body was found. He placed the still living child into this box, after cutting off her hair, put the box on the dumb waiter and let it slide to the bottom.
Following the Body to the Cellar.
He went to the cellar and took the unconscious child from the dumb waiter and laid her in the cellar. He then went home, Mrs. Alexander said he told her, and went to sleep.
Early the next morning (Sunday) he took the girl, still alive, into the lot where she was found. Mrs. Alexander said she threw the youth out of her house when she heard the tale. He then went to his father's place of business, where he told the same story according to the father, who corroborated the daughter's story.
Other witness were called, but their testimony was insignificant with that offered by Samuel Swartz and his daughter.

STOLE THE BOOZE.
Last evening Const. Lawlor saw an out-of-door man treating three individuals who are well known to him, and later saw the men go in at the vacancy of Anderson's building. He divined that something was wrong and approaching the outport man found that he had been relieved of a bottle of liquor. Lawlor arrested the trio later and they admitted the theft. Part of the liquor had been consumed and what was left had been hidden but was found by the officer.

Recovery is Doubtful

If the quality of the drugs and medicines given a patient is not above doubt, we spare no effort in obtaining the purest and most reliable goods. Efficiency is dependent upon freshness in almost all drugs and all our preparations are compounded from drugs which have not deteriorated through age.
This is the reason we are selling such a large quantity of "Stafford's Liniment," "Stafford's Prescription 'A'" and "Stafford's Phorotone Cough Mixture."

Regatta Meeting.

President Hiseock presided at the meeting of the Regatta Committee held at Woods' last night.
There was a full attendance. Mr. W. D. Reid wrote thanking the Committee for making him honorary member.
Capt. English wrote in answer to a communication from the Committee saying that to place more than four buoys at the foot of the Lake would make it difficult to turn the racers. He thought that with two boats turning the same buoy there would be danger of collision.
The entries will be awaited and if more than four boats enter for any one race the event may be run in heats before the Regatta.
The collectors reported a generous response from the public but more funds are still required to make the Regatta a success and they hope these will be forthcoming this week.
The President of the Bell Island Regatta Committee was made an honorary member.
The factory race will be confined only to the operatives of such establishments, no mixed crews will be allowed.
Mr. Walter Irving was appointed to drive the judges.
The meeting then adjourned till Friday night next.
