

in Jesus," with portrait, cloth, 50c. "Key Words of the Inner Life," by Rev. F. B. Meyer, B.A., cloth, 50c.; white cloth, 60c.

The sale of poets has greatly increased since the feature of special bindings has been introduced to the Canadian market, and to-day the wide-awake bookseller may cater to the varied tastes of his customers, and at the same time meet the possibilities of his pocket book, by securing any of the popular poets in imitation morocco, embossed calf, Algerian seal, paste grain, half-calf, extra seal, Levant morocco, all limp or padded, and artistically designed. These lines are a specialty with the W. J. Gage Co. (Ltd.).

Justin Winsor, the scholarly librarian of Harvard University, is the author of a work (just issued by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston) which is sure to receive careful attention from the students of American history generally, and should especially be familiar to all who seek to know the history of the St. Lawrence and lake region, or of any part of that region. Its title is: "Cartier to Frontenac. Geographical Discovery in the Interior of North America in its Historical Relations, 1534-1700. With full cartographical illustrations from contemporary sources."

Robert Elsmere's author, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, has a new novel ready. The Canadian edition of this book, "Marcella," will be controlled by the Toronto News Co., and will be in two volumes at $1 each. Among the other books to be issued by them during March is "Katharine Lauderdale," by F. Marion Crawford; "Handsome Humes," by Wm. Black, paper, 75c.; "Lisbeth," by Leslie Keith, author of "A Hurricane in Petticoats"; "Mr. Wayt's Wife's Sister," by Marion Harland; "Lottie's Wooing," by Darley Dale, author of "Village Blacksmith," and "Countess Radna," by W. E. Norris. The News Company is excelling itself just now with its new publications.

American book amateurs will be interested to know that the list of private libraries in America, now being compiled by G. Hedeler, of Leipzig, already includes the stately number of 500 considerable libraries. Those happy possessors of libraries with whom Mr. Hedeler has been unable to communicate, are requested to furnish him with a few details as to the extent of their treasures and the special direction to which they devote themselves. It is obviously to the interest of bibliographical science that a work of this kind should be as complete as possible, so that it is advisable not to delay sending in the information, else the editor may, to his regret, be compelled to go to press without it.

The Methodist Book & Publishing House are bringing out a Canadian copyright edition of "The Stickit Ministers," a book which has made the name of S. R. Crockett familiar throughout the English speaking world. Of him the London Literary World remarks: "Mr. Crockett's is a new name in literature, but it has come to stay. He has the making of a great writer in him—fire, pathos, humor, wide sympathies, keen insight into character, a touch at once light and masterly, and a style nervous and flexible. It is, doubtless, too early to make a comparison between the two writers, but so far Crockett indicates a wider range than Barrie, and in the delineation of boy character he is facile princeps. Barrie has no pair like 'Jimmy and Jaikie,' while 'Cleg Kelly,' in the present writer's memory and esteem, at least, has only one possible rival in English literature—the inimitable 'Whaup' of Wm. Black." The book will be in the hands of the booksellers in a very few weeks, and should find rapid sale.

FRED. T. BUTLER.

FRED. T. BUTLER, formerly with the Copp, Clark Co., is now managing the Canadian business of the Tower Manufacturing and Novelty Co., of New York. He has opened an office in Toronto, and is showing samples of lines of stationery, school goods, fancy goods, novelties, etc., in enormous range. Mr. Butler's long experience in selling fancy goods and stationery should enable him to make a grand success with this magnificent line.

In 1881 Mr. Butler entered the employment of Warwick Bros. & Rutter, going on the road for them in 1884. In 1888 he changed to travel for the Copp, Clark Co., with whom he remained up to the present time. He is the inventor of several Canadian box games now manufactured by the latter firm, and is original as well as capable. Mr. Butler has a host of Canadian friends who will wish him all success in his new venture. He has always been popular with his employers and customers.

THE PHOTORET.

THE Photoret is one of those great, little inventions that will surely find its way into the pockets of the people on account of its novelty and oddity; but once there it will stay, by reason of practical utility, for the truly wonderful service this ever ready little slave of the button will render to its owner, should make it an indispensable pocket companion." The Photoret resembles in appearance and size an ordinary hunting case watch, and if a friend drew one from his pocket, casually consulted it, and replaced it, you would not give the occurrence a second thought, as what more natural than for him to take the time of day? You might even ask him what o'clock it was, but, unless posted, you would never dream that in that instant of supposed consultation with his watch your friend had "shot" you with his photoret, whose tiny clink recorded your features within its body for later publication at the will of its master; for, truth to tell, the Photoret is a sorry little deceiver, and beneath the innocent guise of an everyday watch lurks what is in reality a complete magazine photograph camera, having snap shots and time exposure adjustments, with automatic registering attachments; it is neither a useless toy nor a humbug, but a practical, high class photographic camera, scientifically constructed upon the same principles, and producing results in miniature equal to those reached by the best large and higher priced magazine cameras.

This toy retails at about $3 each, and is controlled in Canada by H. A. Nelson & Son*, Toronto.
