

T HE favorable reception this Work has met with, claims the Author's moft grateful acknowledgments. A large edition having run off in a few months, and the fale appearing to be ftill unabated, a new imprefion is become neceffary. On this occation was he to conceal his feelings, and pafs over in filence, a diftinction fo beneficial and flattering, he would juftly incur the imputation of ingratitude. That he might not do this, he takes the opportunity, which now prefents itfelf, of conveying to the Public (though in terms inadequate to the warm emotions of his heart) the fenfe he entertains of their favor; and thus transmits to them his thanks.

In this new edition, care has been taken to rectify those errors which have unavoidably proceeded from the hurry of the prefs, and likewife any incorrectness in the language that has found its way into it.

As to the former, he has related it juft as in happened. Being an eye-witnefs to the whole transaction (ind, he flatters himfelf, at the time, free from every transference cal offinacy or enthuliaftic credulity) he was conferently able to defcribe every circumftance minutely and impacti-
