

Every Member of Your Family Can Be A Master Musician!

That statement sounds a little exaggerated, doesn't it? But nevertheless, it is perfectly true. "Every member of your family can be a master musician." How? Simply put a

Sherlock-Manning 20th Century Player-Piano "Canada's Biggest Piano Value"

in your home. It will be a delight for the whole household—for many years to come. The Sherlock-Manning Player-Piano has the Otto Higel Mechanism—the newest and best player mechanism produced, and is controlled so easily that the tiniest child can render correctly any musical composition. Two notable features of the Sherlock-Manning Player-Piano are the Solodant (which subdues the accompaniment to the melody—brings out the theme—or correctly accents the melody), and the Tempo-Aid (which translates into the music each touch of emotion on the part of the performer). We can save you $100 on the purchase of a player-piano. You owe it to yourself and family to investigate this superb instrument before purchasing elsewhere. In The Midst Of War's Alarms Patriotism takes no account of consequences. But, "consequences" are vital—just as vital to the man who must stay at home as to him who goes to defend his country's honor. Prudent men protect their families against these "consequences" by means of life insurance.

An Imperial Income Policy will enable you to provide that, in the event of your early death, a definite, dependable, monthly income will be paid to your widow as long as she lives, or to your children until all of them are old enough to be self-supporting.

Chapter XVII.

Some of the sunshine that had helped dry the muddy road, making possible the path between Jack's abode and MacFarlane's hired villa—where there was only room for Miss Felicia, Peter still occupying the cell at Mrs. Hick's, but taking his meals with Ruth, so that he could be within call of MacFarlane when needed—some of this same sunshine. I say, may have been responsible for the drying up of Ruth's tears and the establishing of various ways of communication between two hearts that had for some days been floundering in the deeps. Or, perhaps, the rebound may have been due to the fact that Peter had whispered something in Jack's ear, or that Ruth had overheard Miss Felicia praising Jack's heroism to her father—it was common talk everywhere—or it may have been that the coming of spring which always brings hope and cheer—making old into new, may have led to the general lighting up of the gloom that had settled over the house of MacFarlane and its dependents; but certain is it that such was the case.

MacFarlane began by taking a sudden change for the better—so decided a change that he was out of his room and dressed on the fifth day (although half his coat hid his broken arm, tightly bandaged to his side). He had even walked as far as the geraniums in the window, through which he could not only see Jack's hotel, but the big "earth fill" and mouth of The Beast beyond.

Then Bolton surprised everybody by appearing outdoors, his hand alone in a sling. What was left of the poor shanty men, too, had been buried, the dreadful newspaper articles had ceased, and work was again in full blast.

Jack, to be sure, was still in his room, having swallowed more gas and smoke than the others, badly scorching his insides, as he had panted under the weight of MacFarlane's body. The crisis, however, brought on by his imprudence in meeting Ruth at the station, had passed, and even he was expected to be out in a few days.

As for Miss Felicia, although she had blown hot and blown cold on Ruth's heart, until that delicate instrument stood at zero one day and at fever heat the next, she had, on the whole kept up an equable temperature, and meant to do so until she shook the dust of Corkleville from her dainty feet and went back to the clean, moist bricks of her garden.

And as for Peter! Had he not been a continuous joy, cheering everybody; telling MacFarlane funny stories until that harassed invalid laughed himself, unconscious of the pain to his arm; bringing roses for the prim, wizened-up Miss Bolton, that she might have a glimpse of something fresh and alive while she sat by her brother's bed. And last, and by no means least, had he not the morning he had left for New York, his holiday being over, taken Ruth in his arms and putting his lips close to her ear, whispered something into its pink shell that had started northern lights dancing all over her cheeks and away up to the roots of her hair; and had she not given him a good hug and kissed him in return, a thing she had never done in her whole life before?

Money in Mushrooms

Good Income in Spare Time—Easy Work

Mr. A. V. Jackson has taught over 50,000 people how to grow mushrooms successfully. Good incomes are made. One customer with $2.00 worth of spawn sold $56 worth of mushrooms. Another invested $75 (entire outlay) and raised $680 worth. Hundreds of testimonials can be given if desired.

Mushrooms can be grown in spare time in your own home, in cellars, sheds, chicken-houses, etc. They sell for 50c. to $1.00 a pound, and from 50 to 100 pounds can be grown on a single bed. Yet the spawn (or seed) for that bed would cost only $2.00. Mr. Jackson's instructions are followed in State Agricultural Colleges. The biggest crop ever grown were raised from his spawn and by his scientific methods. He manages the largest mushroom plant in the world, the Falmouth Mushroom Cellars, built at a cost of $150,000. Beginners using his instructions often have better success than old growers who follow other methods. It is an easy, fascinating, healthful and profitable occupation.

Mr. Jackson's book, "Money in Mushrooms," will be sent upon request. It tells exactly how to start, cost, etc.
