Chicago Gossip.

Marshall Spader & Co. wired J. G.
Beaty at the close:

Wheat—Despite rather bullish general statistics the wheat market to-day has turned from a firm affair at the start to a duli, weak and dragging market sline. Aggressive short selling of May by the northwest, weak markets east, May by the northwest, weak markets east, where high money rates prevail, and a poor export and domestic demand for cash wheat, are the depressing features. Those of the other sort nave been the firmer cables the light northwest, and the modest increase in the visible supply. The close was dull and without feature. Can see nothing to warrant any permanent deciline, hence continue to look for higher values later on.

Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitcheit. Wheat—With the exception of a brief period during the early session, interest in wheat was almost at a standstill. Initial transactions revealed a shade firmer feeling, induced by an effort on the partiment and gave the most prominent on the selling side, which gradually changed sentiment and gave the most prominent on the selling side, which gradually changed sentiment and gave the market a saging tendency. The tenor of the news was rather favorable to bearish traders, but nothing of more than merely passing importance developed, and the market lacked attractiveness all day. The failure of the public to become interested in the masket is a bearist factor, adding to the depressed feeling a ready existing. Not until some factor of more than merely passing importance developed can we hope for a period of genuine activity.

Corn and oats were sold rather freely by local hearish traders, the former feeling, the most pressure. Prices yielded fractionally, but the tone was rather steady, more especially in oats.

Provisions were fairly active, but with hardly the same degree of interest maniferant manufactures. The same degree of interest maniferant manufactures. The same degree of interest maniferant manufactures. The same degree of interest maniferant manufactures and t

Representative, Sales.

William Levack bought 18 carloads of fat cattle. The prices paid by Mr. Levack were the same as those given above, which are his quotations of the market for fat cattle.

McDonald & Maybee, commission salesmen, were elated over the victory won by their celebrated raceborse, Herman Johnston. This horse has certainly distinguished himself by beating such good horses as Quadrille and Niblick, thereby fooling the talent at Pimlico, when he won at 15 to 1 from Mr. Shields, formerly of Toronto, but now of New York.

J. M. O'Donnell, Forest, Ont., had the best load of butchers' heiters, which averaged 1100 lbs. each.

M. B. Williams had the best lambs and the best milch cow on the market,
