part of the art of racing a good deal of attention. As a member of the profession it is needless for me to say I forthcoming season will compare familiated the appointment has been with those of either year, as made, and I shall be excused for exmade, and I shall be excused for extended to the hope that it will be a hope that will be a hope that it will be a hope t made, and I shall be excused for expressing the hope that it will be a permanent one. In the United States all the leading officials are or have been journalists, including W. S. Vosburg, Francis Trevelyan, H. C. Crickmore, Victor Sass, Chris Fitzgerald, etc. It is only reasonable to suppose that journalists who have made a life-time study of sport should be better posted than any other class of the community on the requirements of certain situations. Meantime, it might be stated that although a good deal of the stock of the club has been taken, some of it is still to be had.

St. Frusquin, Persimmon, Regret, Knight of the Thistic, Shaddock, Omlading Bucephalus and Galeazzo are as good-looking as could be wished, and we have yet to see such slashing dark horses as the Winter King. To this list we would add the name of that brilliant performer the Hall Mark colt, now known as Zebac, were it not that unfortunately he has become thick in the wind, which will explain why he has been struck out of the Derby and other of the more valuable races. Furthermore, in the promise that the season gives us is the interesting fact that H.R.H. the Prince of Sass, Chris Fitzgerald, etc. It is only reasonable to suppose that journalists who have made a life-time study of sport should be better posted that unfortunately he has become thick in the wind, which will explain why he has been struck out of the Derby and other of the more valuable races. abeyance for a few years, and that civic legislation lie fallow.

Much has been expected of the Patrons, but they have as a rule supported the Government. Their roaring has been like that of a sucking dove, and at the end of the session the veteran Sir Oliver finds himself securely ensconced in power, the Opposition have scored few points against his policy as a whole.

SOME AMUSING INCIDENTS

When Sir Richard Temple, after a vigorous speech in Parliament, ended-up by telescoping his own hat, there arose a Titanic shout of laughter, which even the staid occupants of the two front benches helped to swell. Hats
