GROCERIES MARKET. The following comment on the market situation as regards food stuffs appeared in Canadian Grocer last week: In the search for canned goods at earlier prices one Montreal firm this week secured 5,000 cases of Spanish canned tomatoes in the 2-1/2 lb. size. Considerable quantities of American canned goods are coming into Canada. There is a good demand for most lines of canned goods despite the high prices prevailing. Prices generally are firm with a tendency to higher prices on corn. Flour registered a decline, but went back again to the level of last week. Sugar has held steady with a slightly better consumption noted in certain quarters. Canadian beet root sugar is now on the market in competition with the cane sugar. Butter, cheese and eggs have all registered advances. Lard has also advanced a quarter of a cent. There seems small prospect in sight for easier prices in these commodities for some time to come. Butter is expected to go to much higher levels. American butter is looked upon as a probable factor in the Canadian market in the near future. Cooked meats, such as hams, have registered a decline of one cent per pound. Heavy summer consumption is now over and prices are easier as result. All dried fruits are holding firm with a tendency toward higher prices in prunes. Currants from Greece are not expected to be in this market in time for the Christmas trade. Relief is anticipated from shipments of Australian currants now on the way, due to arrive about December 10. Peas are firm with advances recorded in some of the grades. Tapioca continues to be scarce on spot and prices are accordingly high. Beans are firm with advances in Indians recorded.
