Mother

"California Syrup of Figs" is Child's Best Laxative

Beware! Say "California" or you may not get the genuine "California Syrup of Figs" which doctors recommend for babies and children of all ages. Nothing else cleans the little bowels and regulates the child's stomach and liver so gently, so thoroughly. Directions on each bottle. But you must say "California." Don't be talked into an imitation fig syrup which hasn't the delicious, fruity taste or the perfect "laxative physic" action.

Care of Vegetables In Storage

Care of Vegetables 7:30 8:30 9:00 9:30
There is always much loss of vegetables from rotting or drying up during the winter, but with a little watchfulness and care much of this could be prevented.

This year the late blight of potatoes caused much rot, and many tubers were sored with the disease in them. It will be found to pay well to look over the potatoes from time to time if a winter's supply has been stored and remove those which show the disease or are rotting so that others will not be infected. It will not be long before the potatoes will be in the root, and if the sprouts are removed promptly the tubers will remain in much better condition than if they are allowed to grow long. It will be necessary to go over them two or three times or more before spring to remove sprouts. If potatoes are in boxes or bins where sprouts can be readily seen one is more likely to remove the sprouts in good time than if they are kept in bags.

If onions are rotting, put them in a drier place and spread out well. For best results they need to be kept very dry.

If carrots, beets, parsnips and turnips are withering, a good plan is to put them in boxes and keep a damp rag or piece of sackling over the top of the box. To keep well all these vegetables should, however, be stored where it is cool but not very dry.

If cabbages are rotting, keep the heads apart so they will not touch one another and so there will be a good circulation of air about them. While they should not be in a very dry place, yet one that is fairly dry is better than one that is inclined to be damp particularly if it is rather warm and not well ventilated. They should be kept cool, but will not stand many degrees of frost.

Squash and pumpkins kept in a cool place may have rotted by this time but if they are still in good condition they will keep much longer if put in a room where the temperature is about 50° Fahr.

If celery has begun to rot, the plants should be all gone over and diseased parts or plants removed, and when replanted see that the tops are kept dry as long as the plants last. If there is room have a small space between the top of each plant. To keep celery in good condition during the winter the tops should be dry but the roots in moist soil, hence if watering is necessary great care should be taken not to wet the tops.

It is not difficult for a farmer to care for his vegetables in winter as he has, as a rule, a good cool cellar. But in cities cellars are usually too warm for most vegetables, hence where the main cellar is too warm wherever possible a part of it where cool air can be admitted should be partitioned off from the rest for a vegetable room.

Advertising A Public Necessity.

WHEN goods are scarce and prices high, people are more appreciative than ever of the right kind of advertising.

They are seeking information. They want to know how to buy to the best advantage.

They want to know how to fill their needs and avoid waste. They welcome news of desirable substitutes for the things the country needs to conserve.

They read the newspapers carefully.

The dry goods merchant, grocer, jeweller, or manufacturer who does not advertise is not only missing the purely selfish opportunity, but he is failing in the service he owes to his customers.

Sport A-Plenty on Vancouver Island all the Time

When Captain Vancouver discovered Vancouver Island 128 years ago, he declared that it required only to be nourished by the industry of man, with village, mansions and cottages to be "the most lovely country that can be imagined." Man has ably supplemented Nature since then, and the traveller who has crossed the United States to California returns east through Canada to enjoy the beauties of Victoria and Vancouver and the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

Owing to its mild climate in winter, Vancouver Island is as great a playground for lovers of sports as it is in summer. There are splendid roads and famous drives for the motorist, water sports of all kinds are popular, and golf, tennis and cricket have thousands of devotees.

Victoria and Vancouver girls are clever with the oars, particularly the girl scullers of the Vancouver Rowing Club who have won laurels even in competition with crews of the sterner sex. In the picture they are (left to right), Miss Elsie Cooper, Miss C. Shamp, Miss R. Matheson, Miss Florence Cooper and Miss Leonie LaLonde.

Vancouver Island is a great resort for fishermen who lure their finny prizes from both fresh and salt water. One of the gamiest of these is the tye salmon, so called by the Indians, the name meaning king fish. Victoria has many expert fishermen, among them W. R. Fletcher, a conductor on the Equinault & Nanaimo Railway, who recently caught two tye salmon weighing 40 and 45 pounds, respectively.

"When one of these boys hits the spoon," says Fletcher, "he'll keep you 'stepping some' for a while. He'll tow you around, dive for the bottom of the sea, then come up and jump five feet in the air. Sometimes he'll fight for nearly an hour before you land him in the boat."
