OFFICIALS GET LIQUOR AND CAR AND T. WIGGINS

Customs Men Seize Auto and 24 Cases After Chase

SPRUCE LAKE SCENE OF SPIRITED RUN

Believe Liquor Landed From Rum Schooner—Car Overturns in Race

Getting a tip that liquor smuggling was being carried on in the region around Spruce Lake yesterday, local customs officials left at noon Sunday by automobile for Spruce Lake and arrested Thomas Wiggins, local taxi man and driving a car with N. B. license No. 4017, said to be owned jointly by Thomas Wiggins and another, also of Saint John. It was loaded with 24 cases of liquor. Wiggins was brought to the Central Police Station and spent the night there. He was up before Magistrate Henderson this morning and, in answer to the charges, pleaded not guilty. J. Starr Tait appeared for the accused.

It is expected that the case will come before Stipendiary Magistrate Allingham in the Fairville court some time this week.

HAD CHASE

Local customs officials announced this morning that they suspected the liquor to have been landed somewhere on the southwest coast of this province from a run-runner off shore and that it was destined for Saint John, as Wiggins was coming toward the city when he was met at the railway crossing at Spruce Lake yesterday afternoon by customs men. Two of the officials jumped from their car and ordered Wiggins to stop. Instead of complying with their request, they say, he stepped on the accelerator. The customs officers gave chase, but they had not gone far when something went wrong with Wiggins' car and the machine turned over. Wiggins escaped miraculously with a few minor bruises. The liquor packages also escaped the bonded warehouse of John Poole & Son and the car consigned by the authorities.

SPEEDS FOR WATER IN BLAZING AUTO

Harry Jonah's Fine Pluck Proves Unavailing—Car Afire as he Helped Fellow Autist.

The story of a fine piece of pluck comes from Sussex. On Friday evening Harry Jonah, harrist and returned overseas man, son of Hon. Mr. Justice Jonah, was out in his automobile when he encountered a stalled car, out of gasoline. He stopped to help his fellow autist out of his difficulty, and was drawing gasoline from his car to pass into the tank of the stalled one, when someone lighted a match. Mr. Jonah's car caught fire at once and the trouble was thus transferred to his own auto and intensified. Springing into his car, he shot away at top speed for Jeffrey's mill pond. It was half a mile away, but he made it with the auto blazing. Making a rapid turn, he tried to back the car to the pond, only to find that his own supply of gasoline had given out and he could not get the auto to the water. He still fought to save the car, but it was badly damaged, and he suffered scorching about the face and hands in his effort.

GO TO ENGLAND IN INSURANCE CASE

Three Saint John Lawyers Are to Appear Before the Privy Council.

Dr. F. R. Taylor, K. C., and J. H. A. L. Fairweather will sail on Saturday from Montreal and A. D. Gilbert will sail on Friday morning for England to appear before the Privy Council in the case of the Palatine Insurance Co. vs. J. A. Gregory.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, which found in favor of Mr. Gregory and concerns the payment of insurance on lumber burned when Mr. Gregory's South Bay mill was destroyed by fire recently. The question at issue is whether a proviso pasted to the face of the policy is to be considered as a variation of the statutory conditions and should have been printed in different colored ink from the face of the policy or not. Mr. Gregory contends that it was a variation of the statutory conditions and the Supreme Court upheld this contention.

As Hiram Sees It

"You see that field over there?" said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to The Times reporter, pointing from the verandah of his house across the meadows to a newly culminated hillside. "The fourteen acres of buckwheat in that field I didn't have two or three hundred bushels of buckwheat in the field I'd feel mean. You kin remember when the mills used to run almost night and day grindin' buckwheat—now the's hardly any." "You don't mean to say," said the reporter, "that a pancake famine threatens?" "Not around my place," said Hiram. "I need pancakes for myself an' I n.e.d. crop an' you don't hev to hev rice, land to raise it. Any farmer that don't raise it is makin' a mighty big mistake." "The odor of pancakes on the griddle at this moment can be reported to the nostrils, for Mrs. Hornbeam was getting supper." "Hiram," said the reporter, "I agree with you entirely. We must raise more buckwheat. It is the staff of life." "A lot o' fellows that climbed mighty high was riz on it," said Hiram. "Til say that fer it—yes, sir."
