The Musical and Literary Society of Harding Hall, the Athenaia, continues to hold its fortnightly meetings, with increasing rather than diminish-ing interest. Last evening's programme was rendered in a way that showed considerable ability on the part of the performers. There was a short essay by Miss Margaret Barclay, two Friday. Several of the performers readings from "The Mill on the Floss" and "Jane Eyre," by Miss Edna Leonard and Miss Allie Hyman; a piano solo by Miss Annie Woods, and a piano duet by Miss Wells and Miss Reatrice duet by Miss Wells and Miss Beatrice Moule; a recitation by Miss Marjory Pennington, and two French recita-tions by Miss Edna Kent and Miss Marjory Gibbons; and two scenes from 'Cranford," in which the principal characters were taken by Misses Lilian Puddicombe, Isabel Complin, Annie Woods, Mai Mathewson, and Edna Kilgour. Besides these Miss Edith Johnstone, a pupil of Miss Moore at the Conservatory, delighted the society with two songs, clear, sweet, fresh and strong. Several friends of the school were present, and all expressed themselves as much pleased.

PARIS EXPOSITION 1900.

Intending exhibitors are urgently requested to send in their applications for space before June 1. The board of commissioners meet on that date to commence the allotments of space. GARRICK CLUB AT THE GRAND. The Garrick Club, of Hamilton, will appear in a vaudeville performance at the Grand Opera House here next Friday. Several of the performers are popular ex-Londoners, and most of the others are well-known here, socially. The Garrick had already achieved a splendid reputation in repertoire, but this season the enterprising club has startled and dazzled its friends by launching into vaudeville of the most fin de siecle type. The Hamilton press is lavish in praise of the club's recent performance in that city. Of the cakewalk the Hamilton Spectator says: "The cakewalk preceded by the Pas Ma La Minuet, cleverly danced, proved the most elaborate thing of its kind ever given here by amateurs, and it excelled most of the professional cakewalks." Miss Leila Lewis, sister of Julia Arthur is one of the performers.

Y. W. C. A. REPORT FOR APRIL. The total attendance at the Y. W. C. A. rooms for April was 1,359. Of this number 1,044 visited during the day, 590 at the lunch hour and 315 in the evenings. On acount of the warm weather the physical culture and sewing classes were not held. The monthly business meeting of the association was held the first Saturday evening of the month. An exhibition and sale of home made cakes was held, under the auspices of "Summerholm" board to defray expenses on the new verandas on the building at Port Stanley. The idea, being a novel one, caught the popular fancy, and the ladies of the city responded liberally with donations, which were tastefully arranged by the energetic committee in charge. They sold very rapidly, the demand exceeding the supply. As a result of the venture $32 47 was cleared, which, with contributions kindly sent by friends of the cause, will free "Summerholm" of debt. Dr. Bucke kindly gave his lecture on Walt Whitman on the 20th.
The Tuesday evening Bible class was held regularly. The "Whatsoever" Circle of "King's Daughters" met on the first Friday evening. Another evening they gave a tea to the children of the poor families they had helped in the winter. They were also able through the month, to distribute clothing, fruit and provisions.

THE CANADIAN HISTORICAL EX-

HIBITION. All Canadians must feel interested to a large extent in the above great exhibition, which is to take place in Toronto during the last two weeks in June, and every man and woman in our fair Dominion should feel a national pride in the enterprise. Victoria University has extended a most cordial invitation to the historical societies to hold the exhibition within its classic precincts, which invitation has been gladly accepted. The committee feel the advantages of the beautiful college on such an occasion to be many, with its broad staircase, it fine halls, etc., while its easy access by the belt line, all serve to make it most desirable in every way. The nature of articles to be exhibited will be medals, old silver and china, old costumes, furniture, either brought to Canada by the early settlers or made by them, books, charts, manuscripts, indeed, everything that will in any way serve to illustrate the life of the people. The committee also hope to obtain persons to illustrate the early manufactures, etc. Entry forms, to be filled in by exhibitors, can be obtained on application to Miss Fitzgibbon, 1 Avenue Chambers, Toronto, and it is to be hoped that all who are so fortunate as to possess articles of interest to Canadians will at once decide to help on this good and patriotic work by entering their treasures.

SPLENDID TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD

Funeral of the Late Patrick Mulkern Evoked a Popular Demonstration of Sympathy.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Patrick Mulkern were held at St Peter's Cathedral at nine o'clock this morning, in the presence of a congregation that filled the vast cathedral to overflowing. The representative people of London were there, irrespective of creed or class, anxious to pay thir last tribute of respect to the dead, and to show sympathy for the bereaved family. The dim, soft light of the cathedral, contrasting strangely with the bright sunshine without, the black-draped altar, the sad, beautiful music, the solemn mass, and, above all, the great concourse of people, hushed to stiliness in their common grief, made the service wonderfully impressive. Rev. Father Tiernan celebrated solemn requiem mass, and in closing, spoke a few words of consolation to the family and friends of the deceased.

Mr. H. Ruthven McDonald sang "Come Unto Me" very effectively. Mr. J. Coates Lockhart sang Sebach's beautiful funeral hymn, "Pie Jesu," and the choir sang "Messa de Profundus," assisted by Mr. P. J. Watt, As the procession went slowly down the aisle Mrs. Cruickshanks played "The Dead March in Saul." The Irish Benevolent Society was largely represented, and the members of the Middlesex Bar Association were present in a body. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. A. B. Greer, Fred Harper, R. K. Cowan, W. J. Reid, Samuel Munro and Philip Pocock. The funeral took place from the cathedral to the Catholic cemetery.

At a special meeting of the Middlesex Law Association, held at the court house Saturday afternoon, the following resolution, moved by Mr. Hellmuth and seconded by Mr. Flock, was unanimously adopted: "That the members of the Middle-sex Law Association desire to place on record their most profound regret at the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. P. Mulkern. No member of the association had a higher place in the esteem and regard of his fellows, and the loss may be truly said to be a personal one to every member of the Bar of Middlesex. "During the course of an honorable professional career, distinguished alike for the vigor with which he upheld the interests of his clients and the unfailing courtesy which he extended to his professional opponents, Mr. Mulkern won and kept the esteem of all with whom he came in contact, and it is in no perfunctory manner, but from the very heart, that every member of this association can say he has indeed lost a brother. "The members of the association, while they feel it impossible to adequately express the loss that the community and profession have sustained in the recent death of one endowed with such honorable and engaging qualities as the late Patrick Mulkern, desire to express their deep sympathy with his widow and family in their great bereavement.' Judge Edward Elliott occupied the chair in the absence of the president, chair in the absence of the president,

The president said that the object of the meeting was to give the members of the society an opportunity of conveying to the family of Past President Mulkern some expression of the deep sorrow felt at the loss the society had sustained in the death of their past president, and the personal loss the members had suffered in the sudden death of their friend. After remarks from several members, the following resolutions were moved by Ald. McPhillips, seconded by Mr.

L. Fitzgerald: "Whereas, it is with mingled feelings of the deepest sorrow and regret that we, the Irish Benevolent Society of London, have learned of the sudden death of P. Mulkern, Esq., barristerat-law, and past president of the society. "And whereas, he was, during his lifetime, an esteemed and valued member thereof, and in his capacity, both as a private member and as past pre-

SAID FAREWELL

Rev. Ira Smith Preaches at the Talbot Street Church for the Last Time-Left for St. John, N. B., Today.

Talbot Street Church was filled in every part last night to hear the pastor, Rev. Ira Smith, preach his farewell discourse before leaving for St. John, N. B., where he has accepted a call. In opening, the speaker said that he had intended trying to visit all the members of the congregation before Radiator Company, which employs 16 leaving, but it was impossible. had stopped in London a week longer men. Half of this number have been than he had at first intended.

The reverend gentleman took his text engaged by the G. T. R. at Hamilton.

from Revelations xxii., 17: "And the Spirit and the bride say Come." The person speaking was Jesus. should always be glad to find what Jesus said. Jesus had sent forth the Holy Spirit to inhabit believers and to dwell in the church. All gospel preaching and labor eventuates in this one simple expression, "Come." The thought and purpose of the church is that man may learn the value of Christ as a Saviour. The church is like one standing in the wilderness and crying "Come, and I will give you rest." Most of us have been invited to a friend's wedding, and know we have been honored. We arrange our business affairs and little details so that we will reach this function at all costs. The Master of the feast is waiting for all, in answer to his loving invitation. to be a poor beggar, and be starving and naked, and receive this blessed invitation upon the terms on which it is granted, "Come," than have all the wealth in the world without this invitation. Is it not criminal for a man to know of God's love for sinners, and not tell them, if given an opportunity? There are many who have been pro-fessing Christians for 40 years, and never yet tried to tell of Christ's love for sinners. They leave everything to the preacher and the missionaries. The speaker closed with an earnest appeal for those who had not accepted Christ to come and work in his vineyard. At the close of the service a hearty pastor and congregation. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family left on the 2:10 train for the east this afternoon. There was a large party at the depot to bid them Godspeed on their journey.

Rev. Donald Grant, B.A., of Montreal, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday at both services.
