"An Arizona Cowboy"

LAST PERFORMANCE THIS EVEN-ING.

Despite the storm a goodly number attended last night's performance of "An Arizona Cowboy," at St. Mary's Parish Hall. The various performers were all at home in their various parts and the different roles were splendidly presented. During the evening excellent music was rendered by the Guards Orchestra to whom those interested are very grateful. The specialties by Messrs. McCafferty, Neville, Chafe, M. Michaels and King added much to the pleasure of the audience. To-night the play will be presented for the last time.

This talented troupe has added fresh laurels to the great success they achieved in "Lighthouse Nan," and every one who can possibly attend are advised to take advantage of this opportunity to see the "Arizona Cowboy."

"The Covered Wagon"

Outstanding Feature Voted The Greatest Since "Birth Of A Nation."

The stormy weather of last night prevented many who intended taking in "The Covered Wagon" from doing so. The number of theatrical parties arranged were postponed until tonight, when another capacity house is expected. In order to give every citizen a chance to see it, matinees will be held every afternoon when ladies and children will be catered to.
The following are some of the big scenes in "The Covered Wagon":
The great wagon train leaving Westport Landing.
The fording of the Kaw River by wagon train.
The attack by Indians.
The massacre of the pioneers.
The prairie fire.
Molly's wild ride and rescue by Banton.
The scenes at Fort Bridger.
The parting of the train—for Oregon and California.
The fight between Banton and Woodhull.
The great buffalo hunt.
The death of Woodhull.
Nine square miles of waste territory were burned up for the prairie fire scene. You will see men, women and horses menaced by the devouring flames, fleeing for their lives. You will see thrilling rescues in the very midst of a roaring fire. Nothing so big was ever attempted before in motion picture history, and probably never will be again.
Two shows nightly: 7.15 and 9.30 p.m.

Use ordinary bandage for facing children's petticoats. It comes in all widths, already shrunken.

Hints for Your Home

TRY THESE TROUBLE-SAVING TIPS.

Pictures hung above eye-level should slope forward slightly.
Always strain a dye through muslin before adding it to the water.
Stored silver will not tarnish if a piece of camphor is put away with it.
Never leave a spoon in the sauc-pan if you wish its contents to boil quickly.
If cakes and pastry are brown when cooking, sprinkle a little sugar on them.
If mustard is mixed with milk instead of water the spoon will not be blackened.
To get a gloss on saten or any cotton goods with a satin finish, add a little borax to the rinsing water.
When washing handkerchiefs add a spoonful of some disinfectant to the water in which they are soaked.
To clean a polishing mop, boil it in water to which a handful of soda and a little paraffin have been added.
Add a teaspoonful of turpentine to half a gallon of water when soaking very soiled clothes. It loosens the dirt and helps to make the clothes whiter.
Woolen articles must never be soaked. They should be washed out and rinsed in water of the same temperature as that in which they were washed.
Soak very dirty articles, such as kitchen rubbers and towels, in water containing a tablespoonful of soda to each gallon of water. Use borax in place of soda for finer articles.

Red-Headed Village

UNCHANGED FOR CENTURIES.

In a village a few miles from Swansea lives a community of red-heads.
It has been said that there is a greater proportion of copper or auburn-haired people in the neighborhood of Pancalwd than in any other part of the British Isles.
A local medical officer, when asked for an explanation of the definite types which still persisted in the villages of this part of Wales, said he had found even the smallest communities very conservative in their marriage relations, and they rarely went outside their own "clan" to find a partner for life.

Another remarkable feature he had noted was the evidence of Spanish blood among many of the women on the coastal villages. He had found the type to persist even after hundreds of years.

"In one family I visit," he said,
"the parents, whose people have lived in the village all their lives and Welsh, have daughters who can pass anywhere as Spanish girls."
