

FOREWORD

This report has been prepared for the Commission on Aboriginal Development by the people of Canada and we are pleased to have had the opportunity to contribute to the work of our fellow Canadians. We hope that this report will be of some help to you in your work.

There are three main parts to this report. The first part is an overview of the Commission's work. The second part is a report on the Commission's findings and recommendations. The third part is a report on the Commission's work in the areas of housing, health, and education.

The Commission was established in 1987 to study and report on the social, economic, and cultural conditions of Aboriginal peoples in Canada. It has held numerous public hearings and has received many suggestions and criticisms from the public.

It is our hope that this report will be of some help to you in your work.

The Commission's work is ongoing and we will continue to report on our findings and recommendations.

The Commission's work is ongoing and we will continue to report on our findings and recommendations.

The Commission's work is ongoing and we will continue to report on our findings and recommendations.

The Commission's work is ongoing and we will continue to report on our findings and recommendations.