

KAISER WILHELM A STERN PARENT

The Emperor's Children Under Strict Discipline.

SEVEN JUNIORS IN THE CIRCLE

An Interesting Glimpse of Their Family Life—"My Boys Must Be Soldiers."

Berlin, Oct. 24.—"Stern father" can be discreetly applied to Emperor William in his family life. His children have never lacked for fatherly love, however, nor shrink at harshness, but Emperor William believed in the Americans call a "beating up" for his children. There was widely at variance with the popular idea of the pampered life of little princes. It meant "early to bed and early to rise," plain food, daily tasks and all the homely features of the childhood of untitled little folks.

Six boys and a girl compose the royal family. They are Crown Prince William, aged 20; Prince Eitel Frederick, 19; Prince Adalbert, 18; Prince Augustus William, 15; Prince Oscar, 14; Prince Joachim, 12, and Princess Victoria Louise, 10.

"It is better that a woman should know how to make a pancake than that she should be able to discuss constitutional questions," Emperor William once said to a court lady to emphasize the kind of woman his wife, the Empress of Germany, is.

EMPEROR CAN BAKE AND SEW. The emperor did not exaggerate for the sake of illustration. The empress can bake and sew and tend babies, and her reputation as a housewife is maintained by six hearty young men and a charming little princess who reverberate. They were all reared along the same lines, and those lines were never relaxed. Hard and fast rules, in keeping with common sense, were laid down for them.

The children were called at 6 o'clock every morning, summer and winter. They had first breakfast with their mother at 7:30, consisting of bread and butter and tea.

HOME TRAINING. Half an hour later the young princes had studied their lessons together and the older boys alone. American mothers might think the lessons imposed rather severe. Among other things the princes were thoroughly instructed in foreign languages, especially French.

A second breakfast was served at 8:30; from then until 1:15 more lessons, drills and military exercises took up all the time. A short period for recreation and amusement was allowed before science and music lessons were begun and continued until 6 o'clock, when supper was served. Then came a final hour of recreation, and the younger children were put to bed at 7:30, the big boys at 9.

Prince William plays the violin well and owns a valuable "Strad," said to have once belonged to Queen Louise. Prince Eitel plays the piano. All the princes ride horseback. An hour every day was devoted to riding, and Emperor William himself superintended these lessons. The children were put on ponies at an early age, taught to get on a horse bareback, unsaddle their mounts, and rub them down.

YOUNG SOLDIERS. "My boys must be soldiers like their ancestors," Emperor William said when the princes were young. So the crown prince was made a soldier when he became 10, and he has been a member of the First Foot Guards and of the Landwehr, and other infantry regiments. Prince Eitel also belongs to several regiments. Eitel is the son of a sailor of the family. He was placed on the roll of marines as a sub-lieutenant when 6 years old and has served as any other sailor on a training ship. The other princes have been in the First Foot Guards.

Princess Victoria Louise has been trained to be as womanly as her brothers were taught to be manly. It is said that one of her Christmas presents not many years ago was a complete outfit for washing and ironing. All the tenderness in Emperor William's nature was lavished on the little girl of all his children. His favorite photographs are those taken with the princess on his knee. Although not over strong as children, the German princes have been reared as to promote health and ruggedness.

OVERLOOKED

There Are Patent Medicines and Remedies Without Number For Every Disease and Affliction But One.

A prominent physician was recently asked why it was that there are so many "blood purifiers," nerve tonics, and remedies for every ill, except one of the most common and annoying, viz., piles. He replied: "There are two principal reasons. First, physicians and people in general have thought that the only permanent cure for piles was a surgical operation, that medicinal preparations were simply palliative. Another reason is that piles are in no sense of the word an imaginary disease; the sufferer from piles is very much aware of the fact, and for this reason, the few so-called pile salves, ointments, etc., have been short-lived. The patient very soon discovers their inefficiency."

He says further, fortunately, however, there is a new remedy for piles, which judging from its rapidly growing popularity, will soon take the place of all other treatment; it has certainly made astonishing cures in this obstinate disease and its merit has made it famous among physicians and wherever it has been introduced. This remedy is sold by all druggists under the name of Pyramid Pile Cure. From the immediate relief which the Pyramid Pile Cure gives in all forms of piles, many physicians supposed it contained opium, cocaine or some similar substance, but upon analysis it was found to be perfectly free from anything of the kind, and that the instant relief which follows its use is rather the result of its remarkable healing, soothing action on the parts affected.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is the only remedy, except a surgical operation, which immediately relieves and permanently cures every form of piles. It is sold by druggists at 50c and 10c per box by mail from Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

HEALER FAILED TO HEAL

Parents Held Responsible for Death of Their Child.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 24.—As a result of his inquiry into the death of Esther Quimby, Coroner Banning has found the following verdict: "Esther Quimby came to her death in the Village of White Plains on the 19th day of October, 1902, of diphtheria, the result of the negligence of her parents, John Quimby and Georgiana Quimby, also a certain so-called 'healer,' named John Carroll Lathrop, in failing to provide proper medical care and attention. The evidence warrants the holding of the three persons under the penal code on a charge of manslaughter."

CHURCH SPLITS ON THE "AH-MEN"

Pronunciation One Reason of Pastor's Removal.

MANY NOVEL SHORTCOMINGS

Rev. Charles L. Verne Roberts of Berwyn Methodist Church, Chicago, in Trouble.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—A waistcoat buttoning to the throat, having the choir chanting, saying "ah-men" instead of "amen"—these are some of the reasons why the Rev. Charles L. Verne Roberts was compelled to leave the pastorate of the Berwyn Methodist Church, Chicago, in trouble. One faction claiming to represent a large majority of the membership of the church, hoped to retain him. The other faction, also claiming to be the majority, is not sorry that he is to leave. The result is a church split that threatens to disrupt the organization. Besides these innovations, the young pastor, it is said, offered a short prayer over the collection made each Sunday morning when it was laid in front of the pulpit. He also asked that the choir chant the Lord's Prayer during the morning service. Here are some of the other objections raised to him: He appeared on the street with a cane and a silk hat; his clothes are from a fashionable tailor; he did not confine his visits to members of his own congregation; and, last reason, offered last evening by one of the members of the church, he lacked spirituality.

HISTORY OF THE STRIFE

The trouble began six months ago. For some time the late Rev. W. W. Richards was the pastor of that church. At the time of his death there were three candidates for the position. The board of directors asked that Geo. Burwell, a Northwestern University student, be invited to serve until the conference should meet. Bishop McCabe believed that the church should have a pastor who could devote his entire time to the work of the church. The result was that the supporters of Mr. Burwell were disappointed, and that those who had urged that Mr. Roberts should be sent were correspondingly gratified.

For six months the new order of things prevailed. But the fact that Mr. Roberts was waiting for the conference, when new appointments were to be made. Meetings were held and the church was kept in a state of confusion. Mr. Roberts should not be returned to Berwyn. Those who were supporting him claim that they had no idea but that he would be sent back to them as a matter of course. Until the night before the appointments were to be published they say they did not know of an appointment being made against their pastor. Then they went to work, but it was too late.

PREACHER OF THE OLD SCHOOL

In place of Mr. Roberts the Rev. C. C. Lovejoy, a preacher of the old school from Mount Carmel, Ill., was sent to fill the pulpit. Mr. Roberts was assigned to Peconic, N. Y.

A farewell reception to Mr. and Mrs. Roberts was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. Hollingshead. On former occasions the farewell reception has been at the church. At former receptions the new pastor has been welcomed into the church.

Mr. Roberts said that he had written to Bishop McCabe that he would not accept the assignment to Peconic, N. Y.

"I have a great many friends in Berwyn," he said, "and I had anticipated a pleasant year here. I do not know just where I shall go."

TYPHOID INCREASED

September Death Rate Double That of August.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—With the advent of autumn the number of cases of typhoid in the Province always increases, probably owing to low water in the wells in rural districts. This is shown in the monthly report of the Provincial Board of Health for September. The number of deaths from typhoid in September was 32, as compared with 26 in August. The deaths from whooping cough were 9, while in August they were 12. There were five less deaths from consumption than in August.

The details are given in the following table:

	Sept.	Sept.
	1901.	1902.
Scarlatina	43	11
Diphtheria	45	25
Measles	2	9
Whooping cough	17	9
Typhoid	41	32
Consumption	158	167
Total deaths from all causes	1,963	1,934

Liver Complaint, Biliousness

And Sick Headache Go Hand in Hand and Are Cured by the Direct Action of

DR. CHASE'S
KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

"Biliousness" is the one word used by most people to describe their trouble when the liver gets out of order, leaves bile in the blood, upsets the digestive system and brings on sick headaches and irritable temper, stomach troubles and irregularities of the bowels. People who suffer much from biliousness become pale and yellow in complexion, irritable and morose in disposition, and are liable to find themselves among the chronic sufferers to whom nothing seems to go right. The trouble begins with the liver becoming torpid and sluggish in action, and disappears when the liver is set right. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure biliousness promptly because of their direct action on the liver. They thoroughly remove all the symptoms because of their combined action on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. Don, 450 James street north, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I have been a martyr to sick headache. Though I tried numerous remedies, none seemed to bring relief. At times I found myself on the verge of despair, nothing but my case. I recently procured a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and am thankful to say that at last I have found the right medicine. At once I obtained relief. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have worked wonders for me, and I shall always recommend them."

After all, it pays to stand by the tried and proven medicines instead of running after every new-fangled remedy that is brought out. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are considered well-nigh indispensable in thousands of the best homes. They stand supreme as a reliable family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box; at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THEORIES ABOUT FOOD

Also a Few Facts on the Same Subject

We hear—much nowadays about healthful foods and hygienic living, about vegetarianism and many other fads along the same line.

Restaurants may be found in the big cities where no meat, pastries, coffee is served, and the food cranks are in their glory, and arguments and theories galore advanced to prove that meat is bad, and that only the human stomachs, and almost make us believe that our sturdy ancestors who lived four score years in robust health on roast beef and pork and plum must have been grossly ignorant of the laws of health.

Our forefathers had other things to do than formulate theories about the food they ate. A warm welcome was extended to any kind from bacon to acorns.

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats is undoubtedly the best.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form, and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains.

Dr. Julius Remmonson on this subject: Nervous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat meat and plenty of it. If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily corrected by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Two of these excellent tablets taken after dinner will digest several thousand grains of meat, eggs or other animal food in three hours, and no matter how weak the stomach may be, no trouble will be experienced in digesting the food.

It is made of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they supply the pepsin and diastase necessary to perfect digestion, and the result of their action will be overcome by their use.

That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspepsia, and who are unable to digest their food properly, find relief by the daily use of a safe, harmless digestive medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

These tablets contain the digestive principles, pepsin, diastase, fruit acids, and salts, which actually perform the work of digestion. They are not cathartics, and therefore do not produce indigestion as they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its many forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food and the sensible way to cure the trouble and cure the dyspepsia is to make daily use at meal time of a preparation like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which is indubitably the most reliable and known to common sense.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, at 50c for full treatment. Sold by mail, 12c per box.

PERISHED IN THE WOODS

He had given the captain of the steamer a detailed account of his life and had to be placed in irons while on board.

WHEN LIFE'S A BURDEN

It Is Generally the Result of Disease—Constipation Causes Many a One to Breathe a Prayer That Death May End All Troubles.

Celery King Cures Constipation Permanently.

When one's liver becomes surcharged with bile, one knows that unless relieved, the bile will permeate the system and permeate the very air with its foulness. Then death will lurk ever near and its haunting shadow will ever follow you. It is the same with the system. If the filthy residues remain in the body, how great is the danger you run. Hideously nasty your whole body and soon render you a burden to death were welcome. Celery King being purely vegetable, acts quietly but surely through the stomach and bowels to the torpid down fabric of the system, renews the blood till in its rich ruddy color, it fills every remote and tingling portion of the body. "Port" the more the better. I have had stomach trouble and bowel complaint and as a woman advanced in years, I supposed there was no relief to be had. I was confined to my bed and my physician had great trouble in checking a severe attack of stomach and bowel trouble. "Sing" then up to 12 months ago, I had these attacks often, each one more weakening than the other. My health became so impaired and I lost my appetite, that I became alarmed. My son who suffered from chronic nervous troubles and had obtained beneficial results from taking Celery King, offered me to try it, but I never had any faith in patent medicines and considering my case hopeless, I concluded not to experiment. But while suffering great distress, he one day persuaded me to try it. I had then a cup that night and it gave me great relief. I procured a package at Hooper's drug store and only needed to take a dose now and then, but I always keep it in the house. You may use my name.

MEN ARE DISSATISFIED

Friction Between Grand Trunk Railway Company and Its Engineers.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—There are rumors of impending trouble between the Grand Trunk Railway and the engineers on that system, says the Globe. The agreement between the company and the engineers expired on the first of last month, and for six weeks a committee representing the men has been unsuccessfully endeavoring to have a new agreement signed. There are 36 men, representing the entire system, on this committee, and they have been three times to Montreal, at a very considerable expense to the brotherhood, without, as they report, accomplishing anything.

In the new agreement which the men propose increased pay and shorter hours of labor form the principal element, but there are a large number of minor grievances which they want rectified. The officials of the Grand Trunk are well aware of a weakness that exists in the brotherhood of the men, and they are prepared to take advantage of it.

The trouble in the brotherhood is that the younger object to the rule of the older element. The men who now control the organization on the Grand Trunk system are in the main old men and some of them are not even in the employ of the road. They are men who have retired, but who are entitled to retain their membership in the brotherhood of the men, and they are prepared to take advantage of it.
