GERMANY'S INTENTIONS.

From London, Washington and Berlin come stories that Germany will give a satisfactory reply to the United States regarding her submarine policy and the acts of her submarine commanders as they affect the American people. The impression seems to be that the German war lords have realized that they have strained American patience to the limit, and that the time has come for them to order an abatement of their policy of frightfulness and disregard of the consequences of some of their acts. Contrary to all expectations, and to the whole of their conduct since the war began, they are inclined to substitute reason and meekness for bombast and arrogance in their dealings with the United States. If any Americans were injured in the sinking of the Arabic it was not the intention of the German government, and presumably the commander of the submarine is to be made the scapegoat. Moreover passenger liners are not to be sunk without warning, and without provision being made for the safety of its passengers.

If Germany should reply to President Wilson in this strain and along these lines then there is something else in the wind. The explanation concerning the Arabic is neither true nor honest. It is surely ridiculous to state that if any Americans were hurt in the sinking of the Arabic it was not the intention of the German government. The statement as it stands does not mean anything at all. Germany has never agreed to President Wilson's claims for the rights of Americans on the high seas. She has never even consented to modify her submarine policy while yet the point was in dispute between the two countries. The Arabic is not the first liner her submarines have attacked without warning since the Lusitania outrage. The Orduna, another passenger steamer, outward bound from Liverpool to New York, escaped the same fate by a matter of only a few feet. The excuse now offered in the case of the Arabic altogether overlooks the attack made against the Orduna. And in the case of the Lusitania, the outrage was committed in spite of the solemn warning of the United States government that in the event of damage to American property or loss of American lives, resulting from German submarine warfare upon peaceful merchantmen, Germany would be held to a strict accountability. In every act and word since, Germany has defied the United States, and in spite of protests amounting almost to ultimatums, has continued her submarine warfare. What then has caused the change in her tone and attitude and disposed her to concede American demands after her murder of American citizens?

There are two or three facts which may account for it. The first is the exposure of German plots and conspiracies in America itself is not calculated to lengthen American patience. The effects these exposures may be expected to have on the American temper can be gathered from the outburst of ex-President Roosevelt. For the next few weeks, whatever takes place the German-American is likely to find himself very unpopular in the States except in strong German settlements. The Imperial government has been brought face to face with the realization that it has gone too far in America itself as well as against Americans on the high seas. Then again a big change has taken place in the military situation, very much to the advantage of Germany. She now holds the bigger part of Poland, has a strong grip on the Baltic provinces, and is even threatening to move against Petrograd. On the west front she still holds Belgium and the richest part of the north of France. She may well think that now is the time to seek peace, and in any efforts she may take toward this she would undoubtedly benefit from the good will of a neutral power such as the United States. We do not mean to infer that any terms Germany has fought herself into such a position that she can afford to turn to the allies and ask them if they have had enough, and she can do this better with the United States not numbered among her enemies. First of all however, Germany has got to satisfy the United States, and she has now gone so far in her arrogance and defiance that she may have a much more difficult task before her than she imagines.

Kidney Trouble?

The waste material which the kidneys are intended to remove from the blood, if allowed to accumulate in the system, poison the blood and thus produce deleterious effects.

If from over-work, exposure to cold, or some local injury, the kidneys become congested or inflamed, and cannot perform their functions, the system becomes filled with uric poisons.

Whenever a dull, heavy pain is felt over the region of the kidneys for any length of time, accompanied by a sallow complexion, loss of appetite, decrease of weight, and a puffy condition under the eyes and in the ankles, a chronic inflammation of the kidneys must be suspected, and if not relieved promptly chronic Bright's Disease will certainly develop.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt, sold everywhere at 25c and 60c which is a Diuretic as well as an Aperient, will carry out of the system the poisonous material which the kidneys cannot get rid of, and will relieve the congestion of the kidneys.

RUSSIAN SUCCESES IN THE CAUCASUS

Petrograd, Aug. 27.—The following official communication was issued today at the headquarters of the army of the Caucasus. In the coastal region on Wednesday our scouts crossing the Arkhave river, destroyed a Turkish blockade by means on hand grenades.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The War Office tonight issued the following official communication: "On a great many points of the front our artillery has concentrated on the German position a very heavy fire. To the north of Arras German trenches have been upset and a munition depot destroyed. Between the Somme and Oise German encampments have been shelled. The enemy fired at long range seven shells on the city of Compeigne, causing some damage and killing a nurse and seriously wounding another nurse."

EYES AND THEIR

RELATION TO HEALTH

That many forms of ill health result from eye strain has been preached through the press. Demonstrated by the writer and relieved and prevented by the scientific application of glasses by Dr. McKay Jordan during the past twenty years of his practice as an eye sight specialist.

Today the above statement is confirmed by the world's greatest authorities, such as Dr. Geo. M. Gould Philadelphia; Dr. A. M. Ramsey, A. M. M. D., New York; Dr. W. B. Needles Kansas City, Mo., and others of note to the effect that eye strain, not over work, nor over nor under eating, or any of a hundred other absurd reasons, is the primary cause of a vast number of physical and mental ills hitherto unrecognized in this connection. Dr. Gould further stated that 90 per cent of all headaches, digestion, nervous and mental disorders are due to eye strain. Mark what this says, "Are" due to eye strains not "may" be due. There are no ifs and ands; you will observe. Here is a positive statement. The specialist worthy the name does not require any information from you, other than what is shown by your eyes from his examination to accurately diagnose all reflex troubles arising from defective eyes. If he cannot he is not a fit man to entrust your eyes to, irrespective of any claims he or his friends may make.

Note this: No man dare make the above statement unless prepared to back it up by deeds. I am prepared to prove its truth to any who apply Saturday in my office, Free Press Block, Nanaimo, B. C.

TEN NANAIMOITES IN CYCLIST PLATOON

British Columbia has been asked to supply a platoon of cyclists for overseas service. Col. Ogilvie, the D. O. C., already has taken action, and, as a result of his advice, has informed the department that the corps will be ready in the course of a week or so. It will consist of thirty N. C. O.'s men and one officer, and, in all probability, will proceed East with the detachments which now are waiting instructions to move from the Vernon concentration camp.

Lieut. Cameron, of Vancouver, has been chosen to command the corps. Ten men of the Corps of Guides, Nanaimo, have been selected, and the remainder are to be recruited in Vancouver and Victoria. As there are few vacancies, those who would prefer entering this branch of the service will have to place their applications before the authorities without loss of time.

It was announced yesterday that recruits are wanted for the Royal Canadian Regiment, and that men wishing to join should present themselves at headquarters, Work Point barracks, Victoria.

The enlistment for the 6th Battalion, "Western Scots" is proceeding satisfactorily.

No word has been received, as yet, as to when the Corps of Pioneers will resume enrolling men.

he found in the wide-spread idea in Britain that the German government by this time has come to a realization that the attempted submarine blockade of the British coast is a game not worth the candle.

The British admiralty's defence measures have been increased continuously and improved, and it is asserted that they now are so nearly perfect that Germany's offensive in this particular respect is restricted to a degree which places the Von Tirpitz-Reventlow school in a quandary.

The deluded German public still holds the belief that the submarine blockade is causing immeasurable damage to Great Britain. The claims made in the German press regarding the thinning of British shipping by the submarine arm are extravagant boasts intended for German consumption. The time must come when these claims will be regarded with suspicion in Germany. The German naval department then would find an explanation difficult. From between the horns of this impending dilemma, according to argument advanced here, the threatened rupture with the United States affords an issue. The German government is in a position to justify in the eyes of its own people a modification of the submarine campaign by an alleged unwillingness to run further risks of offending a great neutral power like the United States.

The belief in Britain, of course, is that the German government would disregard the American protests entirely if its submarine blockade policy was producing the results that were expected from it. As it is not producing anything like the results that were expected, Germany will "magnanimously" modify or abandon it in deference to American indignation. The common report in usually well informed quarters is that the toll of German submarines taken by the British defensive methods now exceeds half a hundred; and even assuming that Germany can turn out new "U" boats every week, her strength in this respect is on a diminishing scale, particularly when the question of supply of trained submarine crews is considered.

On the grounds indicated it is confidently believed that Germany will make a virtue of necessity, and will acquiesce in President Wilson's demand. Of course, it is expected that Berlin will first exhaust every method of argument and discussion, and will abandon her declared policy of submarine blockade only if the American government preserves a firm attitude.

PULVERIZED COAL MAY RIVAL OIL AS FUEL

With a view of testing the possibilities of utilizing pulverized coal as fuel for marine boilers, the Pacific Coast Steamship Company plans to charter a vessel with which to conduct a series of elaborate experiments. Powdered or pulverized coal is used by a number of the large Eastern transportation systems and has been found to be superior to other forms of coal fuel, but it has never been tested in marine boilers.

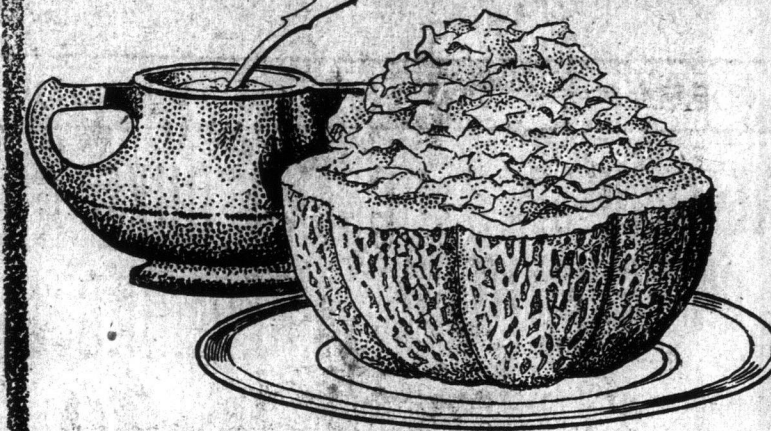

The experiments will be the first of the kind ever held at sea. While the success of the fuel on railroads would seem to forecast success in steamships, conditions on land and sea are radically different.

News of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's plan has been given out by Captain F. Blain, assistant manager of the steamship corporation. The records of the Eastern railroads show that pulverized coal produces more steam than coal in its ordinary form, and that smoke is eliminated. Dust and ashes are carried off in the exhaust and there is a saving of 15 to 20 per cent in the quantity of coal consumed, complete consumption taking place.

As in the case of oil fuel, a strong artificial draft is necessary. Grates, ashpans, smokebox netting, spark hoppers, firing tools, squirt hoses and the like are eliminated.

As explained by Captain Blain, the pulverized coal is fed into a blower by a gravity conveyor. The blower shoots it into the firebox, where air combustion takes place in much the same way as in oil-burning boilers. As the cheapest grades of coal can be utilized in the pulverized form, it is believed that if the tests prove successful the new fuel will become a serious competitor of oil. The oil-burning installation on steamships, states Captain Blain, could probably be used in most part for burning pulverized coal.

Keen interest has been aroused in shipping circles by preliminary reports of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's plan to hold the tests.

Food for the Business Trenches

It takes the highest type of nerve and endurance to stand the strain at the battle front of modern business.

Many fail. And often the cause is primarily a physical one—improper food—malnutrition. It is a fact that much of the ordinary food is lacking in certain elements—the mineral salts—which are essential to right building of muscle, brain and nerve tissue.

Grape-Nuts

made of whole wheat and barley, contains these priceless nerve- and brain-building elements in highest degree.

Grape-Nuts food is easy to digest—nourishing—economical—delicious, and as a part of the menu of modern business men and women helps wonderfully in building up the system for strenuous demands—and keeping it there.
