The hunters, who are trying to give the President a shot, are pretty badly discouraged, but they were hoping against hope for better luck today. The President himself seems less concerned over his ill-fortune than those instrumental in bringing him here. He is satisfied that there are bears in the swamps, and told his friends yesterday that he wanted to come down here again and have another hunt with Holt Collier. The party will break camp late this

A WOMAN'S STORY.

New York, Nov. 19. — Mrs. Lena Doxheimer, who says that until she became a member of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Hoboken, two years ago, she was associated with an anarchistic society of that place, and whose sanity is questioned, is reported to have related it to the Mothers' Club and the pastor of her church a story of alleged anarchist plottings against the life of President

According to Mrs. Doxheimer, there have been in the last fourteen months three persons assigned to the task of "removing" the President. One of these, a Frenchman, named lov, she says, she persuaded to re-n to Paris, where he was killed by that he put himself in the way of death in order to spare his relatives the humiliation of regarding him as a suicide. Next, according to Mrs. Doxheimer, the assassin's task was assigned to a man named Mueller, living in this city, who a few days later died of poison, self-administered. The last of the three designated for the murderous work, Mrs. Doxheimer alleges, was a Mrs. Schroeder, of Harwho also ended her life by poison. Mrs. Doxheimer asserts that among the plotters were several millonaires. Her conception of what constitutes a millionaire is indicated by her statement that these men "owned houses." Mrs. Doxheimer says that recently she has been under suspicion of her for-mer anarchist associates, and that they have followed her and her husband about from place to place, so that they have required the protection of detectives.

The Rev. Chas. L. Meade, Mrs. Doxheimer's pastor, will make no state-ment regarding the so-called confession.

FREEMAN TALBOT WRITES OF EARLY LONDON gether with the unexpired parts of their lighting contract; also that the gas company furnish the selling price of their electric plant, together with unexpired part of lighting contract. HON. FREEMAN TALBOT Interesting Paper by One of the ronto man, now a resident of London "ity's Veteran Old Boys.

Recollections of a Time When Population Was Counted by the Dozen.

The meetings of the Historical Society, one of which was held last night at the Public Library building, continue to be extremely interesting. Dr. Cl. T. Campbell's paper, which was read at the previous meeting and dealt London. with the history of London before the building of the courthouse, was followed last night by another excellently prepared paper by Hon. Freeman Talbot, a Londoner of the very early days, who has lived for nearly the past half-century in Western Canada. His friends in London, of whom there are In the spring of 1880 Edward In the s paper an evidence of the unimpaired vigor of the remarkable intellectual strength and wonderful memory with with Mr. Talbot has been endowed. The paper, which he prepared last night, was effective read for him by Dr. English.

Mr. Talbot first said that the spot upon which London now stands attracted the attention of Gov. Simcoe and his secretary, Col. Talbot, who contemplated the locality of London as a proper site for the future capital of Ontario, its natural advantages his influence at the seat of Parlia-being its centrality between the lakes ment was irresistible, and that he did and its fortunate situation on River Thames, besides other advantages which would insure military and naval protection and easy facilities of communication. At that time the whole country between Lakes Erie and Huron was an unexplored wilderness. Subsequently Col. Talbot induced a number of followers to join his settle-

London was not surveyed until 1818, although a Mr. Applegarth erected a very comfortable log building as early as 1816, about three-quarters of a mile below the forks. In the autumn of 1818 London was entered by about 40 different families, most of them Irish, who came under the direction of the late Richard Talbot. For each of 60 men, whom he brought, he had to deposit £10 with Mr. Freeman Talbot's father as a guarantee that they would not become paupers. Mr. Talbot had obtained a free ship, the Brunswick, to convey himself, his family and party of settlers from the "Cove of Cork" (Queenstown) to Quebec.

Mr. Freeman Talbot's father re-ceived a grant of 1,400 acres of land in the township of London. At that time London township was thought to have many almost irresistible difficulties and many strong attractions. Its soil was first-class, water pure and abundant, mill sites plentiful, splendid caused to be built a plank and gravel timber of almost every variety, lime-

The London district at that time extended from Burford in the west to following interesting information: The Zone in the east, and from Lake Erie late Thomas Cassick was the first man of a duel over a game in a saloon here, to Lake Huron. A grant of money was in London to vote for a member of secured for the erection of county Parliament-for Mahlon Burwell; Rev. buildings in London, and a temporary building was erected on the northeast Episcopal service in London; Rev. PUTTING IT STRONG

But Doesn't It Look Reasonable?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears. The trouble with Dyspeptics is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extreme or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a rest. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is a great secret and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. is a comparatively new remedy but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach

The sufferer from Dyspepsia according to directions; is to eat an abundance of good wholesome food and use the tablets before and after each meal, and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be, because, as before stated, the tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put with it one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was inclosed within the stomach. The stomach may be ever so weak yet these tablets will perform the work of digestion and the body and work of digestion and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of Dyspepsia will be made because the Mr. Bell informed the council that much-abused stomach will be given, to he some extent, a much-needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of all the many remedies advertised to cure Dyspepsia none of them have given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

Successively the hotelkeepers who came to London were Peter McGregor, Abraham Carrol, Joseph O'Dell, Boyle Trayerse, John O'Neil. Dennis O'Brien erected the first brick block in London in 1836, just opposite the courthouse. These buildings were used afterwards as barracks and then as a hotel, the Western.

From this happy reference to the demand for the McClary output, it will be seen that Mr. Talbot has all the patriotism of a true London Old Boy. Before the meeting closed, Mr. Frank Leonard made a brief but interesting reference to the fight between Americans and the British, which took place in 1814, about 22 miles west of Dela-ware. Mr. Leonard suggested as a fitting memento of this heroic struggle, that a monument be erected by the society on the spot where the battle was fought.

"I'm Glad She's Dead," Were the Woman's Words, as She Finished Her Terrible Work.

Mrs. Lulu Young, wife of Frank Young. formerly a tobacconist, and once city purchasing agent, was arrested at the home of her father, 881 Exchange street. about an hour after the murder was committed.

She is supposed to be the woman who did the deed. The woman who committed the crime rang the doorbell, and when Miss McFarlin answered it, attacked her with a knife.

Miss McFarlin ran screaming through the hall into the kitchen, closely pursued by her assailant. In the kitchen she stumbled, half turning, and in a flash her pursuer was upon her, and with a rapid slash had stabbed her to the heart. Another woman was in the kitchen, but was too frightened to do anything. The total number of stab wounds inflicted is

The dead woman was about 21 years of age. She was the daughter of a railroad man, and a woman of refinement and education.

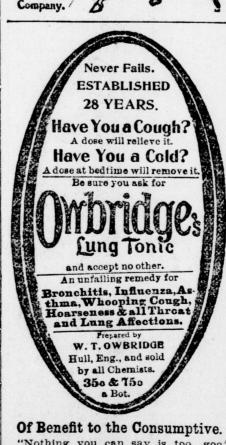

The only words the woman who did the killing was heard to utter were: "She has come between myself and my husband, and I'm glad she is dead." Mrs. Young has made no confession.
