

To the Editor of the Quebec Star:

Dear Star,

The D. T. Co. is well represented, at the Jeffrey hall school evangelizing meetings, by their chief operator M. John S. He prays and agonize with vigour through his nose. Your correspondent would advise him to read M. the authority or english grammar.

A constant reader.

The real English butcher is to be seen at Tozer's stall upper town London style white apron and white cuffs we wish we had a few more of his class instead of the poor mechanic's who pretend to serve up beef to old countrymen. They don't know the first more in dressing an animal Mr. Elliot can show them something in that line. His display on Easter Saturday was the richest in the upper town. He was bound to have the best and so he succeeded.

QUERY.

What is Bill W. of the Quebec Bank the hotel sponger doing so often in the little cigar store in Fabrique street, while the proprietor is at the club playing whist, attention Billy Mrs. S. J. B. will give you the slip, our reporter has his eyes on you.

AN IRISH HEDGE-SCHOOL.

Pedagogue.—Tony Mackay, come here, sir, and show yer larin to this gentleman.

Tony.—Ye, sir.

Ped.—Spell windy, Tony, the windy of a house, you know

Tony.—W-i-n win d-i-y dy, windy.

Ped.—Hem! very good, Tony. Now give us the definition of windy.

Tony.—The what, sir?

Ped.—The definition Tony; which manes; you know, a preposterous explanation.

Tony.—A windy is—is—a windy is—is—is—a windy is—is—

Ped.—Here, I'll give it to you, Tony, and take care and don't disremember it. A windy—hem! a windy is a quadrilateral orifice which horizontally perforates an edifice for the admission of luminous particles! hem! You may go, Tony.

SHORT RECEIPTS FOR DAILY USE.

To prevent beer from becoming sour.—Drink it.

To kill bed-bugs.—Catch them.

To keep water from coming in.—Don't pay the water rate.

Economical diet.—Stay at a hotel for a week and quiet without paying.

To make your own bread.—Take the yeast of industry, and blend it well with the flour of integrity. By following these simple directions, it is probable that you will make your own bread.

To make a welsh rabbit.—The simplest method is that practiced at school by little boys, which consists in toasting a slice of yellow soap on a bit of slate over the lamp. The skins of Welsh rabbits are perfectly useless in a commercial point of view, but are sometimes advantageously employed to bait mousetraps.

Plate cleaning.—The best mode a plate-cleaning is that adopted in emigrant boarding house. Put your plate upon the ground and turn the cat loose upon it.

How to dress a Call's Head.—Take your head and rub in a thick butter all over the face, then pare off with a sharp instrument. Wipe well with a clean towel, and place pieces of starched lined about half way up the cheek. Lard the crown with any kind of grease—a few drops of oil may be an improvement—and your call's head will be dressed in the most approved style.

How to keep a ting a profound secret.—Advertise it in the Day book or Mirror.

REVIEW OF THE MARKETS.

Hops.—As the dancing season advances hops become buoyant. We quote the best at eight dollars per quarter.

Cabbage.—Since the introduction of the flat cigar, cabbage leaves have gone up twenty per cent. Whether the operation of the tailor's shop will counteract this tendency, is yet to be seen.

Whisky.—Hoblers, we should think, are inclined to yeh!—that is, if we may judge from that old gentleman who was propping himself up with a lamp post. We shall notice various other articles next month.

CORRESPONDANCE.

Joseph Blanchet de Lévis, nous informe qu'il a fait enlever d'un petit poisson d'avril à sa sœur, c'est la capture d'un magnifique doctin "Dauphin" au bout du quel des commissaires il a été vu reposant, non pas dans l'eau sale, mais dans la belle eau "N. Belleu".

C'est un poisson intelligent qui fortifie la queue quand on lui respire dans les ouies. On peut encore le voir à la douane nos félicitations à l'honorable fortunée d'un poisson aussi amusant.

Octave Talbot, conducteur sur le chemin de fer Lévis et Kennebec a été ruc dernièrement par un char déraillé à une hauteur de 45 pieds, c'est dû à sa présence d'esprit s'il n'est pas mort, un somerset sur lui-même la ramené sur les pieds au milieu d'un baçe de neige.

Mons. Isidore Bégin du Village Bien Ville désiré que tous les électeurs du Village venille lico penser à lui toutes l'année car il est bien affligé ce ne pas être maire cette année moi d'ail qui aime à avoir tous les places d'honneurs du village depuis qu'on a fait une collect dans la ville pour moi pour faire reconstruire ma grange brûlé cela ma fait tous perdre mes place d'honneurs moi. Ex-maire moi Juge de paix moi petit seigneur, moi Isidore Vigareux moi bédan du village moi marguiller de St. David.
