

A POPULAR CREED.
 Dimes and dollars! Dollars and dimes!
 An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!
 If a man is down, give him a thrust!
 Trample the beggar into the dust!
 Presumptuous poverty's quite appalling;
 Knock him over! Kick him for falling!
 If a man is up, oh! lift him up higher!
 Your soul's for sale and he is a buyer!
 Dimes and dollars, dollars and dimes!
 An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!
 I know of a poor but worthy youth,
 Whose hopes are built on a maiden's truth;
 But the maiden will break her vows with ease,
 For a woeer cometh with whom she sees:
 A hollow heart and an empty head,
 A face well tinged with the brandy red,
 A soul well trained in villainy's school,
 And cash, sweet cash, he knoweth the rule.
 Dimes and dollars, dollars and dimes!
 An empty pocket's the worst of crimes!

A BOY'S REFLECTION.
 A loving couple are Rover and Fred;
 Stanchest of comrades they roam together
 Through budding orchards and woodland red,
 By wind of winter or summer weather.
 But the door of the school room, day by day,
 Parts them till study hours are over;
 The one to work and the other to play,
 Since Fred is Fred, and Rover is Rover!
 If Fred were Rover, and Rover Fred,
 Surely the gain of the boy would be double;
 To play down ditches and take his ease,
 A round of days without toil or trouble!
 To wander about on the uplands cool,
 Or lie, as will, in the sunny clover,
 Never learn lessons, nor go to school,
 If Rover were Fred and Fred were Rover!
 Yes, were Fred Rover, and Rover Fred,
 Might not the winning be less than the losing?
 What were the pleasure of akate or sled,
 Marble ball, to a dog's dull choosings?
 Then the sail down the stream, and the sport
 In the snow,
 And the fun with the rest when school is over.
 Perhaps, after all, it is better so
 That Fred should be Fred, and Rover Rover!

THE WINDS.
 The north wind's howling legions
 Sweep down from boreal regions,
 From the pallid zone where winter's throne
 Was wrought in the wide waste of snow and ice,
 Unnumbered years ago;
 They come on wings whose fluttering
 Betwixt the world's wide ocean,
 And their icy breath is bitter death,
 Their footfall only woe.
 The east wind comes with sadness
 And pale and midnight madness,
 From a solitude whose name is dread
 And poisoned dews on the dunes are strewed,
 And sadness throes the gladness;
 It comes like a ghost from spectral coast
 Where yon branches wave,
 And out of its plumage fall ghastly glooms
 Like those that enshroud the tomb.
 The south wind comes a-sighing,
 To bide and blossom springing,
 He comes in quest of love and rest,
 And presently, on a rose's breast,
 In rapture lies a-sleeping.
 He comes like dreams, and only seems,
 His cradle is the tomb;
 His life is a song of murmuring streams,
 His death—a rich perfume.
 The saphy, fragrant laden,
 Brings down-eyed rest to the troubled breast
 From the mystic regions of the west,
 From love's enchanted Aëdens;
 It comes with news as fresh as the dew
 That gath'rs in slumber hours,
 With wonderful story of tender lore
 From the sweet book of the flowers.

MIXED MEMORIES.
 A withered flower, worn years ago,
 Dry-brown and breaking at a touch—
 (I long to value it, I know,
 But, then, I have so many such!)
 Dear memory of days divine,
 When I was hers and she was mine,
 Poor flower, do you remember now
 The summer meadows and the sun,
 The green leaves on the dancing bough,
 The quiet words and the tears we shed,
 The hour you lay—O blessed flower!
 Held in her hand—one long, sweet hour?
 Sleep, though I don't remember quite
 Which girl it was that gave it me—
 I can't be sure it isn't that night,
 It might have been—now, let me see—
 It was that girl I met last June
 At Mrs. Jones' afternoon tea.
 We went to get some claret-cup
 (Of course, found tennis much too hot),
 And then—no stay—I've mixed them up—
 It was her sister! No, 'twas not I!
 I can't remember—no, here goes,
 The flames may have my precious rose!

NEW EVERY MORNING.
 Every day is a fresh beginning,
 Every morn is the world made new,
 Who you are done and the tears are shed,
 Here is a beautiful hope for you;
 A hope for me and a hope for you.
 All the past things are past and over,
 The tasks are done and the tears are shed,
 Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover;
 Yesterday's wounds, which smarted and bled,
 Are healed with the healing which night has shed.
 Yesterday now is a part of forever:
 Bound up in a sheaf, which God holds tight,
 With glad days, and sad days, and bad days
 Which never Shall visit us more with their bloom and their blight.
 Their fullness of sunshine or sorrowful night
 Let them go, since we cannot relieve them,
 Cannot undo and cannot atone;
 God in his mercy, receive, forgive them!
 Only the new days are our own.
 Today is ours, and today alone.
 Here are the skies all brightened brightly,
 Here is the spent earth all reborn,
 Here are the tired limbs springing lightly
 To face the sun and to share with the morn
 In the charm of dew and the cool of dawn.
 Every day is a fresh beginning:
 Lift up, my soul, to the glad refrain,
 And, spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
 And puzzle forecast, and possible pain,
 Take heart with the day, and begin again.
 George Washington's Bible is owned in Philadelphia. Though he carried it all through his campaigns, it is not injured inside, the leaves are not discolored or the margins stained, and it doesn't look as if it was ever used at all.
 This shows what a remarkably neat man
 George Washington was.—Washington Post.

CAT-TAILS.
 Clear, dark, and cool a shallow pool
 Lies underneath the summer sky,
 As wayward winds go tripping by,
 Low rippling in the eddy grass
 While blades bend low to greet
 The blue-veined lilies resting there,
 And light above their drooping heads
 The cat-tails drink the summer air.
 Across the pool, with filmy wings,
 The "devil's darning needles" fly;
 And deep among the shady flags
 The croaking frogs securely lie;
 A red-winged black-bird, with notes
 Sound clear and sweet, "co-chee! co-chee!"
 And in the breeze "cradling arms"
 The cat-tails rock in airy glee.

NEVER AGAIN.
 There are gains for all our losses,
 There are balm for all our pain;
 But when youth, the dream, departs,
 It takes something from our hearts,
 And it never comes again.
 We are stronger, and are better,
 Older manhood's sterner relief;
 Still we seek for something sweet
 That we lost in the days of youth,
 And it never comes again.
 Something beautiful is vanished,
 And we sigh for it in vain;
 We seek it everywhere,
 On the earth and in the air,
 But it never comes again.
 R. H. STODDARD.

SKIN DISEASES.
 DIMPLES, Boils, Blotches, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Scalded Head, Ring Worm, Tetter, Eczema, etc., appear on the skin, and may be traced to a defective action of the digestive organs, and yield readily to a steady use of HANINGTON'S QUININE WINE AND IRON, and TONIC DINNER PILLS, which purifying the blood render these unwholesome humors, and the value of these medicines as a blood purifier cannot be over-estimated. Beware of imitations. See that you get "Hanington's" the original and genuine. For sale by all druggists and general dealers in Canada. Price 50 cents. Six bottles for $2.50.
