Controlled Foster declares that the answers to his questions regarding the affairs of the Canadian National Exhibition are not satisfactory. There was no explanation of the disposition of the pictures purchased by the art gallery of the exhibition during the past five years, in the answer of Dr. Orr, the controller claims, and he finds fault with the fact that four cheques totaling $205.50 made out to "Arthur Black" were endorsed by Dr. Orr and to Mrs. Annie Orr on different occasions.

Exhibition officials reply to the controller's criticism with the explanation that the Black cheques were endorsed over to the Orrs because one of the cars used belonged to Major George Orr, son of Dr. Orr. Major Orr, who is over seas, left instructions with his chauffeur that the car was to be rented whenever an opportunity arose. They state that no pictures bought by them have ever been disposed of, and that them being at the city hall and the rest at the Exhibition.

"The Quality Goes Clear Through"

JEWISH BAKERS WOULD ARBITRATE

Realize Futility of Fighting Boycott and Would Make Terms.

Realizing the futility of fighting a general boycott, the Jewish bakers have climbed down yesterday and are now holding out the olive branch.

On leaving a newspaper office yesterday, where they had registered their side of the case, they met Harry Winberg, proprietor of The Hebrew Journal, and after considerable debate agreed to arbitrate as a means of ending the deadlock. To The World Mr. Winberg said that the bakers were anxious to lift the boycott and were willing to submit the matter to any competent commission. He added that he would get the two parties together on Monday in the hope of reaching a settlement. "No women," Mr. Winberg continued, "will sit at the meeting of the arbitration commission, but only three or four of the most competent men from each side."

Yesterday being Friday, the day when the Jewish housewife is busy preparing for the Sabbath, nothing startling occurred in the Ward, the day passing without a single outbreak from the strikers. Last night being Sabbath eve no meetings of any kind were held, although excited groups gathered in the streets to discuss the bread strike.

Before the boycott was declared the output of the 15 Kosher bakers was over 4,000 loaves per day. Now all the bakers have their own bread, and those that have not the facilities go to their neighbors. The grocery stores and the restaurants are also behind the strike, and for the last three days have not bought a single loaf. One restaurant keeper on Elizabeth street has even resorted to the use of "matzoh," the unleavened bread used at Passover time, stocks of which are always available and cost 12 cents per pound.
