SLEEPY TOWN.

Over the hills where the sun goes down
There lies the wonderful Sleepy Town.
And O, such a fanciful sight you'll see
If only you'll come and go with me.
We will start away when the twilight falls,
And the lone bird high in the treetop calls.

Over the hills when the red glow fades,
We'll sail through the night's deep falling shades,
And there at the peep of the ghostly moon
I'll rock and I'll sing you a tender croon.
And no one will come but the sandman true,
For he only cares for me and you.

Over the hills when the big stars blink
And the little ones look through the dark and wink.
When the toys are asleep in the corner tight,
To wait till the gleam of the morning light,
We will rock and we'll rock in your wee white gown
Till we rock straight off to Sleepy Town.

Over the hills—then come to my arms
And we'll sail to the land past the fears and harms;
Come with your lips and your tousled head,
And we'll get in the boat called Trundle Bed.
Come, for the gates have been all let down,
And we'll go to the place called Sleepy Town.

REFUGE.

"Where swallows and wheat fields are,
O hamlet brown and still,
O river that shineth far,
By meadow, pier and mill.

"O endless sun-steeped plain,
With forests in dim blue shrouds,
And little wisps of rain
Falling from far-off clouds.

"I come from the choking air
Of passion, doubt, and strife,
With a spirit and mind laid bare
To your healing breath of life:

"O fruitful and sacred ground,
O sunlight and summer sky,
Absorb me and fold me round,
For broken and tired am I."

—Archibald Lampman.

THE FARTHER HILLS.

The clouds upon the mountain rest;
A gloom is on the autumn day;
But down the valley, in the west,
The sudden sunlight breaks its way—
A light lies on the farther hills.
Forget thy sorrow, heart of mine!
Though shadows fall and fades the leaf,

Somewhere is joy, though 'tis not thine;
The power that sent can heal thy grief,
And light lies on the farther hills.
Thou wouldst not with the world be one
If ne'er thou knewest hurt and wrong;
Take comfort, though the darkened sun
Never again bring gleam or song—
The light lies on the farther hills.

—Richard Watson Gilder.

THE AUTOMOBILE FOREVER.

The farmers aren't having all the fun out of the automobile. Listen to this from Tit-Bits:

"My brother bought a motor here last week," said an angry man to a salesman who stepped up to greet him, "and he said if anything broke you would supply him with new parts."

"Certainly," said the salesman.

"What does he want?"

"He wants two deltoid muscles, a couple of knee caps, one elbow and about half a yard of cuticle," said the man; "and he wants them at once."—[Edworth Era.

The habit of looking at the best side of any event is worth far more than a tin of sand pounds a year.—Dr. Johnson.

Lord Kames was judge of a circuit court. Erskine was attorney for the defendant, whose name was Tickle. He began his plea: "Tickle, my client, my Lord—"

"Tickle him yourself, Harry. You are as able to do it as I am," said Kames.

Recently a very suspicious countryman went to New York to see the sights. Coming to the Metropolitan Museum, he was amazed to find that the admission to this splendid building cost nothing. He mounted the steps and entered.

"Your umbrella, sir," said a uniformed official, extending his hand.

The countryman jerked back his umbrella, laughed scornfully, and turned on his heel. "I knowed there was some cheat about it when ye got in free," he said.

"A commonplace life," we say, and we sigh;

But why should we sigh as we say?
The commonplace sun in the commonplace sky,
Makes up the commonplace day;

The moon and the stars are commonplace things,
And the flowers that bloom, and the bird that sings;

But dark were the world, and sad our lot
If the flowers failed and the sun shone not;
And God, who studies each separate soul,
Out of commonplace lives makes his beautiful whole.

—Susan Coolidge.

Anent the draft-horse competition at the International Show in London, Sporting Sketches of June 15th says: Messrs. Armour exercised sound judgment in not sending their pair of greys into the ring in the draft-horse class, in which they would not have had the ghost of a chance of beating Mr. Spark's browns, Messrs. Guinness' bays, or the entries of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company. Your report in this week's issue reads as though they swept the boards. Their successes were only in classes suitable for advertising purposes, where their number (six), color, matching, etc., counted for everything.

A certain judge cites a striking example of the sort of spoke which the trickster can surreptitiously insert in the wheels of justice. A witness testified in a recent case that a person named Mary was present when a particular conversation took place, and the question was asked, "What did Mary say?" This was objected to, and after some discussion the judge ruled out the question. An "exception" to this decision was immediately taken, and on appeal the higher court reversed the verdict and ordered a new trial on the ground that the question should have been answered. At the second trial the same inquiry was propounded and elicited the information that Mary said nothing!

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, of the board of governors of New York's woman's club, the Colony, was discussing the question of the club's liquor license.

"It is rather a matter of indifference to us," she said, "whether we get a license or not. Women, you know, are not given to drinking. They are too careful of their appearance. They desire to remain slim and fresh, and wine, as you know, tends to make us coarse and stale and fat."

"So, if we had a license, I think we should sell little. It would not be with us as with a farmer I once met in Scotland."

"Travelling in the Scottish highlands one summer, I stopped at a farmhouse for a cup of milk, and the view from the door was so lovely that I said to the farmer:

"Oh, what a superb place to live in!"

"Oo, aye," he answered, in conventional Scot, "it's a' richt; but hoo wad ye like, ma'am, to hae to walk fifteen mile ilka time ye wanted a bit glass o' whiskey?"

"Oh, well," said I, "why don't you get a demijohn of whiskey and keep it in the house?"

He shook his head, sadly.

"Whiskey," he said, "won't keep."

A Grand Cure

FOR SUMMER COMPLAINT
AND CRAMPS

IS
EXTRACT OF

WILD STRAWBERRY

It is nature's specific for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Sea Sickness, Summer Complaint, etc.

Rapid and reliable in its action.

Its effects are marvellous, and it is pleasant and harmless to take.

It has been a household remedy for sixty-two years.

Refuse substitutes. They are dangerous.

Mrs. Wm. Flewelling, Arthur, Ont., writes: "I find it much pleasure to recommend Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY as a grand cure for Summer Complaint. My little boy, one year old, was very bad with it, and a few doses cured him. I also used it on my other six children for cramps and still have half the bottle left. I cannot praise it too much."
