Portsmouth, Aug. 23. - The popular belief was that today would decide the issue but the Associated Press had certain, as the long cablegram of instructions which M. Witte received last night would not permit the compromise which, it was understood, Japan was prepared to offer this morning as a result of the President's heroic endeavor to save the conference.

The rumor telegraphed to the Associated Press after midnight was confirmed this morning, but it requires an important explanatory statement. The cablegram from St. Petersburg was sent before M. Witte had communicated to the Emperor the contents of the communication from President Roosevelt, delivered to him yesterday afternoon at the navy yard, so that was not necessarily to be accepted as the Emperor's last word, and M. Witte, who, there is reason to believe, is personally in sympathy with the

PEACE DEPENDS UPON THE CZAR.

Peace conference matters bepidly coming to a head, and the outlook for an agreement being reached is brighter than for some days past. On good authority it is announced that Japan has consented to President Roosevelt's compromise proposition. This permits Russia to "pur-chase" Sakhalin, Japan waving its cession. Japan is to send in a bill—a good stiff one—for the keep of the Russian prisoners, which, coupled to the price of Sakhalin, will really constitute an indemnity. Russia will thus save her face, as legally she will not have paid an indemnity. The matter was today placed before the Czar by the American am-bassador to Russia. If the re-port be correct, the Japanese have scored a brilliant diplomatic triumph by throwing the responsibility of further conflict upon the
