

Subjects not commonly taken in school are as follows:

German	2 students.
Greek	3 "
Hebrew	3 "
Sociology	1 "
Economics	2 "
Philosophy	1 "

One student, Mr. Williams, has only had History, Economic History and Economics in his university course at Cambridge University, England, although he claims to have studied advanced Mathematics and Classics privately after matriculation.

Physics: This is the successor of school science subjects. 15 had no physics, 18 had one year of physics and 3 had two years of physics.

Chemistry: 23 had taken no chemistry, 10 one year, 3 two years and one a three year course.

Geology: 14 had taken a year's course in geology, 14 had taken geology in connection, 3 in philosophy, 20 in history and 4 in other subjects.

Various students had taken courses in German, 3 in Greek and 1 in Hebrew.

Specialized Students: Total 9

The student had no English, and no French, but studied Latin and Greek, and had no Mathematics, one student had no English, the following numbers of students had only one year of the various mentioned subjects:

English	3 students
French	1 "
Latin	1 "
Greek	1 "
Hebrew	1 "

There is very large proportion of the class that devote at least school subjects beyond the first year.