"THE DYNAMITE OF GOD"

Is Under Every Bil in Existence.

igan W. C. T. U. Covention.

Builders-A Unamous Suffrage.

Detroit, May 29.—Miss rances E. Willard, national president of the W. C. T. U., gave an address on Wednesday evening at the annual convision of the Woman's Christian Tempeanes Union of Michigan. In the course of her lecture Miss Willard said:

The dynamite of God is ader every evil in existence. The evil brigs with it its own destruction. All get men, those who accomplish anything syond what was already discovered, have believed more than they knew. Columb believed more than they knew. Columb believed more than the knew when he pered his life to discover a continent whre none was known to exist; and Friklin believed far more than he knew when he sought to unravel the mysteries of me north polar regions. The white ubon women of America believe implitily that the end of the saloon power will come, knowing that evil carries its own sting of destruction, and trust in God to put in motion themighty engine that shall bring it about. The body politic has a neuralgic nerve. Theneve was once paralytic, but now it aches and bids fair to get no better very fast unil there is only one thing left to be done—the forceps of prohibition must be applied and the old thing removed altogether.

"Where have you been, ohn?" asked a mother of her son as he resid home, drunk, late one night.

"That," said Miss Willed, "fully illustrates the condition of the Christian citizen, politically. He as been everywhere, with everybody, and drinking in everything in the shape of politics except what he should have dreak in. He has been deluding himself with the idea that politics is one thing as duty another; that the way to have good government and good laws it to vote for wat is bad. Let me illustrate. There is Jahn Brewer, John Barleycorn and John Brewn. They go to the polls to vote. John rewer votes for license because it is to his appeale. John Brown votes for prohibition, and it is outnumbered in the count two to one. That is only apparent, for one with (dd is a majority: and when John Brown wads in his daily papper the result from lileor, of the ruined homes and blighted fabilies, he can say, "Shake not thy gory loct at me."

In Leaven worth, Kain, the colored women, by voing and the lead of their white sisters, had order; and it was the same in recently saved the day for law and Glasgow, Scotland, where women have recently seen given municipal franchise and have voted for the second time this spring. The women of the country could safely be intrusted with the bottom of the country could safely be intrusted with the bottom of the gold cure, she said she had known many benefited by fit; there were also many failures, but she believed the benefits greatly in the preponderance. The christian thing to do, however, was not to cure drunkards after they had been made such so much as to save the boys of the land from needing the cure.

Miss Willard closed with a striking picture of the wolf and the hound. A party of hunters attempted to call off their hound after it had taken the trail of a wolf, and deeply lamented what they regarded as the certain death of the dog, agreeing that they could have "sorter got round the wolf and to copered him" without the sacrifice of the dog; but on coming up to where the animals were just finishing their mortal combat it was found that the wolf was dead and the hound unharmed. In this case, she said, the wolf is the saloon and the white ribbon women the hound.

The audience saw the point as was evidenced by their huphter and applause.

emperance Women Oppose Dr. Rains-ford's Idea. [New York Advertise r.] Mrs. Willard predicted that at the coming fall election there would be east the largest prohibition vote 1 the history of the country. "We believe that high license is moral chloroform," saidshe, "and I pronounce upon it the anathena of high treason and high erime."

During the campaign preeding the election of Cleveland as Pesident a young gentleman friend wrote the speaker to the effect that Prohibitionisk were nothing more than assistant Demerats, and added: "If Cleveland is elected you will have the pleasure of hearing again the clanking of the slave-chains in the south." Cleveland was elected, but the Prohibitionists were unable to discover wherein there was any difference between his administration and that of the Republicans.

Miss Willard was willing to admit that woman suffrage was, just at present, the liveliest political issue before the American people, and she was glad of it. It was not after the country w. C. T. Miss Julia Colman, secretary of the county W. C. T. U., spoke in the same anner. "I never knew Dr. Rainford held hese views before," she said, "though the slea is the old one of moderate licensed rinking. We do not want any saloons un at all, by anybody, and I think the idea is regulating them by putting them in narge of church members is all wrong."

Mrs. Mary T. Burt, president of the Vomen's Christian Temperance Union, was ery earnest in her opposition of the saloon theme proposed by Dr. Rainsford.

"It would only be throwing the weight a the church upon the side of the saloon-beeper," she said. "The W. C. T. U. could haver indorse the most remote connection between the church and the saloon. I believe that Dr. Rainsford must stand alone in his present attitute, for neither his congregation nor any body of the people would care to proceed with such a scheme when opposed by the Christian Church of every denomination, as I am sure it would be. If such a movement gained any headway, the W. C. T. U. would make a protest against it, both public and private, to Church and State. But it cannot be possible that any such step will be taken. The whole subject is too infamous to be considered."

The whole subject is too inflamous to be considered."

Mrs. Francis Barnes, national superintendent of the Young Women's intistian Temperance Union, said: "I wome characterize the effort which Dr. Bainsford suggests as the most refined method of temptation that could be obtained. It would lead many a youth on the downward path who would otherwise avoid temptation, and I doubt whether it would tend at all toward reform, for in Paris the use of light wines, which were allowed in the Reform Missions there, was discontinued because it led to the absinthe habit."

Many leading elergymen in New York city also publicly expressed their lack of sympathy with the movement to make the church an ally of the triffic in intoxicants.
