CATHOLIC RECORD. THE

hold no place in a representative body of men styling themselves Christians. Many of these clergymen there are, we regret to say, the most notable being conflict. Drs. Carman and McVicar. For politeness' sake we have called them extrem ists. Would it not be well to deprive such men of any representative capacity? The conferences would be all the better for their absence.

IT 18 stated that Lord Houghton, the Viceroy of Ireland, has been subjected to a stringent boycott by the Unionist nobility ever since his appointment, by their refusal to attend and grace the court in Dublin. His Lordship might well have treated the boycotters with contempt, but it is also said that the Queen has encouraged the Unionist Lords in their curious course, and has thus made Lord Houghton feel the hardship of his position. The Queen is said to be as much opposed to Irish Home Rule as even Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour, and it is attributed to this fact that Lord Houghton is the nominee of the Liberal Government that the boycott has been established. If his Lordship bears up with the trials to which he has been subjected, he will, no doubt, survive them ; but it is said that he has become tired of the situation. If this be the case, it were better that a more strong-minded viceroy be appointed in his stead.

IT is reported that Turkish troops have been sent into Bulgaria to assert the sovereignty of the Sultan. Bulgaria was delivered to a certain extent from Turkish rule after the Bulgarian atrocities, through the Russo-Turkish war, but the Turkish Suzerainty was still kept up and acknowledged by a payment of tribute, and a garrison of Turkish police. It is through an atrocious murder by one of these policeman that the present difficulty arises. The policeman murdered a young woman on the eve of her intended marriage, and a riot ensued, in which several Turkish policemen were killed and also some Bulgarians, who took up the cause of their murdered countrywoman. The Turkish Gov ernment sides with its police, and an unequal war is threatened. In the face of the still unatoned Armenian massacres, this last move of the Turk is certainly not lacking in boldness nor in impudence; but it does not appear that he will be allowed to tyrannize ever the Christian provinces tyrannize ever the Christian provinces at will much longer. The line has been passed beyond which forbearance is to be regarded as a virtue, and to all appearance he will be brought to task for his shortcomings within a few days. THE Street Railway Company of St Louis, which was recently compelled to dismiss seventeen Apaist conductors for pilfering, has followed up its action by dismissing all the A. P. A. men who had been employed by it. In doing this they were compelled to dismiss nearly all their conductors, as the A. P. A. had managed to get the railway completely under their control. The cause of this further action of the com-nany was that they discovered that the at will much longer. The line has been passed beyond which forbearance is to be regarded as a virtue, and to church, in that town, occurred June 9. Rev. Edward Horan Murray, rector of St. Michael's church, Cobourg, Ont., was born in the city of Quebec, March 27, 1843. His parents were Hugh and Henrietta (Horan) Murray. The former was a wholesale merchant, a member of Quebec City Council, and one of the founders of St. Patrick's church of that place. Our subject received his primary education from English tutors at private schools. He took Greek and Latin at Regiopolis College, Kingston ; Natural Science at Laval University, Quebec, and Theol-ogy at the Grand Seminary in that city. Father Murray was ordained in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, Dec. 30, 1866, by his uncle, the late Bishop His two first years were spent Horan. His two first years were spent as R. C. Chaplain to the British troops then stationed at Kingston.

In September, 1869, he became rec-tor of the parish of Wolfe Island, where he erected a handsome and commodious church, and remained six years. In 1875 he was named to the pastorate of Michael's, to which the Catholics of that Kemptville and Mountain, where he labored most acceptably until 1879, with such ardent wishes.

the Chatham Planet of June 20:

The following report is copied from

PROGRAMME.

THE BISHOP. The Bishop presented all prizes, and this occasion will be a day to be remembered by the medalists who knelt to receive at his hands their respective rewards of merit. At the close of the programme his Lord-ship Bishop O'Connor briefly addressed the pupils.

ship Bishop O'Connor briefly addressed the pupils. This Lordship extended his most hearty congratulations to all prize-winners who, he felt assured, by positive merit had proven themselves well worthy their honors. Great praise, he said, was due to "The Pines" and its conductors as well as to those who have made such good use of their opportun-ities during the year just closed. The Bishop urged all to renewed efforts during the coming term. He would, he said, im-press upon the graduates that the commonly received opinion of a graduate that tage where, such tail and had no more to learn-was a grievous mistake. Graduates have, said His Lorship, just reached that stage where, with their lives before them, they are sent out into the world prepared to learn the lessoos of life. Their education has but be-gun.

His Lordship drew attention to the fact that, in the musical drama presented, Light-heart, the heroine, had chosen wisely, as he-hoped all present would do, and allied her-self with Celesia and her forces. But he noticed that when she had made this choice, the Dwellers in the Valley soon left her un-molested. It is, however, quite otherwise in life; and the Christian would find that the allorements of the w-rid beset her path to the very end. Referring to a clause in the vale-dictory, His Lordship remarked that, while he had naught to say against woman's rights, he would remind the young ladies the right to do her duty as a womanly woman, which is for her the attainment of the highest de-gree of perfection. Bishop O'Connor closed, with an invocation of the Divine blessing upon the pupils. TRIUMPITS OF ART.
