WEDDING BELLS.

The wedding of Miss Florence Dwyer, eldest daughter of Sergt. and Mrs. A. Dwyer of this town, to Mr. B. Stafford of St. John's, was solemnized in Boston recently. Miss Dwyer has been nursing in Boston for about seven years and visited her parents last summer. The wedding was a quiet one and the happy couple left by the majestic and are at present visiting France. The expect to return to Boston by the same steamer and will from there return to St. John's where they will reside, next month. Both of the contracting parties are well-known and popular here and their many friends will wish them a long term of happiness.—Harbor Grace Standard, July 20.

SERVICES ON S. S. WATCHFUL

An appropriate service was conducted on the S.S. Watchful at St. John's in commemoration of the July 4th drive when so many Newfoundlanders died in defence of freedom. This day, henceforth set apart as Newfoundland Memorial Day, becomes more sacred with the passing of years, for we are learning at what cost peace was purchased.

Mr. Augustus Parsons, Solicitor, will be visiting Bay Roberts on Saturday, Aug. 11th.

The orator had made a speech, and he left the platform he was conducted by a friend. "A magnificent speech," said the friend, "but hardly original, for I have book at home that contains every word of it." The surprised orator said that he could like to see the book, and the next morning he received an unbridged dictionary.

LAMALINE FISHERY

TOTALS 20,000 QUINTALS

A message from Mr. C. C. Pittman, sub-collector at Lamaline, to the Department of Customs, gives the following account of the fishery to date:

"Good fishing for traps, nets, hook and jiggers from Lord's Cove to Point-aux-Gaul. Very few wraps outside that vicinity fishing having to be taken in badly wrecked. Estimate of catch to date totals 20,000 quintals."

OBITUARY

There passed peacefully away at Coley's Point, on June 23rd, Sarah French, wife of the late Wm. French. The deceased for the past six years had been confined to her home suffering from heart trouble, but she bore her suffering patiently. Everything was done to relieve her, and when told that nothing more could be done for her, she could look up and say, "What joyful news, for she longed to be released of her pain and go to that Blessed Home, where trials never come nor tears of sorrow flow. She leaves to mourn their sad loss three sons, Elijah, John and William, of Coley's Point; and two daughters, Mrs. Israel Dawe and Mrs. Mary Ann Tucker, of Port de Grave, and 8 grandchildren, beside a large circle of friends. Dearest Mother, thou hast left us, and thy loss we deeply mourn. Oh! our home's so sad without thee; Never more wilt thou return. Yet again we hope to meet thee. When this spark of life is fled, In that blessed home to greet thee. Where no farewell tears are shed.

NOTE OF THANKS.

The family of the late Sarah French wish to thank all those who in any way helped them during their mother's illness; also those who sent wreaths and flowers to adorn her casket: Mrs. W. H. Greenland, Mrs. George Russell Tippett, Mrs. John Bradbury, Miss Bertha French, Miss Rita French and the C. E. W. A. of Coley's Point, of which deceased was a member.

Mr. S. M. Hayward, of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Twillingate arrived in town by Monday night's train.

Miss Stella Meres, of the office staff of James Baird Ltd., St. John's arrived in town by Wednesday's train, to spend her summer vacation with friends.

The Hr. Grace Regatta, which was to have taken place at Lady Lake, on Wednesday, August 8th, under the auspices of the H. G. V. Fire Brigade, was postponed until Thursday.

MR. HIGGINS REPLY TO THE PRIME MINISTER

In our last issue we published a report of the address of the new Prime Minister, Hon. W. R. Warren, when he told the House of Assembly how that he had succeeded in forming an Administration, his intentions regarding investigations, etc. He was followed by the Leader of the Opposition, Mr. W. J. Higgins, who spoke as follows:

MR. HIGGINS.—Mr. Speaker: Following the example of the Hon. the Prime Minister, I have to ask the permission of yourself and the House for saying just a word or two. At the outset I desire to thank the Leader of the House for the very open manner in which he has just addressed us, and for his frank admission that the desire to form a Coalition Government emanated from himself and those who supported him. I think in making this admission publicly he has done himself credit. I go further and say that in his desire to avail of the recent and unexpected political development to change the lines of demarcation which unfortunately are at present existing in this Assembly he has set an example in liberality of thought that should not quickly be forgotten. Every right-thinking man must deplore the present unnatural division which exists in this House. And so when an opportunity was offered to alter this situation, and the offer was made from a majority of the House, it may be wondered why this proposal was not accepted. Well, Mr. Speaker, the answer is simple. It was not a question where we were masters of our own destiny. To me, personally, the matter of associating with the new Prime Minister would have been a pleasure. As a life-long friend I have had special opportunities to confirm the statement I now make as to his honesty of purpose and absolute trustworthiness. It will be a great disappointment to me if in his new office he fails to live up to the high opinion I have always held of him.

It might also be asked why an opportunity to obtain what is commonly referred to as "place and power," namely offices of emolument for ourselves was thrown down. Well I think I speak the thoughts of Sir Michael Cashin (who because of his seniority in the House was associated with me in the discussions that have recently taken place) that we felt we were helpless. We could not think alone of ourselves and our friends on this side of the House. There was a power beyond us. We were merely the servants of the people who sent us here, and so had to act as we thought was proper in their interests. We did not seek office; the request came from the other side. We were prepared to go a long way to assist in making a stable Government, but there was a limit to our cooperation. Right from the outset we insisted that the party led by the late Prime Minister should go on. His successor in office had the unanimous support of his party, and there was really no absolute necessity for a further strengthening of his ranks. He had a majority of 21 to 13. He and his associates had decided to dethrone the late Prime Minister, and we were but spectators to the unexpected tragedy. The reasons for this change of leadership were matters to be explained by them. Despite rumors to the effect that this was a "plot"; despite the propaganda that it was a religious "frame up" so that we could obtain power and monetary remuneration, we are today in the House exactly as before the change of leadership in the Government ranks. We retain our solid front, and the only loss is from the opposite side. No, Mr. Speaker, we did not desire to ride into power over a corpse. We do not, to use a football expression, like to win the game by a "penalty kick." We would rather secure our goal by other and more sportsmanlike means of play. Nevertheless it is but due to the new Prime Minister and his colleague, Sir William Coaker, for me to say that, in their conferences with Sir Michael Cashin and myself they displayed a spirit of interest in the public welfare that is to their credit. It is probably better that we were able to meet and part in this spirit, and that it was impossible to come to a common basis of agreement. Who knows but that it was providential that the opportunity has occurred to get matters cleaned up. Things could not go on as they have been going, and it is due to the members of the Government themselves that there should be a full and complete investigation of the happenings that have led up to the present situation. It is not fair, until we see how far the members of the Government are responsible for what has taken place, to comment here upon the unfortunate affair which in our private capacities we all so deeply deplore. We are hopeful of a full and careful house-cleaning by a tribunal which, to use an expression that is indegent but expressive will "whitewash" nobody. If ever there was a time when party differences should be dropped and party affiliations left out of consideration it is while this enquiry is being proceeded with, so that, while we may criticise where it is found necessary to do so, I think it will be of a helpful nature rather than that which may be calculated to impede the progress of the business of the legislature. We on this side have every wish that the Hon. Prime Minister may receive the fullest support from the members of his own party, and I will go so far as to say that if they were not prepared to give that support they would not be worthy of the place which they occupy in this House. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it is our intention to do everything possible to facilitate the Hon. Leader of the House in cleaning up the mess that he is confronted with, but when the decks are properly cleared for action again we can assure him of a fair and determined fight. We do not want to charge him until he has both legs on the ground. In this spirit we extend to the Hon. the Prime Minister the assurance that there will be no cause for complaint so long as he lives up to the promise that he has given to have a thorough investigation by an impartial board. This is a feature which, no matter how we may be disposed personally, we cannot cloak up. It is not a personal matter but one which affects the whole country and of which the country must have full information. This enquiry may restore confidence at a time when confidence is sorely needed because there are difficult times ahead, and unless the public can have faith in those who are in high places, in those who are responsible for the expenditure of public monies, our position will be very little better than it was before.

WHEN HE GOT BAD

Billy came home from school bearing every evidence of having had the worst of a fight.

"Why Billy?" exclaimed his mother, "How often have I told you to play only with good little boys? Good little boys don't fight."

"Well," said Billy thru his tears, "I thought he was a good little boy till I hit him."

Suet Pudding—Six ounces finely-chopped suet, 1 lb flour and a little salt. Mix and tie up tightly in cloth, then put in saucpan with cold water to cover it. Boil one hour. The result will be a very light pudding, more so than by the old style of boiling the water before putting in the pudding. No baking powder must be used.

Treacle and Lemon Roll—Make a paste of 1-2 lb. of flour and 1-4 lb. of suet. Roll out, and over it spread a layer of breadcrumbs, then the grated rind and the juice of one lemon, then a layer of golden syrup. Roll up and boil for two hours and a half.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Six-Cup Pudding—One breakfast cup of each of the following: Suet, flour, sugar, breadcrumbs, fruit (raisins and currants), milk. Mix all the dry ingredients together, pour in the milk, and stir well. Put into a greased basin and boil four to five hours. If well boiled and served with a little sauce it is as good as Christmas pudding, and is more economical.
