The savage is gradually cured of his distrust, and coaxed into new connexions. He abandons the use of his bows, his arrows, and all his former arms, and the result is that he soon becomes an absolute dependent upon those who furnish him his guns, ammunition, fish-hooks, blankets, &c.

FINIS.

REYNELL and WEIGHT, Little Pultoney street, Regent street.

rv) o

ces of Tilkes Thrised in nse of sonal ns to

occuricul-

Bay enfor-

it out sel at

that ating ative

oosts, on of f the

l and abscrvice

ious.