THE MAYOR GETS SOME ODD ONES TO DEAL WITH

Besides his ordinary round of duties as chief magistrate of the city, the mayor is often called upon to perform acts which do not come within or anyway near the supposed sphere of his activities. To some of the people who come to him with their trials and tribulations he is able to offer a solution or at least to start them on their way feeling easier of mind. He often assumes the role of father confessor, judge arbiter, or some other character entirely dissociated from his position, without the people affected realizing that the mayor is without the scope of his normal duties.

But there are times when even a versatile mayor may be stumped and two of these happened this week. A woman possessing a son just emerging into the fast-cut stage, rang up to complain that some of her neighbors' boys had a punching rigged up in the vicinity and it was causing some rough spots to appear in the otherwise ideal character of her boy. She asked for suppression of the offending sign. The mayor is still wondering.

Again yesterday a female voice called the mayor's office and expressed the desire to dispose of a victory bond. The mayor not being in the line of business in a commercial way, she was informed that a broker was the proper person to whom to apply and she rang off, apparently satisfied.

NEVER SAW GAME SO PLENTIFUL

Post Office Men Return After Hunting Trip With Fine Big Moose—Bears, Deer and Partridge Seen.

Reports of a plenitude of big game in the woods this season was brought back to the city today by William Hale and William McDonald, both members of the local post office staff who returned after a week's hunting trip near Lepreau. They bagged a big fine moose which weighed more than 1,000 pounds on the hoof and with antlers measuring 23 1/2 inches and having sixteen points.

In addition to the big bull which was brought down, the hunters saw another bull moose, three cow moose, three bears and two deer, but were unable to get close enough to the others to shoot. DETECTIVES DOUBT STORY OF GIRL

Telling a story about being chased from the vicinity of Erin street by two men as far as Brookville where she spent the night under some trees a seventeen year old girl returned home last evening after being missing since after supper on Wednesday night. This morning in the presence of Detectives Biddiscombe and Donahue and a Times' reporter the girl told her story. She said that on Wednesday night she left her home to attend a church choir practice and on returning two men emerged from a yard and frightened her, she turned back to Haymarket square and made for the direction of Rothesay avenue. Just after she crossed the bridge she said she entered a grocery store. The proprietor was not to be found and the two men took her by the arm and led her out. From here on up the girl found herself at Brookville her story was not very clear.

However, she says emphatically that she read the word "Brookville" at the railway station and there spent the night under some trees. In the morning she said she returned to the city and wandered about the streets until last evening. She said that she was afraid to go home.

The detectives express doubt. They say that the girl was seen late Wednesday night and that a well known citizen brought the girl to the head of Ezin street where he left her, she saying she knew her way home from there. The girl was kept to bed today and has been attended by a doctor. So far as is known no harm has befallen her.
