

WOMEN ELECTORS INFLUENCE POLL

General Opinion on Street
Was That O.T.A. Would Stand Amended.

Strong upholders of the government were among those who raved yesterday afternoon at the powers that be. It was estimated that at the polling booth at 184 Simcoe street 50 returned men and 50 others had to be sworn in, while many others raved at the deputy and his assistants because their names had been left off the voters' lists. One irate woman, the sister of an official at a booth on Hampton avenue, Northeast, Toronto, in an interview with The World emphasized the fact that she had registered at the Kyrie building offices so that there might be no doubt of her being listed among the electors. But no, when the subdivision station was reached she found that she was among the missing.

Not Naturalized.
Perhaps the most noteworthy instance of quick work noted during the long journey made by The World thru several ridings and many subdivisions in the city was that of Mrs. Jankoff Dolgoff, 60 Waseley street, who was refused permission to vote on the ground that she was not naturalized. She could neither speak English nor could she write, but her husband is a naturalized Britisher, and he demanded a vote on her behalf. As soon as the refusal was definitely given a chieftain of the Transcan-Downard forces got busy and in a trice whiskered the disappointed couple thru to the city hall. The World asked him if the couple were going to procure a certificate of naturalization from Judge Cohen. He was very irate, and expressed the opinion that Judge Cohen would remain a judge only a few short days more. At the city hall Judge Denton handed Mrs. Dolgoff a certificate entitling her to vote, and twelve minutes later she had marked her X as per schedule. In an interview with The World Judge Denton pointed to that clause of the Ontario elections act which gives the wife of a naturalized Britisher the right to vote provided she holds a certificate entitling her to do so.

The Women's Vote.
Referendum scrutineers were on the job at every booth or almost at every booth. They were especially busy in outlying sections of the city, and indications are that in sections of Riverdale, Northeast Toronto, Southeast Toronto, Northwest Toronto and the Yorks the women's vote will be found to be exceptionally large. Other scrutineers were noted in many booths, but not as well organized as those of the prohibitionists.
One Westlake avenue booth, of East York, was visited by 60 women electors up to half past eleven. The same subdivision had recorded four women's votes up to one o'clock on election day, Dec. 17, 1917, a day memorable because of the election battle for conscription. Many women went to the polls decided to defeat prohibition at every turn. One labor man, who is an enthusiastic prohibitionist on behalf of the Labor party, stated that he knew of one street where twelve women and twenty men were staunch supporters of the four-year campaign. Another man stated that he had approached a fellow restaurateur with a Joan MacDonald car two days ago, and that same chap was also named John MacDonald. That one asserted that he and a host of other canny Scotmen in his factory would vote for his namesake. "Aye tak it fra me, me mon, monny a bonnie lassie will do the like," he concluded. So the general feeling of the man on the street during the day yesterday was that altho the women had helped in the largest vote ever polled in Toronto of their vote might well be divided into three classes: 1. Those who were staunch church members and would vote prohibition and also Hearst; 2. the wives of returned soldiers, who would in nine cases out of ten vote four years, and 3. the wives and daughters of Britishers of long residence in Canada, who would vote for government regulation of liquor, and definitely against the repeal of the O. T. A. It was, therefore, generally conceded that the Ontario temperance act would stand because the prohibitionists and the regulationists.

Innocent Questions.
Deputy returning officers were subject to all manner of questions, women, and others in some cases, asking who was running for election. One old lady in a Northeast Toronto subdivision innocently asked the official, "Is this where I vote for Joe Thompson?" It is related that when the daughter of a household in this same riding returned home she was asked how she voted, Labor, Liberal or Joe Thompson. "Why, mother," she said, "I honestly know whom to vote for, so I just xed the whole lot of them." In another North-east Toronto subdivision an elector asked the deputy if his vote was invalidated because he had omitted to

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probability nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion. Gas distends the stomach and causes sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach and the trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Cascarets, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quart of water after meals, or after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments, and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bicarbonate of soda, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digests. So, Cascarets comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Cascarets, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

DEWS OF EVE
No More Gentle Than
"Cascarets" for the
Liver, Bowels
It is just as needless as it is dangerous to take useless or nasty cathartics. Nature provides no shock-absorbers for your liver and bowels against the harmful effects of laxatives and salts. Cascarets give quick relief without injury from constipation. Bileousness, indigestion, gases and sick headache, "cascarets" work while you sleep, removing the toxins, poisons and sour, indigestible waste without griping or inconvenience. Cascarets regulate by strengthening the bowel muscles. They cost so little too.

WINTER IN ALGONQUIN PARK.
As a winter panacea for coughs and colds Algonquin Park cannot be equalled. Two thousand feet above the sea, it is always dry and cold and usually bright, and no matter how cold it is the man with a sweater will never suffer. Days spent in snow, tramp tramps through primitive forests, in the breathless flight of the toboggan or ski, and in the ring of steel against the ice-bound waters of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse around the cozy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire; these slip away unnoticed, but those who have once experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory that the "Highland Inn," which has been a relaxing south. The "Highland Inn," owned and operated by the Grand Trunk Railway, offers comfortable accommodation at reasonable rates. For all particulars apply to N. T. Clarke, Algonquin Park Station, Ontario.
