

RANEY STATES NO CHANCE OF STRONG BEER

Delegates of Temperance Organizations Address Parliamentary Hotel Commission.

URGES ASSISTANCE

John Macdonald Wants Proprietors Helped To Give Better Service.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—Attorney-General Raney told the delegates representing temperance organizations who today addressed the special parliamentary commission on hotel accommodation, that there was no possibility of the hotels obtaining a license for stronger beers or light wines.

John Macdonald, the first speaker, said that hoteliers should not be under the ban of society. They should be helped to give the public proper service. Many hotel proprietors had told him that they were doing better now than ever before. His own travelers had told him that hotel conditions were vastly better.

Rev. Edgar Watson, the chairman, remarked that the Travelers' Association did not agree with this last statement.

Representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Toronto, Mrs. Ward stated that her association was willing to help the legitimate hotelmen, but not the saloon-keepers.

"We have heard so much of this increase from 1 to 5 per cent in the strength of alcoholic beverages that we are coming to the conclusion that it is time to abolish alcoholic drinks altogether."

Mr. Purley remarked that the days of Dobbin waiting for hours at the hitching-post while the husband squandered his wages across the bar were gone forever. The womanhood of the country suffered, she said, while the hotelmen grew fat on the profits of the barroom.

Dr. Coyne, the next speaker, said that if the hotelmen was under the ban he deserved to be, and he made no apology for saying so.

"Let the hotelmen cease his inebriations and continue his assistance against the wishes of the province and the ban may be moved. In the past I found that the hotelmen of the hotels under the old barroom system were of an infinitesimal quantity."

JUDGE MACBETH NAMED ARBITER

Pine Lawn Arbitration Board Will Now Commence Investigation.

Judge Talbot Macbeth will be designated as chairman of the board of arbitration appointed to investigate the alleged faulty construction of the city houses at Pine Lawn. It was learned on Wednesday.

With the appointment on Tuesday of Thomas Terry, local garage proprietor, as arbitrator in the interests of the contractors Hayman & Willis, it is now expected that real action will be only a matter of time.

Mr. Terry is replacing A. E. Ponsford of St. Thomas, who, while first selected by the local contractors, declined to act, it was stated.

H. Walton, building inspector of Sarnia, appointed by the London Housing Commission, is expected to reach the city on Wednesday, following which a session will be held without delay.

The initial move will be the selection of a chairman, and it has been stated upon good authority that both parties are favorable to Judge Macbeth, and that he has consented to act if requested.

The arbitration board was ordered to investigate all the houses in the Pine Lawn area, and determine whether the roofs have been constructed as per requirements. It is hoped that this decision will finally settle a controversy that has created many a disturbance in city hall circles during the past twelve months.

While Building Inspector H. Walton of Sarnia arrived in London Wednesday morning, it is considered unlikely that the first session of the board will be held for a day or two yet.

BELLBOY AND MAID AIR TROUBLES IN CITY COURT

Magistrate Chides Plaintiff and Defendant for Wasting Employer's Time.

The wheels of justice were set in motion at the local police court today merely to arbitrate a quarrel in which a bellboy and a maid at a local hotel were involved.

After the hum of activities had died down, it was found that the bellboy and the plaintiff, with her husband as a witness, came out just where they came in.

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon, who acted in the role of Solomon, refused to render a decision against the boy, who was charged with assault, and he chided both plaintiff and defendant for wasting their employer's time.

ENTER ACTION AGAINST V. R. KRAMPP, WALKERTON

Dickinson, Nicholson & Co. Seek To Recover $400 From Northern Merchant.

Two new writs have been issued at the county court. Dickinson, Nicholson & Co. have entered action against V. R. Krampp, of Walkerton, to recover $400, the amount of three drafts accepted by the defendant. M. P. McDonagh will act for the plaintiff.

At the same sitting, the case of McDougall vs. Dobson will be heard. The plaintiff claims that a car which had been taken from him is now acknowledged to have been his property. The action, which has been entered for the plaintiff by A. G. Chisholm, K.C., seeks to recover $600 and interest, amounting to $60.

TRUSTEES STAGE FIELD DAY

clubs like some people who get paid for it on barnstorming trips through the back townships.

How many of those who voted for Trustee "Ed" Smith at the last election ever beheld him leaping across a "horse"? Not many, his colleagues venture to say, and as a matter of fact he didn't undertake that particular stunt Tuesday, although it looked at one juncture as though he would make the attempt. The swing board creaked under the heavy chairman, and he hesitated at the psychological moment, as did Secretary W. A. Tanner, who ventured close but evidently concurred with "Ed" Smith that discretion is sometimes the better part of gymnastics.

It was only to be expected that Trustee Casselman would kick an old shoe across the floor a couple of times, and finally cravine more action, he let Trustee Bryden Campbell have the missile in the neck. Trustee Campbell doesn't realize yet who hit him, however, but he suspects Trustee "Ed" Smith.

As a popular diversion, "Bryden" rendered a practical demonstration of just how hefty a volley ball is, while Secretary Tanner also essayed a haul or two. Both tried without appreciable success, as the committee viewed the shoot, much to the consternation of the architect.

When the latter started swinging high and low and to and fro on the rings, however, all activities ceased elsewhere as the committee viewed how it should be done, hep "Ed" Smith executed a brief but quite acceptable act on the rings, winning commendable applause.

The chief event of the afternoon, the weighing contest, with Trustee Silverwood second and Trustee Smith a close third. An unsuccessful attempt was made to debar the winner, but he was compelled to undergo a second test without his opponent.

He weighs 247 pounds and a few odd ounces over, according to the collegiate scales. Trustee Silverwood entertained the opinion that he was holding down first place with 238 pounds, just one pound the better of Trustee Smith. He was soon ousted from the lead, as Trustee Campbell came into view around the corner and challenged the crowd with obnoxious success. His disappointed rivals comforted themselves with the reassuring opinion that "he would not be so cocky had Trustee Bice been an entry."

During the afternoon the committee conducted a thorough inspection of the building, the classrooms, floor, heating plant, etc., and concluded that the city possesses a high school that is worth every cent that was expended for it.

AIM AT RAISING SUM OF $12,000

First Presbyterian Church Accepts Amount as Forward Movement Effort.

Dr. Robert Laird Addresses Presbytery Meeting Tuesday Afternoon.

London Presbytery, at the Tuesday afternoon session in the First Presbyterian Church, accepted $12,000 as its share of the $350,000, which is the sum set as the objective of the campaign of the fifth year in the Forward Movement.

The resolution brought in by the general interests committee, and adopted by the presbytery, was as follows: "That we as a presbytery express our strong approval of the fifth year program of the forward movement committee, as presented to the general assembly, and would urge our ministers to follow the suggestions outlined as regards expositions, preaching and giving of missionary information."

"That the October meeting of the presbytery be entirely devoted to conference for the fifth year program of the forward movement, and that only urgent business be transacted at that meeting."

"That this presbytery accept $12,000 as its share of the $350,000, which the church is hopeful of raising as a special thank offering to make up the deficit of the missions funds; that an appeal be made to congregations for self-denial and sacrifice in view of the special demands for thank offering this fall; that we ask the board to send a special speaker to present the subject of thank offering before the presbytery on the 19th and that the presbytery be divided into groups with conveners as was done a few years ago."

Dr. Robert Laird, treasurer of the Church of England in Canada, addressed the presbytery, assembled in the afternoon, on the forward movement, reviewing the cause which had led to the present deficit, and naming foreign exchange as one of the chief of them. He spoke eloquently and vigorously of the need for urgent effort in the fifth year campaign.

The report of the historical committee was presented by Rev. John Currie, and R. F. Ballagayne reviewed some interesting facts in connection with the history which is being compiled.

The booklet prepared by Rev. J. L. Stewart of Knox Church, Belmont, dealing with the history of Knox Church since its inauguration, was submitted to the presbytery by Dr. D. L. McCrae, who represented the Belmont Church.

It was decided by the presbytery some time ago that it should be represented at historical anniversaries within its bounds, on conditions that data concerning the early history of the church be submitted to the presbytery's historical committee.

It was a fact, the brigadier said, "that the majority of the great men of our own age are those who left school at an early age, commenced to work, and what education they received after that came through the agency of the night school, or extra reading."

"We should have some arrangement whereby boys of the adolescent age could work during the week and attend Saturday and night school, and more or less during July and August through the activities of the society. This does not include 203 interviews with persons in the office, exclusive of scores of visits to home in connection with the work throughout the city and county."

WILL NOT HOLD UP NEW PAVEMENT

extending on Oxford street from the Wharfedale road to a point a few yards from the bridge, where the cars turn about for their journey again to the city.

Of Little Use.

As Aid John Ashton points out, this spur is actually of but little use to the company, and its removal would create an advantage for the company as well as the residents throughout West London.

"It would probably mean a saving of a good three minutes' service throughout that district," explained the chairman of No. 2 committee Wednesday, "and would perhaps eliminate the necessity of a wait at the switch. The spur is so short that its removal would create but little inconvenience."

It is now practically assured that the pavement will be completed this fall. Once final sanction is given and the tracks removed the work can proceed without further delay.

City Engineer Brazier states that his department is only too willing and anxious to get as early a start as possible before the cold weather sets in.

The company will make provision to turn the West London cars at the corner of the Wharfedale road and Oxford street.

DELEGATES ARRIVE FOR ACADEMY OF MEDICINE

Western Ontario Physicians to Hear Dr. Banting on Diabetes Cure.

Physicians from various points in Western Ontario are expected to be present at the new medical school on Ottawa avenue when the Academy of Medicine meets Wednesday afternoon.

While no accurate list of delegates could be obtained this morning, the attendance is expected to be a large one.

Dr. Banting of Toronto will address the members on the cure of diabetes. It will be remembered, Dr. Banting is the discoverer of this cure. Much interest has been expressed locally over the results Dr. Banting has obtained, and it was said this morning that physicians would welcome the opportunity to hear his ideas at first hand.

Would Take Advantage of Bull Fight to Raise Funds for Branch Collegiate

Mayor Wilson Finds Humor in Matador's Suggestion That London Stage Spanish Sport.

THE city has a chance to secure without effort the sum of $250,000, or in other words, an adequate sum to pay for a branch collegiate institute in East London. If any of the money was left over, it could be devoted toward a new building to replace the old Empress avenue public school in West London.

Senor Gallardo, champion matador (bullfighter) of Spain, who is said to be rather an important personage in his home constituency, through his chief learned adviser, Senor Jose Garcia, makes this handsome offer, with certain qualifications, however.

In what appears to be a circular letter to His Worship Mayor Cameron Wilson, which was at hand Wednesday morning, the Spanish champion explains that all that Londoners have to do to earn this easy coin is to grant him formal permission to stage a bullfighting contest within the confines of their beautiful city.

It would appear that Senor Gallardo and his associates think quite highly of London, for they explain that "after a careful investigation of conditions throughout the continent, they have concluded that the Forest City is the ideal spot for the great event, with the provision, of course, that all legal requirements can be satisfactorily adjusted."

Aside from the great financial benefits to be derived by the city (the seniors guarantee $250,000 of the gate receipts), it was pointed out that London would derive untold benefit from the vast interest that would be aroused throughout the country. In short, it would be just the sort of undertaking that the chamber of commerce should interest itself in.

While not fully conversant with the legal aspect of the affair, the mayor opines that "it would not be a bad venture, perhaps, if the city receives the $250,000 in advance." As there seems to be but slight chance of such coming to pass, it can be assumed that his worship does not consider the promised boon with any degree of seriousness.

It is well that Londoners should know something of this business, so we introduce Senor Gallardo, Bull-fighter, the greatest exponent of the Spanish (and American) art. All the rest of his tribe were eaten alive when the mound builders swept down on Napoleon the day he arrived at Moscow. Senor, how do you like the people?

One of the spectators could hardly stand it any longer. He had served seven years as an apprentice in a butcher shop, but failed to get on to the business. He jumped into the ring and was going to take the part of the bull, then he roared at him to clear out or he'd head the gate receipts. Gallardo and Shovel threw the man over the fence, while he got attendance at the barn on the way out. When seen by our sporting editor he had nothing to say.

New we hope with the above explanation Londoners will know all about bull fights, so they can vote intelligently when they are asked to legalize this great national pastime in London.

URGES SATURDAY AND NIGHT SCHOOL

Brigadier Orlinton Asks When Children Will Learn Self-Reliance.

"Youth is the time when boys and girls lay the foundation for their entire future career, and if boys and girls go to school until they are eighteen years old, with no time for wage-earning, or self-support, how are they going to learn to become self-reliant?" said Brigadier Orlinton, of the Salvation Army, discussing the adolescent act, whereby at present children are forced to attend school until sixteen years of age, and commencing next September, will be obliged to attend until eighteen years of age.

"It is a fact," the brigadier said, "that the majority of the great men of our own age are those who left school at an early age, commenced to work, and what education they received after that came through the agency of the night school, or extra reading."

"We should have some arrangement whereby boys of the adolescent age could work during the week and attend Saturday and night school, and more or less during July and August through the activities of the society. This does not include 203 interviews with persons in the office, exclusive of scores of visits to home in connection with the work throughout the city and county."

The report that six children were received by the authorities from the juvenile court during the two months, does not by any means indicate, Inspector Kelly states, the work which confronts the society continually.

ing were appointed to draw up the rules for the inter-group efficiency cup competition.

Representatives from every church carrying out the rail Ranger and Tuxis programs from the board of the executive leadership of which is handled by the churches, while the finances are looked after by the Y. ## Handsomeness Rodolph Makes Bailiffs "Sniffle" Relating Movie Hero's Trials

HANDSOME RODOLPH.. Page 1. NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Handsomeness Rodolph Valentino wrung tears from the case-hardened bailiffs in Supreme Court before Justice Wasservogel when he caused his attorney to tell the world of a movie hero's sufferings for the sweet sake of art.

The bailiffs sniffed when Arthur Butler Graham, counsel for the heavy lover in "The Sheik," told of how Rodolph had no lounge on which to lie when waiting in his dressing-room, they sniffed when the attorney described Rodolph's humiliation attempting to disrobe and his movie costumes in an open automobile while on location.

Valentino was accompanied by Winifred Hudnut, who married Valentino once, but must wed him again in order to be his wife.

The young man's attorney said it was the Famous Players-Lasky Co. plaintiff in the suit, which compelled him to separate from Miss Hudnut. The movie company asks an injunction to restrain Valentino from fracturing his contract.

BIG PROGRAM AWAITS BOARD

Trustees to Decide Many Long Standing Worries at Meeting.

Acceptance of New Collegiate to Come Up For Discussion.

Upon the assumption that "all other things will be equal" the next regular session of the board of education Thursday bids fair to eclipse all former gatherings of a similar nature this year, from a viewpoint of achievement.

As the trustees have not assembled for these many weeks to discuss the leading educational issues of the day, many and different are the problems that are slated for close attention.

Quite a lengthy program has indeed been outlined, and for those interested in movements progressive the final approval of plans for the much-heralded but tardy school in South-east London should prove a tasty morsel.

Those who relish an occasional study in arithmetic or the higher mathematics may find the financial statements, involving the Kingston Construction Company and the central collegiate institute and the ultimate acceptance or rejection of the same, a fitting topic for general debate.

There are those again who would favor a more epic subject for perusal. Provision has been made in this respect, as the trustees will be asked to issue an ultimatum as to who shall be "boss" of the public school attendance department, Dr. George S. Weir or Miss Dallas Radcliffe.

Both lay claim to the title, it is reported. As this item of business is to be served up as a species of desert it will more than likely "top" the session, whether the trustees can indulge in free and easy conversation with no time limit set.

Well Balanced Bill.

There are a number of other well chosen selections, calculated to round out a well balanced bill; some highly important, others less so, as the employment of more teachers, plans for further school accommodation; comment upon the mayor's coal purchase, etc.

From casual observation quite an interesting gathering is to be anticipated, and a full house is expected, with the exception of Trustee W. T. Clark, who has already passed in his resignation.

Should the salary committee convene in the meanwhile, the trustees will be able to consider a request for increased remuneration from Dr. Weir.

DEFERS ACTION ON JUVENILE COURT

Children's Aid Society Shelves Question for Further Consideration.

What attitude the Children's Aid Society will ultimately assume respecting the juvenile court is rather problematical at this moment.

While the members of that body in regular session Tuesday received a report upon the question they deferred any official action until they refer the statement to a committee for "further consideration."

Discussing the proposition briefly Wednesday, W. E. Kelly voiced his determination to do everything possible in the future as in the past to make London a better city for all concerned, and stood ready to render every assistance toward the new court.

From the regular monthly reports submitted, it was revealed that no less than 462 persons had been more or less during July and August through the activities of the society. This does not include 203 interviews with persons in the office, exclusive of scores of visits to home in connection with the work throughout the city and county.

The report that six children were received by the authorities from the juvenile court during the two months, does not by any means indicate, Inspector Kelly states, the work which confronts the society continually.

BLAME ROAD CONDITIONS FOR MISHAP NEAR HENSALL

Eyewitnesses State Hole in Road Responsible for Broken Steering Gear.

Road conditions are blamed for the accident on the London road near Hensall on Sunday last, when a car driven by Charles Chapman of this city collided with a lighter car driven by a Mr. Green of Hay Township, which resulted in injuries to four occupants of Mr. Green's car when the two machines rolled into a deep ditch one on top of the other.

According to statements of eyewitnesses and the garage men who arrived later, a wheel of Mr. Chapman's car dropped into a hole in the road on the approach to the bridge, which resulted in a broken steering gear.

Mr. Chapman approached the bridge from the north just as Mr. Green drove into view from the south. Believing that Mr. Green intended to wait for him, Mr. Chapman drove across the bridge in ignorance of the damage to his car.

Mr. Green did not wait, and as the two cars were passing the broken steering gear on Mr. Chapman's car caused a slight side-sweeping collision, which caused the two autos to roll into the ditch. Fortunately the cars were proceeding slowly at the time.

Dr. Hindmann of Exeter and Dr. Peck of Hensall, who attended William Blackwell, who, with his wife, was in Mr. Green's car and who suffered the most extensive injuries, report that he is recovering nicely.

The condition of the road will be brought to the attention of the township, as several accidents have occurred at the identical spot.

DENT TESTIFIES AT BRANTFORD

"Me No Kill," Says Witness Before Wednesday Court.

Admits Finding Body in the House, All Cut Up.

Brantford, Sept. 20.—The Dent murder trial was resumed this morning. Detective Boylan stated that after George Alexander had appeared at the police station, Dent stated that the murderer was not "Alexander," but was "Bosonlan."

The police were unable to find any trace of the latter man.

Dr. Cameron, a local physician, swore that he had tested the matter on the exhibits shown and found them to be marks of human blood. Doctors Phillips and Chapin, who conducted the post mortem on Egan's body, gave evidence as to the manner in which the body was cut up—in twenty pieces, of which only one kidney was missing. The doctors stated that there was a round wound in the chest, which passed through the heart, that was caused before death took place.

Members of the city engineer's department and the local labor bureau testified that Dent got Peter Egan's pay check for work he had done for the city. The check was for $22. Further evidence was to the effect that Dent secured some wire and wrapping paper at stores in the city on the Tuesday in question. This wire and paper is said to be the same as those in which the remains of the murdered man were wrapped.

In his evidence, Dent declared that he had found the body in the house, cut up, and had tried to find Sergeant, but the Armenian Interpreter, but he failed to do so. He declared that "God knows I didn't. Me no kill." He admitted finding the body. It was all out up then, he told his counsel.

BAKER SEEKS UNION IN TOWN PLANNING

Urges City Council and Chamber of Commerce to Co-operate.

Closer co-operation between members of the city council and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, who are also included in the personnel of the London Town Planning Commission is urged by City Clerk Sam Baker.

The city clerk deplored, Wednesday, that Mayor T. J. Murphy was the only member who appeared for a session called for Tuesday afternoon.

"I am in touch with those members of the commission," he explained, "and I suppose that they did not come because they believed that there was nothing of importance to claim their attention."

While favoring strongly the proposed move by the provincial government to a special committee to investigate legislation in the planning centers, Mr. Baker adheres to his opinion that no city has accomplished as much, comparatively, in this respect as London.

Expenditure of a substantial sum has been expended, he pointed out, for surveys and the preparations of plans and maps and he holds that once the task has been undertaken it should not be allowed to lapse by reason of any misunderstanding or lack of co-operation between the various civic officials and administrators.

He touched upon the Chamber of Commerce, as involved in the question, not in a critical mood but while deprecating the absence of their representatives at the sessions.

GIVING-UP-BUSINESS SALE GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR LONDON MEN

Frank Turner's Selling-Out Sale of Men's Clothing Commences Wednesday Morning.

GIVES UP BUSINESS IN LONDON

A remarkable opportunity for London men to secure suits, overcoats and topcoats for fall and winter wear at remarkably low prices will be presented tomorrow morning, when Frank Turner, the well-known clothier and woolen merchant at 202 Dundas street, will commence his selling out sale, and dispose of his entire stock of men's made-to-measure clothes for any price it will bring.

Frank Turner is positively retiring from business, and closing up his London store, so that in this sale the selling price of each garment has been cut so low as to make buying immediately imperative. Everything must be sold, and sold at once, before the store closes on Monday next, Sept. 25.

As Frank Turner has always specialized on making men's made-to-measure clothes instead of ready-made, while the store has been in London next as far as sales are concerned, deliveries will be made up until the end of the month (Saturday, Sept. 30), so that men who order their suits or overcoats will have no fear of not getting them in as quick time as they desire.

This selling-out sale, coming right at the height of the new fall season, is very timely indeed, and offers a splendid opportunity for every man in London to save money on his winter wardrobe. Everything must be sold, there are no restrictions or reservations, and it should be borne in mind that while the prices have been cut sensationally low, no reasonable offer for any garment or quantity of cloth will be refused.
