with." Now, "forthwith" is a powerful word, and reassuring to some of the provinces at least. However, while good tidings as to harbor equipment are not forthcoming in the form requested by the Common Council, we have some indications which should be favorable. The Minister of Public Works said in the Hoouse last year, when he was queried regarding the tri-partite agreement, that the Government would live up to its contracts. We could wish that he had added "forthwith," and possibly he thought the case here as urgent as that of the West. Perhaps the Com-
