National Slavery.

ARCHDRACON FABRIL.

How can we free a nation, which will take no trouble to free itself from its deadly incubus?

before the lion of tyranny, and we cover before the foul wolf of the drink traffic.

national conscience, we could point you to mountain loads of it in the Blue books of our Parliament to prove the intolerable and interminable curse caused by the present horrible multiplicity of temptations to drink.

ways be proportioned to the multitude of devils who tempt, and another generation of those, now young and innocent, is growing up to singe itself miserably to death in this accursed flame.

hundreds and thousands of fair human souls perish morally, socially, physically, spiritually, through drink, simply because we are too cowardly and too little Christian to overthrow the vested interests in human ruin!

Oh, when those who are most guilty of this massacre of souls stand before the judgment seat of God, will not the angels of those lost little ones "plod" trumpet-tongued against the deep damnation of their taking off?

"You 'pester,' 'foments,' 'England free to England sober.' Do you ever seek your self what you mean by that immortal nonsense? You prefer England under the shameful servitude of a destroying yoke to England under the noble freedom of righteous law.

It is in the sacred name of freedom we plead. In the freedom you desire the odious liberty to singe yourself to death in every flame!

Is your freedom the freedom for the masses to steal, gamble, and cheat, and commit murder, and drink themselves to death? We ask you in God's name, is that devilish bondage the thing which you prefer to beneficent Christian laws?

We do not want mudsill and bludgeoning freedom which hangs her shield on the sign-post of gin-palaces. We want freedom for the right, which means suppression of wrong; liberty for virtue, which means prison bars for crime.

Give us this, and in ten years' time, with the drink fiend buried from the throne, England would be such a paradise that you would hardly recognize her from what she now is.

I might go on to show that this curse and shame of the whole world is destroying the hopes of Christianity, deterring the advance of Christ's kingdom, for which we pretend to cry. If there be any sincerity in us, if there be any piety in us, if we do care to make England one whit more like Christ would have it be; if we had the least regard for all those perishing souls; if our prayer, "Thy Kingdom come," be anything but hypocrisy, let us, at least combine to drive this curse from the midst of us.

If we do not, our criminal sinfulness cannot be condoned forever, and we shall deserve, and we shall reap the wrath of an offending God.

From the Shelburne Economist. Many of the readers of the Economist have doubtless been impressed to a certain extent by the reports of miscellaneous cures effected in various parts of the country by the intelligent use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and yet in the minds of a few there may linger just the shadow of a doubt regarding the veracity of these reports.
