Good Work.

The work of the sub-committees of the local General Committee of the Festival of Empire is about over, and the exhibits they have succeeded in getting together have either been shipped or will be sent to the Crystal Palace, London, within the next few days. Those who have had a chance of observing, know that these sub-committees have worked well and done excellent service on the several tasks which were committed to their charge. Words of commendation are especially due to the Chairman, Mr. Outerbridge, the Honorary Secretary, Mr. Gosling, and the General Secretary, Mr. Turner.

Mr. Outerbridge as Chairman has shown much skill in handling the situation generally, and Mr. Gosling has been indefatigable in supervising an extensive correspondence and co-operating with the several committees. With the resources at the disposal of the General Committee, especially with the aid of the exhibits furnished by the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. of Grand Falls, the Newfoundland Court should present quite a favourable appearance, even though it will have to stand the light of comparison with the courts of the more opulent Dominions of the Empire, such as Canada, Australia and South Africa. The chief features of the Newfoundland exhibition will be Life at the Fisheries, the work of converting wood into paper, showing logging camp, and pulp and paper working models, our mineral resources, and a very fine set of sporting exhibits.

Mr. Howley, F.G.S., will have general charge of the Newfoundland Court, and he has been at work for months past preparing a fine mineralogical exhibit. In giving Mr. Howley charge the Committee has shown much wisdom, as there is no other person in or out of Newfoundland with such a knowledge of our mineral and forest resources, or who has spent a life-time in studying them at first hand. Capitalists with an eye on Newfoundland as a place for investments will find in him a veritable mine of reliable information about our Island Home. With Lord Northcliffe on the Council of the Festival of Empire, with the A. N. D. Co. exhibiting extensively, we may feel sure that the Newfoundland Court through the instrumentality of the Daily Mail and the scope of other Harmsworth journals will receive more publicity than has ever fallen to its lot. A UNIVERSAL FOOD

Following Nature's Footsteps.
"I have a boy two years old, weighing forty pounds and in perfect health who has been raised on Grape-Nuts and milk."

"This is a ideal food and evidently furnishes the elements necessary for a baby as well as for adults. We have used Grape-Nuts in large quantities and greatly to our advantage."

One advantage about Grape-Nuts food is that it is predigested in the process of manufacture; that is, the starch contained in the wheat and barley is transformed into a form of sugar by the same method as this process is carried out in the human body, that is, by the use of moisture and long exposure to moderate warmth, which grows the diastase in the grains and makes the remarkable change from starch to sugar.
Therefore, the most delicate stomach can handle Grape-Nuts and the food is quickly absorbed into the blood and tissue, certain parts of it going directly to building and nourishing the brain and nerve centres.

The Nationalists Support Asquith's Policy.

Budget Will Go Through House of Commons--
Bitter Encounter Between O'Brien and Lloyd George.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, April 18. After another stormy sitting arising out of a personal incident between William O'Brien and Chancellor Lloyd George attacks by the Conservatives on the Government's alleged surrender to John Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, and a warm repudiation by the ministers of any such bargaining, the House of Commons to-night adopted Premier Asquith's Guiltless motion under which the Finance Bill must be disposed of by April 27 by a vote of 345 to 252. The Chancellor warmly reproached Mr. O'Brien for publishing an account of a private interview without asking permission, and protested that Mr. O'Brien was the only man in the House of one hundred to whom he had given interviews who had been guilty of a breach of confidence. John Redmond announced the intention of his party heartily to support the Government's policy and the Budget, because financial injustice to Ireland was only remedied by securing Home Rule, and the merits or demerits of the Budget were trivial in comparison with the abolition of the Veto Power of the House of Lords. A. J. Balfour said that he would not comment upon the personal question beyond saying that ministers' interviews with their opponents ought to be treated as private. He proceeded strongly to deprecate the Government's bargain with Mr. Redmond and the manner in which the ministers had dragged in the King's name. Premier Asquith in closing the debate repeated his emphatic denial that there was ever any bargain or agreement between the Government and Mr. Redmond. An early feature of the debate was the intervention of William O'Brien who bitterly attacked David Lloyd George. Mr. O'Brien insisted upon the correctness of the statement which he made at Cork to the effect that the Chancellor had promised the Nationalists as concessions for their support of the Budget relief from the spirit, stamp and succession duties, brewery licenses, land taxes and from a general revaluation. He declared as before that he had read aloud to Mr. Lloyd George a letter which he had previously sent to the Chancellor and which contained a reiteration of the proposed concessions. As no witness was present at the reading, Mr. O'Brien said the Chancellor had thought it safe to issue his denial that such a letter had either been received or read to him. Mr. O'Brien added, the matter involves the honor and character of the Minister, and great personage as he is he thereby raises an issue of truthfulness and straight dealing which I am quite willing shall be judged by those who know him and know me. Mr. Lloyd George in replying declared that Mr. O'Brien's account of their interview was grossly inaccurate. The Chancellor admitted that upon their second interview Mr. O'Brien had read him a memorandum of what had occurred at their earlier meeting, but he said that the first he had heard of the letter described by Mr. O'Brien was from the newspapers.

Death of Gussie,

Son of Walter A. O'D. and Catherine Kelly, April 15th, 1910.

The sympathy of the public generally, and particularly that of his school chums, goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. O'D. Kelly on the loss sustained through the death of their promising son, Gussie, at the early age of 10 years and 8 months. Truly, in the midst of life we are in death. This gentle youth but one short week before was in attendance at our school (St. Bonaventure's College) amongst his playmates and fellow students, with all of whom he was a general favorite; but it must have been very consoling to his fond parents to have heard the many expressions of the goodness of his character and lovable nature from the hundreds of friends and his chums who visited their home during the time his little body was lying there in its last earthly garment; and oh, how pleased they must have been at the large number who testified their sympathy by attending his funeral on Sunday and taking part in the burial service in that grand noble edifice, the R. C. Cathedral. It was truly an inspiring sight or scene to see the priest, Rev. Fr. Fyde, vested in the grand robes of the church reciting the prayers, accompanied by the little acolytes, all of whom held a lighted candle in their hands and offered up from their pure young hearts prayers for the repose of the soul of their little friend and playmate, Gussie—M. (School Chum).

SERIES OF LARCENIES.—A West End man accused of a series of larcenies the past month was arrested last night by Constables Byrne and Tobin. He was examined by the officers and also by Mr. Sullivan.

C. E. T. S. Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Church of England Temperance Society took place at the Synod Building last night. Some hymns were rendered in an excellent manner to the accompaniment of the C. M. B. C. Orchestra. Rev. Mr. Bell delivered a lecture on "Intemperance and Child Life" showing the effects of alcohol on the children. In England, Germany, France and Italy on account of the increase of juvenile drinking seeing the growth of the situation the leading physicians are lecturing in order to minimize the evil as much as possible. The Society in order to further this object, in our own city has started a branch of the "Cradle Roll of Parents" whether members of the C. E. T. S. or not. The idea is to enlist the interest of parents as a protection for children. The names of several persons were recorded as first members. Four men signed the pledge; two others were duly initiated into the Society. Next Monday the Band of Hope Tea and Entertainment will take place in the Synod Hall. Benediction brought the proceedings to a close.

C. C. C. Dance.

The dance given by the Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers of the C. C. C. in the British Hall last night was attended by fully 130 couples, who thoroughly enjoyed the event. The ball room was neatly decorated with bunting and evergreen, and the officers looked very well in their attractive uniforms. The C. C. C. Band supplied the music in an admirable style for the programme of 20 dances. Dancing was kept up till this morning.
