Men Behaved Unflinchingly in Their Efforts to Rescue Entombed Fellow-Beings After Recent Explosion

Recent Explosion

Among the category of "the silent men who do things" the miners of Extension must be numbered. They have lived up to the highest traditions of that heroic community who spend a great portion of their lives under ground. Their work in striving to the dead. "I very much doubt if that report true," said Mr. Orcutt. "I know is true," said Mr. Orcutt. "I know Canada is waking up, and that plans have been inade to extend the ship-building industry in that country, and the report doubtless arises from that fact. Harland-& Wolff, however, have a very large plant in Ireland, and they have recently spent a great deal of money in modernizing it. So I do not think they intend removing to Canada.

It may possibly be that they intend establishing a branch there." James R. Harrison, agent for the James R. Harrison, agent for the Harland & Heldingsworth corporation, shipbuilders, said he had heard nothing of the report of the moving of the plant and that he does not believe it is well founded.

While those who tolled to recover the bodies from the mine were busy, others were engaged in work they cared less for—comforting those whose loved ones had been taken from them by the cruel damp. Others looked after the bodies that were borne away wrapped in sheets, standing guard over them until they were taken to the homes at Ladysmith. All were men with a man-

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Archbishop of Canterbury some time ago gave notice that he would bring forward a motion in the House of Lords on the report of the Poor Law Commission. It was expected, probably not by himser alone, that the occasion would be regarded as of considerable interest, in view not only of his own position, but the importance of the subject.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—An elaborate scheme of alleged swindling is being investigated by the police here. Some months ago a man, believed to be an Englishman, and calling himself 'Dr. Raff,' opened premises in a populous street in Paris and advertised very widely certain remedies for every ill that flesh is helr to.

He called them the "new era American remedies," and in addition to advertising them he sent men into the suburbs to explain the remarkable properties of his medicine. These men called chiefly upon people of the humblest classes. They were told that Dr. Raff's remedies were very cheap, and that treatment could be carried on either by correspondence or by visiting his establishment.
