hands with such a man as that man as now surweys me. The time has been, Sir, said Mr. Kenwigs, "when a wisit from that man has excited in me and my family's boozoms sensations both nateral and awakening. But now I look upon that man with emotions totally surpassing every thing, and 1 ask myself where is his honor, where is his straight-for' ardness, and where is his human natur ?"

"Susan Kenwigs," said Mr. Lillyvick, turning humbly to his niece, "don't you say anything to me ?"

"She is not equal to it sir," said Mr. Kenwigs striking the table emphatically. " What with the nursing of a healthy babby, and the reflexions upon your cruel conduct, four pints of malt liquor a day is hardly able to sustain her."

"I am glad," said the poor collector meekly, " that the baby is a healthy one. I'm very glad of that.'

This was touching the Kenwigses on their tenderest point. Mrs. Kenwigs instantly burst into tears, and Mr. Kenwigs evinced great emotion.

"My pleasantest feeling all the time that child was expected," said Mr. Kenwigs, mourfully, " was a thinking, if its a boy, as I hope it may be, for I have heard his uncle Lillyvick say again and and again he would prefer our having a a boy next-if it's a boy, what will his uncle Lillyvick say-what will he like him to be called-will he be Peter, or Alexandee, or Pompey, or Diorgeenes, or what will he be? and now when I look at him-a precious, unconscious, helpless infant, with no use in his little arms but to tear his little cap, and no use in his little legs but to kick his little self-when I see him a lying on his mother's lap cooing and cooing, and in his innocent state almost a choking himself with his little fist-when I see nim such an infant as he is, and think that that uncle Lillyvick, as was once a going to be so fond of him has withdrawed himself away, such a feeling of wengeance comes over me as no language can depicter, and I feel as if even that holy babe was a telling me to hate him."

This affecting picture moved Mrs. Kenwigs deeply. After several imperfect words which vainly attempted to struggle to the surface, but were drowned and washed away by the strong tide of her tears, she spake.

"Uncle," said Mrs. Kenwigs, " to think that you should have turned your back upon me and my dear children, and upon Kenwigs which is the author of their being-you who was once so kind and affectionate, and who, if any body had told us such a thing of, we should There her small commerce in the chill have withered with scorn like lightning -you that little Lillyvick our first and She plied with accents miserably mild; | earliest boy was named after at the very

> This declaration completely changed the whole posture of affairs. Mrs Kenwigs threw herself upon the old gentleman's neck, bitterly reproaching herself for her late harshness, and exclaiming if she had suffered, what must have been his sufferings ! Mr. Kenwigs grasped his hand and vowed eternal friendship

Anecdote of Counsellor Missing. The abovenamed learned gentleman being retained to defend a person who had been committed for trial at the Portsmouth petty sessions for stealing a donkey from off a common in the neighbourhood, met with the following smart retort from the prosecutor in the case, whom he was cross-examin-Mr. Missing: "You maining tain that the donkey was your property ?" Prosecutor : " I do." " And you say that the 'ass was stolen' from off the common in question on a certain day, as has been stated ?" Prosecutor : " No,
