There is an Intimate Connection Between Good Health, Happiness and Good Digestion-Dr. Williams'Pink Pills Bring About These Conditions

(From the Tribune, Deseronto.) Without good digestion there can be neither good health nor happiness. More depends upon the perfect working of the digestive organs than most people imagine, and even slight functional disturbances of the stemach tional disturbances of the stemach leaves the victim irritable, melancholy and apathetic. In such cases most people resert to laxative medicines, but these only further aggravate the trouble. What is needed is a tonic; something that will build up taxing unmercifully (without representation) the English and American tonic; something that will build up the system, instead of weakening it as purgative medicines do. For this ose there is no medicine equal to Williams' Pink Pills. They enrich the blood and strengthen and stimu-late the digestive tract from first dose to last. In proof of this asser-tion the case of Mr. Thomas A. Stewart, the well-known and genial proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, Deseronto, may be quoted. To a reporter of the Tribune, who identioned the of the Tribune, who continued the fact that he was suffering from dyspepsia, Mr. Stewart said: "Why don't pepsin, Mr. Stewart said: "Why don't you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?" Asked why he gave this advice, Mr. Stewart continued: "Simply because Stewart continued: "Simply because they are the best medicine for that complaint I know of. For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, and during that time I think I tried a score of medicines. In some cases I got temporary relief, but not a cure. On the recommendation of a friend I began using Dr. Wil-liams' Fink Pills a little over a year ago. I soon experienced relief and no longer dreaded meal time, but as I was determined that the cure should be permanent if possible, I continued taking the pills in slight doses for several months. The result is every vestige of the trouble left me, and I have as good an appetite now as any boarder in the house, and my digestive organs work like a charm, I may also add that my general health was greatly improved as a result of using

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THEM.

There is no easy method of preventing the damage done by clothes moths ing the damage done by clothes moths, and to maintain the integrity of woollens or other materials which they are likely to attack demands constant vigilance, with frequent inspection and treatment. In general, they are liable to affect injuriously only articles which are put away and left undisturbed for some little time. Articles in daily or weekly use, and apartments frequently aired and swept, or used as living rooms, are not apt to be seriously affected. Carpets under these conditions are rarely attacked, except sometimes around the borders, where the insects are not so much disturbed by walking and sweeping. Agitation, such as beating, shaking or brushing, and exposure to air and sunlight, are old remedies and still among the best at command. Various repellants, such as tobacco, camphor, naphthaline cones or balds, and ceder chips or sprigs, have a certain value if the garments are not already stocked with eggs or larvae. The odors of these repellants are so disagreeable to the parent moths that they are not apt to come to deposit their eggs as long as the odor is strong. As it weakens the protection decreases, and if the eggs or larvae are already present these odors have no effect on their development; while if the moths are inclosed with the stored material to be protected by these repellants, so that and to maintain the integrity of while it the moths are inclosed with the stored material to be projected by these repellants, so that they cannot escape, they will of necessity deposit their eggs, and the destruc-tive work of the larvae will be little, if at all restricted

I at all, restricted.
Absolutely the first requisite is to make sure that the garment is free from the moth eggs when it is put away. This is not secured by a few shakes out of a window and a surface brushing. The garment should be shaken and brushed, indeed, and then carefully examined, in every part, in a strong light. Folds and gathers should be penetrated, pockets turned inside out, lapels and revers opened, trimmings carefully examined, torn linings probed, and examined, torn linings probed, and in fact the most vigilant looking over possible given before the garment is carefully put up in fresh newspapers. Don't pull a newspaper out of a bureau drawer, or from a closet shelf, as moth eggs may be closet shelf, as moth eggs may be hidden in its folds. The next step in the treatment is to look earefully into the condition of the shelves, or drawers, that are to receive the newspaper parcels. These also should be examined in a good light, brushed out and wined over with a slight. be examined in a good light. Brushed out and wiped over with a slightly damp cloth, and, if suspected in any way, brushed over with a paint brush dipped in turpentine.

After woollens have been given a vigorous and thorough treatment and aired and exposed to sunlight, lowever it is of some advantage in however, it is of some advantage packing them away to inclose with them any of the repellants mention-ed. Cedar chests and wardrobes are of value in proportion to the fre dom of the material from infestation when stored away; but, as the odor of the wood is largely lost with age, in the course of a few years the protection greatly decreases. Fursanid such garmeats may also be stored in boxes or trunks which have been lined with the heavy tar paper used in buildings. New papering should be given to such receptacles every year or two. Similarly, the tarred paper moth bags are of some value: always, however, first subjecting the materials to the treatment outlined above.

To protect carp ts, clothes and dom of the material from infestatio

To protect carp to clothes and clothesovered furniture, furs, etc., they should be thoroughly beaten, shaken, brushed and exposed as long as practicable to the smilight in early spring, either in April, May or June, depending on the latitude. The brushing of carments is a very important conng on the latitude. The brushing of garments is a very important con salvention, to remove the eggs or comp larvae which might escape otice. Such material can then be ung away in clothes closets which have been thoroughly cleaned and, if have been thoroughly cleaned and, if heceessary, sprayed (with henzine about the cracks of the floor and the base-boards. If no other protection he given, they should be examined at least once a month, during summer, brushed, and, if necessary, exposed to the sunlight. It would be more convenient, however, to so inclose or wrap up such material as to prevent the access of the moths to it, after it has once been thoroughly treated and aired. This can be easily effected in the case of can be easily effected in the case of clothing and furs by wrapping them up tightly in stout paper or inclosing them in well-made bags of cotton or linen cloth or strong paper. Dr. Howard has adopted a plan which is inexpensive, and which he has found eminently satisfactory. For a small sum he secured a number of the large pasteboard boxes, such as tailors use, and in these packs away all winter clothing, gumming a strip of wrapping paper around the edge, so as to seal up the box completely and leave no cracks. These boxes with care will last many years. With thorough pre-up the box completely and leave no cracks. These boxes with care will last many years. With thorough preliminary treatment it will not be necessary to use the tar-impregnated paper sacks sold as moth protectors, which may be objectionable on account of the door.

In the case of cloth-covered furniture and cloth-lined carriages, which are stored or left unused for considerable periods in summer, it will probably be necessary to spray them twice or three times, viz., in April, June and August, with benzine or applied very readily with any small spraying device, and will not harm the material, but caution must be exercised on account of their inflammability. Another means of protecting such articles is to spouge them very carefully with a dilute solution of corrosive sublimate in alcehol made just strong enough not to leave a white stain.

The Army in the Field.

The layman cannot easily realize the vast amount of material as to food and ammunition demanded by an army in the field, A few facts and figures as to this may aid to make it more tangible. Each man requires, at a mintangible. Each man requires, at a min-imum, three pounds and a half of food per day. Each animal should have at least twenty pounds of food in coun-tries where grazing is not abundant. If we take, for purposes of estimate, only fifteen pounds required to supply each animal, leaving five pounds to be gathered from the country, by grazrathered from the country, by grazing and otherwise, we assume a quantity that may be considered a minimum. An army of 150,000 men would require about 50,000 animals for transportation of artillery, camp equipment, animunition, food, hospital and medical equipment. There should not be less than 10,000 animals availwhich call times to grantly losses. This not be less than 10,000 animals available.at all times to supply losses. This makes a total of 90,000 animals to be fed. With this as a basis, we see that the daily demands would be for the men 525,000 pounds, and for the horses 1,350,000 pounds, or an aggregate of 1,875,000 pounds.
