

PRACTICAL RULES AND INDULGENCES OF THE SOCIETY OF UNION OF PRAYERS AND GOOD WORKS OF THE DIOCESE OF ST. BONIFACE, ESTABLISHED BY ORDER OF HIS GRACE ARCHBISHOP OF ST. BONIFACE, THE 2ND OF FEBRUARY, 1903.

Art. IX—Duties of Associates.

The Association being before all a Union of Prayers, each member must consider it a charitable duty:

1. To recite each day a "Pater" and "Ave" for the last person deceased in the Association, and a "Pater" and "Ave" for the one who will die first in the same Association, and make the following invocation: "St. Joseph, patron of a happy death, pray for us."
2. Visit the sick members, advise them to receive the sacraments, also pray beside the bed.
3. To offer for the intentions of the associates, living and dead, our communications, prayers and other good works.
4. To assist as much as possible at the services for deceased members.

Art. X—Funds of the Society.

1. The amount of the contributions of the associates of each parish, shall, in the beginning of January, be given into the hands of the priest charged by His Grace the Archbishop of St. Boniface, with the administration of the affairs of the Society. This priest will be the diocesan director.

2. The funds of the society will be placed in the Archbishopal Roman Catholic Corporation.

3. The said Corporation Archbishopal of St. Boniface will not be at liberty to spend any portion of the funds of the society, except to pay for the rights granted to the associates by the rules of the society. If, however, there should be funds in excess of what is required, the Archbishop of St. Boniface may dispose of them for the foundation or maintenance of the works of education or charity in the diocese, according as His Grace shall judge suitable.

Art. XI—Secretary-Treasurer.

1. The priest appointed by the Archbishop of St. Boniface to be the diocesan director will also be the Secretary-Treasurer of the Association.

2. He will receive each year, at the beginning of January the sums of money collected by the parish priests or missionaries of the parishes or missions associated with the work and place them at the Archbishopal of St. Boniface.

3. He will keep a book in which he will enter the names of the associated parishes, and the sum received annually from each one.

4. He will furnish to each associated parish the blanks for the receipts that should be delivered for each contribution.

5. He will give to the parish priests of the parishes where the Association is established the sum due to them to defray the expenses of services and burial for deceased associates. But he will only pay this sum on the presentation of the receipt delivered to the deceased member for his last contribution, which receipt must have the certificate of the parish priest of the place attesting the death and burial with the service for the departed.

6. In the case where the receipt given for the last contribution cannot be produced, the certificate of the parish priest, as mentioned above, will suffice, allowed that the claimant for the amount due by the society gives a receipt for the money to be paid him.

7. The Treasurer must keep with care the receipts given to him for money he has paid out.

8. In the month of January every year, he will give a faithful account of the affairs of the society to His Grace the Archbishop of St. Boniface.

Seen and approved.

AN INTERRUPTED MESSAGE.

One afternoon recently two young women entered a drug store where a telephone pay station is located. A solitary clerk, who was in the rear mixing a new headache cure, came forward. With a swish of silk petticoats, one of the young women walked up to him and asked if she might telephone to Cleveland. He gave his consent and went back to his medication. The young woman called central, and said she wished to speak with Mr. Charles Upton, of Cleveland, relates the Detroit Free Press.

"It costs 90 cents to telephone there just for three minutes," she said to her companion while waiting for an answer. "But I can say all I want to in that time, and, cost or no cost, I've simply got to ask Charlie to-day if he'll come to the valentine party. I don't dare to risk a letter for fear that spiteful little Miss Simpson will get in ahead of me. I heard she was planning to write and invite him. Before I ask him, though, I'm going to have a little fun. People say I'm good at disguising my voice, especially over the telephone. I'll wager anything he won't know me."

In a few minutes the bell tinkled. Mr. Upton was at the other end of the line.

"Hello!"
"Is that you, Charlie?"
"Guess who this is?"
"You can't?"
"Oh, yes you can."
"Well, try."
"Oh! just guess."
"Please."

"Agnes Simpson! No, indeed!" (Assuming her ordinary tone).
"What made you think it was Miss Simpson, I'd like to know?"
"You can't think of any one else? Well, it seems very strange you can't recognize my voice." (Special stress on "my.")

"Well, can't you tell me who you think it is?"
"Yes—but you thought quite wrong."

A similar conversation was prolonged for some little time. The clerk in his secluded corner, began to be quite amused. He looked at the clock. Then he went forward again.

"Pardon me, lady," he said, "but your bill is already $2.40. I thought perhaps you—"

"Oh-h!" almost shrieked the young woman as she hung up the receiver with a bang. "Two-dollars—and—forty—cents! Why, it doesn't seem more than a minute, and I never asked him what I wanted to or anything! Come on," turning to her friend.

And as she went putting out of the store she was heard to say:

"Well, I don't care. He was just as mean as he could be not to know my voice at once. I almost believe he didn't want to. He can stay away from the party so far as I am concerned. Miss Simpson is welcome to him."
