Saturday's Race Called Off.

Lack of Wind Saves Shamrock IV From Defeat—Lipton Disappointed in Burton—German Prince Suicides—South African Wins King's Prize.

RACE CALLED OFF—NO WIND, SANDY HOOK, July 17. After having left Shamrock Four, challenger for America's cup, about 10 miles behind in to-day's international cup race, the Defender failed because of lack of wind to finish within the six hour time limit and the race was called off after about twenty miles had been covered.

DEFENDER WELL AHEAD—LIPTON TO CHANGE CAPTAINS, SANDY HOOK, July 18.

The expiring of the sailing time limited the Lipton challenger Shamrock from apparent defeat at the hands of the cup defender Resolute in the second meet yesterday of the regatta for America's cup. The defender put more than a half hour's sailing between her and the challenger, and was breezing home under main, club topsail and balloon jib, when the race was officially declared off at 10 o'clock. Under the rules the forty mile triangular course had to be covered within six hours by the leading yacht. Sir Thomas Lipton plans to take Captain Wm. Burton from the helm of the cup challenger Resolute.

Fisherman Was Forced to Give Up Work Altogether

Lidstone Says Tanlac Restored His Health And He is Now Back On Job Feeling Fine.

"Well, sir, I never dreamed there was a medicine that could make me feel as well and strong as this Tanlac has," said Arch Lidstone, a well known fisherman living at 23 Young Street, St. John's, Newfoundland. "For more than six years I suffered from chronic indigestion and stomach trouble, and lost my appetite almost completely. Even what little I did manage to eat caused me such intense pains that they nearly doubled me up, and after almost every meal I became so nauseated I couldn't retain a thing I had eaten. I was troubled a lot with constipation, had severe pains in the small of my back, and suffered constantly from dizziness. There were black spots floating before my eyes nearly all the time, and I couldn't even walk up hill without having to stop and rest. I always felt weak and worn out, and finally had to give up my work altogether."

"I read where Tanlac was helping so many others in a similar condition to myself that I could see no reason why it shouldn't help me also, so I got a bottle and found it to be the very thing I needed. My appetite picked right up, and I haven't been nauseated or had a bit of trouble in retaining my food since I first started on the medicine. My stomach no longer troubles me, I'm free from those dizzy attacks, and never have a pain of any kind. I'm feeling so strong and full of energy that I'm back on the job again, and I give Tanlac all the credit for putting me in such good health."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewe.—adv.

Will Greece Get Cyprus?

(Boston Sunday Herald.)

The famous Island of Cyprus will certainly be ceded to Greece if the Cypriotes themselves are allowed to decide the question. Representatives of the Greek Christian population, headed by their archbishop, are in London at present petitioning the British Government to reunite Cyprus with their mother country. The relationship is ancient. Long before the Christian era Cyprus was colonized by the Greeks, and unless the little Mediterranean land that became sacred to the worship of Aphrodite is truly Greek there is nothing Hellenic in Hellas. Wars and invasions were many, but the Greek race survived in the home of the Paphian Venus. Not even three centuries (1570-1878) of Turkey's barbarous tyranny could exterminate Greek nationalism, and in the latter year a better time began with the cession of Cyprus to Britain for administrative purposes, the Sultan receiving an annual tribute of $464,000.

When Turkey entered the world war in November, 1914, the British formally annexed the island by proclamation, but in October, 1915, they offered to cede it to Greece if she would join the allies for the defence of Serbia. The Zaimis cabinet, controlled by King Constantine, declined the offer, but when that treacherous monarch lost his throne 15,000 Cypriotes hurried to join Venizelos and the allies at Salonica. And now a great majority of the islanders, the Greek Christians, plead for union with Greece. The census of 1911 gave their number as 214,490, and that of the Turks as 56,428. Though the British have greatly improved Cyprus by reforestation and by the construction of roads, railways and the excellent harbor at Famagusta, possession of it does not pay, and an annual grant of $250,000 is made for its administration and development. But if Greece is willing to bear the cost, in consideration of being able to count the Cypriotes among her people and to raise her flag on the third largest island of the Levant, there does not appear to be any reason why the British Government should deny the islanders their wish.

Hot July.

"Then came hot July, boiling like to fire,
That all his garments he had cast away;
Upon a loom raging yet with ire
He bawled 'Ho, sinners, make him obey!"
So wrote the poet Spencer more than three hundred years ago. His description still holds good, not only of July in England, but of July in Canada as well, of which, of course, he knew nothing. "July boiling like to fire" is undoubtedly strong, but many a man, "pitching on" in the hayfield or "mowing back" the last load that just fits in under the barn-roof, will not think it a bit too strong or in any way exaggerated. July gives us heat and it is well that it does so, for without that heat how could the hay be made, or the grain crops ripened, or the Indian corn forced ahead?

To the heat of July we owe an old tradition which still had a place in the household calendar. It is the tradition of "Dog Days," when, as some believe, dogs are more liable to go mad than at any other time, and when many diseases are prevalent and unusually virulent. For that whimsical notion we must thank the ancient Romans.

Their city, Rome, with their country, Italy, experience great heat in July. Near ancient Rome were extensive marshes, and the hot winds blowing over them into the city were not conducive to public health. The unhealthy summer they connected with the fact that at that season the star Canicula—the Little Dog—rose and set at about the same time as did the sun. They accordingly gave the name Dog Days to the period between July 3 and August 11. However, as years passed the movement of the stars threw Canicula and the sun out of phase. The time of their rising and setting no longer coincided, but Dog Days continued just the same and have come down to us with much of the meaning attached to them by the Romans more than two thousand years ago.

Our name of the month we also derive from the Romans. Originally it was the fifth month in the Roman calendar and, therefore, called Quintilis. It contained 30 days until the

Freeman's English Foods

A complete supply for your larder.

Custard Like Cream
Freeman's Custard, made according to directions, provides a creamy dish that softens the tartness of fruits. It is ideal for trifles, and as a hot sauce with puddings it is delicious.

Making Better Cakes.
There is nothing better for making cakes than Freeman's Egg Powder. It is an improvement upon eggs rather than a substitute for them; making cakes lighter and more digestible, and never "dry".

A Comforting Drink.
There is no more comforting drink on a cold day than Freeman's Glass Lemon and hot water—as hot as you can drink it. Freeman's Glass Lemon is sweetened sufficiently for the average taste; it is made with real lemons by an entirely new process—a great advance on the old lemon crystal.

If a cold drink is required it is only necessary to add Freeman's Glass Lemon to cold water, it dissolves immediately—no need to wait while the drink cools.

time of Julius Caesar, who felt a personal interest in it because it contained the anniversary of his birth which occurred on July 12, 100 B.C. He added a day to the month in the reformed calendar, and after his death, when his faithful general, Mark Antony, and his grand-nephew, Octavius, later known as Emperor Augustus, were pulling the Roman world, the name of the month was changed from Quintilis to Julius which we have slightly altered to July. And so our month of summer at its height is named after the Roman soldier, statesman and writer, who for strength of intellect and force of character stands out as one of the great men of ancient history.

Requiem Mass.
At the annual Requiem Mass celebrated at Mount Carmel Cemetery yesterday, at 10.30 a.m., a large congregation attended. Rev. Dr. Kitchin preached an edifying sermon on our duties to the dead, making touching reference to those who laid down their lives in the Great War. The cemetery grounds presented a very neat appearance and reflects credit on the sexton, Mr. John Warren.
