RECIPROCITY AND PRICES.
When the reciprocity organs went after the farmers' vote, they pointed to the higher prices ruling in the United States and asked why the grain growers of Canada should be deprived of the opportunity to make the additional profit which that market offered. Now that they have abandoned the farmers and turned their attention to the consumers, they represent that lower retail prices are current in the United States and ask triumphantly why the public should be deprived of the benefit of buying in that market. Obviously there is some defect in the logic of one or other of these inconsistent representations.

In the matter of tariff duties the reciprocity advocates achieved the surprising result of proving to their own satisfaction that Canadians paid the duties when they exported to the United States and had the duties added to the price of what they imported from that country. No explanation has ever been offered by these professedly expert producers of why Canadian producers should always be penalized and United States producers always be benefited by the existence of their respective tariffs. Of course none could be given except that it suited their purpose so to use these mutually destructive representations.

If Canadian farmers, under reciprocity, can go in and get the advantage of the higher prices ruling in the United States, why should not United States producers of meats and canned goods come into Canada and get the benefit of the higher prices said to be current here? The simple fact is that quality for quality and apart from local differences due to distance, expense of transportation, and other special circumstances, there is no such difference in prices as has been alleged. That reciprocity will affect the cost of living in either country is a delusion and Canada is being invited to barter away her fiscal independence for what is but a shadow without reality or substance.

SHRINK FROM CLOSER CONTACT.
The last issue of The New York Nation, the able weekly journal connected with The New York Post, contains an editorial on "The Serious Canadian Opposition" to the reciprocity agreement. The astounding attitude of the Nation asks with commendable candor, "The situation of the United States is not now such as to make patriotic Canadians honestly shrink from putting themselves into closer contact with us?" The quotes as a weighty indication of the Canadian line of reasoning the following passage from a recent speech of the Honorable Clifford Sifton, formerly a member of the present Dominion Government:

"We regard the United States as a great nation confronted by serious problems of unemployment, of exhausted resources, and monopolies of control of commerce. We wish our great neighbors well in the solution of their difficult questions, but we do not desire to mingle their problems with ours. We object to this treaty because it finds the monopolies of Canada in firm bonds of social and commercial union with the United States."

The Nation says that in this passage "there is food for thought, not only for Canadians, but for Americans." Then this journal goes on to say with firm frankness that it will have to be confessed that Mr. Sifton could justify some of his statements by citing American public men. That we Americans have squandered our natural resources until some of them are at the vanishing point, has been a commonplace with us for years. Particularly in the matter of our forests, continues The Nation, "the charge of Mr. Sifton be maintained, and this fact shown to have a direct connection with our efforts to establish reciprocity with Canada." Then this journal goes on to say that the desire to extend their purchasing radius for wood pulp and printing paper was a great driving force in the American desire for reciprocity. In conclusion, it admits that all that has been said in Canada about the United States having fallen into the grip of monopoly, and about the country having labor and industrial problems of the most difficult kind to work out is only too true.

The significance of these admissions made by the most weighty of New York journals will be obvious to us all save those who are blinded by self-interest or party prejudice. These admissions are further emphasized by the despatch in The Chicago Sunday Tribune from its special correspondent in Montreal, Mr. J. C. O'Loughlin. He sums up the arguments advanced by Canadians against reciprocity in the following passage: "The result of reciprocity in Canada will be a fall in Canadian prices, a corresponding decrease in Canadian wages, the placing of Canadian industries at the mercy of the United States, the lowering of values of farm lands, and the death-blow of Canadian prosperity." After pointing out that it is believed in Canada that President Taft was inspired in part by the American trusts, Mr. O'Loughlin says that Canadians foresee the American fish trust gaining control of the Canadian fisheries, the American beef trust securing dominance of the cattle and beef trade, the American lumber trust disposing of Canadian forests, the American milling trust placing the Canadian wheat growers under their heel and the American brewers "fixing" the prices of Canadian barley. This special correspondent of The Chicago Tribune shows that Canadians are not without their eyes. The purpose of the Americans in negotiating the reciprocity treaty was to effect American exploitation of Canada, and that this policy is due to the appreciation of the Washington Government that the natural resources of the United States are practically exhausted and that American industries are forced to turn to Canada for their materials.

That is, we are once more to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the Americans. We are to do the rough work, we are to supply the resources, the wealth, the Americans, while doing the rest, will "do" us at the same time.

Many intelligent persons are to-day searching for matters of significance in the columns of the newspapers on the reciprocity question. We commend to their careful attention the utterances here quoted.

THE STAR'S SOUR APPLES.
The Star has a page of "Ontario manufacturers who are supporting the reciprocity pact because it will give a free impetus to their industries." Take St. Catharines as a sample. St. Catharines has some large and splendid industries, and The Star prints the names of:

The three Flynn Brothers, cannery, Liberals; A. Meyer, baker, and James P. Howe, of the same company, all ways Liberals; E. D. Volzard, brick and tile manufacturer, always Liberal; James and Frank Cunningham, foundrymen, always Liberals; R. Thompson, St. Catharines Cold Storage Co., former Liberal candidate; W. H. McCordick, brick and coal yard, always Liberal. These industries are not in any way representative of St. Catharines, which, like all other industrial centres, is overwhelmingly against the pact. Readers in other places will be able to judge The Star list as it represents them locally. They are all on a par.

Laurier and larger trusts.
Reciprocity was not made in Canada. Laurier and Taft and larger markets for United States farmers.

THE GLOBE AND ALBERT CHAMBERLAIN.
Arthur Hawkes has written The Globe the following terms: "Altogether the Globe has properly ceased to describe me as the paid agent of the Conservative party. I see you allow Mr. Albert Chamberlain to repeat the lie in your columns. Will you allow me to state in the most unequivocal way that I have not the slightest responsibility to the Conservative party and that, so far as the British-Born movement is represented by anything I have had to do with it, it will be as free from both political parties in Canada after the election as it was in its infancy, and has been throughout the campaign? It may be well to state again that I have absolutely no connection with the Imperial mission."

OUTWITTED BY UNITED STATES.
Editor World: It is humiliating to think that we have been always outwitted in our negotiations with the United States. At this crisis let us take warning from the past and destroy the germ of annexation or "political union" as "hears" prefer to call it, by rejecting reciprocity. It is only 64 years ago I remember we came nearly to blows arising from the Oregon question. The British Government did not then estimate us at our true value, as it has learned to do since, and in a conciliatory spirit as blood relations proposed to refer the boundary question to arbitration, but Mr. Polk absolutely refused. The United States claimed the country on the principle of priority of discovery, exploration and

BOY BURGLARS.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Two boy burglars, aged 9 and 5 years, were today captured at the residence of a woman by a reserve squad of three detectives and three uniformed policemen, while ransacking the home of August T. Day in Williamsburg. John Konchinsky, the elder boy, defiantly cried: "I ain't square," while the little George Bills, anything but a bold burglar, wailed: "I wanna go home!" The younger lad was taken home, while the elder was sent to the children's court. It is thought that they were being used as tools by some gang of burglars.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—Pleading guilty to seven charges of burglary, committed in the north end of the city, and of securing in this manner goods to the value of $2000, Emile Harpin, the 18-year-old son of respectable parents, came before Judge Choquet this morning for sentence, and was committed to the penitentiary for three years.

THE HEINTZMAN & CO.'S PLAYER-PIANO.
The special features that enter into the construction of the new Heintzman & Co. Player Piano make it an instrument worth while investigating by everyone interested in the building of a piano. One will act promptly in rushing to know more of this distinctive player piano before they think of making a purchase on exhibition at the Warehouses "Ye Olde Piano," 125-127 Yonge-st.

settlement. They claimed that Jacob Astor effected a settlement there in 1811—also under the treaty with France ceding Louisiana in 1803, and Spain ceding Florida in 1819. The British claimed that Captain Cook, sailing under English authority, discovered in 1778 all the coast north of 44 degrees, that both Capt. Berkeley and Capt. Duncan landed there in 1807, and that Vancouver surveyed all north of 49 degrees in 1792-3-4; that Sir Wm. Mackenzie at the same time crossed the Rocky Mountains and passed the west of Fuca, being the first white man to go from ocean to ocean; that in 1806 and 1841 other boats were established by the Northwest Company even on the bank of the Columbia River, etc.

Mr. Mackenzie, our plenipotentiary at Washington, offered to divide the territory commencing at 40 degrees and following the Columbia River to the ocean, but the States declined. The 49th parallel, only, and this absurdity was unfortunately agreed to by our representatives. It is because they invariably set the advantage of England owing to bluster and mistaken sentiment in all our boundary and territorial questions that we work of better oppose reciprocity and continue to develop our great Dominion by industry and intelligence rather than by the ill-will appearing as a spot in the horizon. You have done nobly in this contest. I wish you every success in your election. Columbus H. Greene.

THEY BACK HIM UP
President Rowley of the Eddy Company Has Employees Behind Him.
OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Special)—Referring to The Toronto Globe's editorial of last week, headed "Will to Wound, Afraid to Strike," which begins by accusing him of "Crass, brutal and unabashed intimidation" of the Eddy Co's employees, Mr. W. L. Rowley, president of the company, said to The World correspondent, he had no objection to the representation of the Globe as he readily could have to say there was no thought or intention on his part, or on the part of the company, to unduly influence, much less intimidate any of its managers, agents, officials, or any one else in its employ. "I don't know," he said, "because I do not know the views of the executive of the company felt on this great public and patriotic issue, and know that he had a perfect right to tell them, and feeling that his employees ought to know what the views were of the company, he has been managing this large mercantile business for many years past, and feeling that the company had a claim on the sympathy and support of those most deeply interested in its affairs, he had asked for their support, because the company is deeply interested in the future of Canadian resources, Canadian home trade and Canadian industries."

Mr. Rowley added that he is absurd for anyone to suppose, and it is "an official decision to give the required promise might as well resign his position at once." It may be some comfort for The Globe to know that not only the managers and agents of the company to a man have promised to support and are behind the back of the proposition in this matter, but that scores upon scores of merchants throughout Canada with whom the Eddy Co. deals, have telegraphed and written Mr. Rowley not only encouragingly, but approvingly on the subject.

BURNED BY REBELS.
PEKIN, Sept. 18.—The French legation has received a despatch from Suifu that the province yamen at that place have been attacked and burned by the rebels. Many persons were killed. The Chinese foreign board has received reports of an attack on the yamen at Kiatung-Pu, but details are lacking. The board also has been advised that the yamens have been looted in five towns in the neighborhood of Cheng-Tzu.

LABOR MAN AGAINST PACT
W. J. Hevey Declares It Must Inevitably Crush Canadian Workers.
Any impression that the independent labor party is a unit for reciprocity is dispelled by W. J. Hevey, a prominent labor man, who ran on the labor ticket in North Toronto three years ago. Mr. Hevey is strongly against the pact. "If any party leans to it, all they would be towards Liberalism, as I come from Liberal forefathers, but I certainly think that the pact would be a heavy blow to the workingman," he said to The World last night. The farmer and consumer can't both benefit. If farm produce has a free market, the farmer is bound to ask for a similar market in manufactured goods, and with protection from the big trusts of the United States wiped out, Canadian industries will surely be ruined and the workman must suffer. Labor man interested in the good of the masses, I say there should be no reciprocity."

HOME FOR PRIVATE CLIFFORD.
Every other representative of Canada, who has won the King's Prize at the national rifle gathering at Biele, has been presented with a home, excepting up to date Private W. J. Clifford of the 10th Royal Grenadiers who is the only native Canadian to have accomplished this feat. Taking this into consideration, a committee has been formed to collect subscriptions with a view to presenting Private Clifford with a house and lot.

MEANS WORK FOR 300 MEN.
Managing Director T. A. Russell of the Russell Motor Car Co. announced yesterday that if the reciprocity pact is defeated, the company in the near future will most likely increase their staff from 100 to 150 men. Mr. Russell said that if the present tariff were maintained, business prospects would be particularly bright for the future.

WATCHING CENTRE TORONTO.
Nothing should prevent the authorities having policemen at the polling booths in Centre Toronto to-morrow, if desired by either party; and they will certainly be desired by those who wish to have law and order observed during the polling.

INFAMOUS TRICKERY IS DENOUNCED BY RABBI

Efforts to Stampede Jewish Vote to Aid, Maguire Warmly Resented at Big Meeting.

The most orderly and attentive meeting so far held in the Centre Toronto campaign was the one presided over by Mayor Geary in the Loric Theatre last night. The meeting was a Bristol one, and the fact that the thousands of electors present followed the addresses of the candidates and supporters with unwavering interest and great enthusiasm, and displayed a very marked attitude against the reciprocity proposal, was an excellent indication that the Conservative candidate has the support of the majority of the Jewish people of Toronto.

Dr. Shyne addressed the audience in English, and his speech was full of fight and fire. "Don't let them control you. Don't let them mislead you. If reciprocity carries it will be a sad day for this country and its people," he said. The candidate started in at one point and nailed several minor campaign lies, and then turned his attention to the mayor, who was attempting to make out of saying that the Conservatives were linked with the Nationalist "I don't know of any alliance between Mr. Borden and Mr. Bourassa, and as for me, I have never seen Mr. Bourassa for five years, and the last time was when he sat in the house of commons behind me. I have never seen him since, and I have expressed those anti-Jewish opinions at the time of the Russian outrages, and I have not written Mr. Borden a letter stating my attitude then, and my position now."

Rabbi Jacobs' Letter.
"The rabbi's letter follows: "I very much regret that unfair and untrue rumors are being used to prejudice the voters of Centre Toronto against me in the approaching elections. I consider the statement that Mr. Borden had used the malicious language attributed to him by The Daily Eagle as a vile and malicious falsehood. I know it to be untrue, because I was in the house of commons when Mr. Borden made those anti-Jewish opinions at the time of the Russian outrages, and I have not written Mr. Borden a letter stating my attitude then, and my position now."

Carefully Engineered Snap Vote Failed to Give Maguire Victory.
If The Star's meat quotations are no more reliable than the figures they provide for the snap vote on reciprocity taken by the Retail Grocers' Association on Monday night, they are hardly a sure index.

The Star said that the meeting voted almost 2 to 1 for reciprocity, and mentioned the incontrovertible fact that there were just 12 men present after the meeting had adjourned, when President Miller, a warm supporter of Ald. Maguire, suggested a vote. It also omitted to say that of the twelve, six voted against the pact, while one of the supporters said afterwards that he intended to vote for A. E. Kemp. So the score was really 7 to 5 against reciprocity, and this despite the fact that Mr. Miller, thinking to make a coup, had asked the evening paper to be represented.

A deputation of four officers of the association called on The World last night to give the retail grocers' vote as they were present when the vote was taken. They were R. W. Davies, vice-president; R. B. Snow, treasurer; D. Bell, acting secretary; and R. Matthews of the executive.
