CALGARY WOMEN
AFTER HEARST PAPERS

Have Begun Campaign to Ban
All Hearst Publications in That City.

Calgary, Alta., Dec. 5.—Calgary will be cleared of the Hearst publications the endeavors of the Council of Women prevail. The cause of immediate action was an editorial in the New York Journal which the women protested as a malicious attack upon Canada and Great Britain. The new dealers of the city and the public library have been asked for their cooperation in affecting the clearing out of the publications in the city. The press has also been asked to publish a full list of the magazines and papers controlled by Hearst.

Blue Sunday Was
Not of That Color

Refusal of Three Druggists
Kept Stores Open—There
Was a Misunderstanding.

Only the refusal of three druggists to consent to a closing pact, kept the city's drug stores open to the public yesterday. The majority of the drug dispensers having agreed to close up shop Saturday night and not open again until Monday morning.

Druggists' Decision

The druggists' decision was based on a report in an evening paper to the effect that a stricter observance of the Lord's Day Act was to be enforced in the city, and special steps would be taken to see that the druggists violated it in no way. The dealers resented the assertion and were agreed that if the citizens wanted a "Blue Sunday" they would unite in making them as blue as possible. One druggist stated the druggists in "Toronto, the Good," closed their shops for five Sundays in succession until public opinion was moulded to the value of the open drug store.

Chief of Police

Chief of Police Smith stated last night that the druggists had been somewhat premature in their indignation, as he had not said anything about drug stores in relation to their Sunday trade nor issued any orders to the force concerning them. No complaints had come to him in regards to druggists, and he was of the opinion that they were observing the law as they had always done.

The Small Groceries

He had received complaints, however, in regards to certain small groceries on Brussels street and vicinity, who it was stated were plying a wide open and thriving Sunday trade in such commodities as oil, potatoes, etc., and the force had been given instructions to report all flagrant violations of this nature. The chief stated that the particulars contained in a letter recently published by a grocer who had been fined for violating the law, were absolutely false.

Citizens' Decision

The manner in which some citizens accepted yesterday's situation belied the Sabbath's calm, and to judge by their remarks they were not members of the Lord's Day Alliance. One citizen who after braving the elements arrived at his favorite drug store to find it closed gave vent to his wrath in no uncertain tones. "Say, what's come over this town?" he exclaimed. "Some people sure give me a pain, they'll be wanting us to take the streets in Saturday night if this keeps up much longer."

Another individual who was more fortunate came into a drug store from out of the driving rain and purchased a bottle of cough mixture. Just as he was leaving he turned back and asked for a box of cigarettes. "Can't sell them, it's Sunday," said the clerk. The remarks that came back over the counter as the customer disconsolately left for home, would hardly bear repeating.

The druggists themselves faced the situation with different views. Some of them have always observed Sunday hours, opening up for but an hour a time, in the morning, afternoon and evening. Their customers knew what to expect and were not inconvenienced, but sections accustomed to an all day service were not at all pleased with the new conditions.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

By HELEN ROWLAND
(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Woman's love:—A magic mirror, in which a man may behold himself magnified, glorified, and defied.

Man's love:—A blank canvas on which a woman paints all her favorite illusions about herself.

It would be almost impossible for a woman-charmer to concentrate all his affections on one particular girl, as it would be for him to set his heart on a pet hundred-dollar bill.

"Woman is the poetry of man"—meaning, no doubt, that the less sense a man can see in her, the more mysterious, significant, and wonderful he thinks her.

A lovable woman may be lively and beloved, forever. But the vain and morbid desire to go on being a "heartbreaker" and a siren, after one's stirring days are over—that is the real tragedy of age, which no thyroid gland can mitigate.

A husband on the golf course is worth two ground the house, on Sunday mornings.

A man's idea of "preserving the union" is apparently to find out what side of a question his wife is on, and then to take the opposite side, just to keep it from sagging.

Many a diplomatic man has made his marriage a bed of flowers, just by judiciously tossing bouquets at his wife's feet. A woman will go on peeling onions forever, for a man who will wipe away the tears, and tell her how beautiful they make her eyes.

To some women, "love" seems to be merely a passionate desire to make a man sorry he was ever born.

OBITUARY

William Woods
William Woods of Killam's Mills, Westmorland County, died suddenly of heart disease Sunday evening while taking supper with his family.

He was about seventy years of age and leaves his wife and one daughter, Mrs. H. Parlee of St. John, and two sons, Arthur, of Boston, and Allan, at home. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alina Loughlin, of Watertown, Mass., and Mrs. A. L. Barber of St. John, and three brothers, Seth of Boston, Silas of St. Stephen, and Alfred of Moncton.

Mr. Woods was a well known farmer at Killam's Mills where he had lived for the last twenty years.

stores only remained closed one Sunday in Boston before the citizens were clamoring to have them opened again. He said that if the proprietors had to depend on their drugs alone it would not pay them to keep their shops open. He did not think they could be closed in with the ordinary run of merchants, and thought the closing of the drug stores would greatly inconvenience the general public, though it might satisfy a few. "There is a whole lot of things going on in this town that should be stopped. And these well meaning individuals would do well to get after some of the greater evils before turning their attention to the drug stores," he said.

The Andover Women's Institute served dinner and supper at the Masonic Hall on Wednesday last. The proceeds amounted to $62.

Mrs. G. T. Baird moved this week from her home "Spruce Grove," up to Station street, where she will reside during the winter months.

Salmon Stripping
Operations Close

Local Catch 408 Salmon.
Yielding 2,235,000 Eggs—
Increase Over Last Year.

Stripping operations at the St. John salmon retaining pond, St. John, New Brunswick, operated by the Fisheries Department, were completed about the middle of November. The season's catch consisted of 408 salmon, which yielded 2,235,000 eggs. These eggs were laid down in the hatchery at Little River Reservoir, and the result of the fry will be distributed in the various waters of the south-eastern portion of the province. The collection of eggs shows an increase over that of last year by 300,000.

As in past years the parent salmon were purchased from the commercial dealers operating at St. John harbor during the regular salmon fishing season. They were transferred to the retaining pond at Little River, and held during the summer until they became sufficiently matured to yield their eggs during the early part of November.

Farmers Dippy Over
The Price of Eggs

Saturday Price Started at
$1.10 Per Dozen—Union
Went to Pieces.

The farmers have gone dippy over the price of eggs. They are forcing or attempting to force, the price of the ovals beyond the reach of millions of people. Last Saturday they endeavored to push the price up to $1.10 per dozen, knowing that a few of the real wealthy or egg hungry consumers had posted with one hundred cents for a dozen eggs the previous Saturday.

Public Don't Bite.

The public refused to bite and the $1.10 mark was wiped out by a storm of protest. The Farmers' Union went to pieces and the price went down to $1.00. Many refused to sell at a cent less and some farmers were so peeved at the indifference of the public for eggs at $1.00 a dozen, they took their eggs back home rather than sell for less.

Scabbled the Job.

One farmerette defied the union and "scabbled" the job. She reduced the price to 95 cents. It went down the line that there was a traitor in the camp. Some farmers moved up to the head of the market and remonstrated with the farmerette. She was told it was simply scandalous to think of selling eggs at 95 cents a dozen. It simply meant ruin to the hen industry and an insult to the hens to dispose of eggs at such a ridiculously low price. Customers moved up to have a look at the woman who defied the union. They didn't buy the eggs, however, as they were just as determined to bring the price down as the farmers were to boost it up.

Price of Butter.

The farmers made an effort to bull the price of butter and chickens Saturday, but were beaten off by the regular stall merchant. They wanted an extra ten cents a pound for butter, bringing it to 75 cents, but failed to put it over and were obliged to sell at 65 cents. They regarded chickens as too low at 45 cents a pound, and wanted 50 cents. Nothing doing as the regular merchant had choice offerings at 45 cents.

On the whole Saturday was not a prosperous day for farmers on high price catching. The "union" shows signs of weakening and farmers prices are due for a tumble.

TREATMENT OF MENTAL
CASES BY THE X-RAY

(Copyright, 1920, By London Daily Mail and Cross Atlantic.)

London, Dec. 5.—An X-ray installation for the investigation and treatment of mental cases has been opened at the Bethlem Royal Hospital, London. The installation, one of the most modern in London is the gift of Sir Charles Wakefield.

Dr. P. Beeton, of the Bethlem Royal Hospital, said, "In mental diseases there are certain growths inside the skull which make the bone thinner in certain places or widen certain apertures. By means of the X-rays you can detect these changes. To great numbers of shell-shocked soldiers the apparatus will be of inestimable value in discovering pieces of iron and shrapnel in the brain—also the presence of foreign bodies in other parts of the human body which may be affecting the nervous system. They might never be discovered by other means."

Some people are content with being up to date, but there are others who borrow trouble two or three years ahead.

Unfortunate Ones
Not Overlooked

Meetings Held Yesterday to Plan for Collection and Distribution of Necessities.

Churches and other organizations to find joy and pleasure in assisting others are now making plans for Christmas and will see to it that the less fortunate ones in life's battle are not overlooked by Santa Claus.

Hold Meetings

Workers in several of the city churches held meetings yesterday afternoon to plan for the collection and distribution of necessities in the line of clothing as well as those things that bring joy to the hearts of children, on Christmas.

The Standard is informed by one of the leading workers in the good cause that there are more families in St. John who are in real need than have been known in some years. It means a hearty cooperation on the part of all, he said, in order that the children in families who are not enjoying average prosperity and, in fact, far below it, have a share of Christmas joys.

Twenty-Five Homes

One church society that carried happiness to twenty homes last Christmas, finds its responsibilities doubled this season and forty families will be provided for. What is true of one society is true of others, only probably not so extensively.

Willing workers are devoting time and energy to the work and the next three weeks will see them all on a hustle that no child in the city is forgotten by Santa Claus and that all are provided with needed clothing and the things that make Christmas a joyous day.

STORY OF CHANUKAH

A play was given yesterday afternoon at the Jewish Synagogue, Carleton street, by the children of the Sunday School. The story celebrates the Story of Chanukah, the Jewish festival which is now being celebrated and was written by the Rabbi, Dr. Press. The children took their parts splendidly and reflected great credit upon Dr. Press who has trained them. Several selections by Y. M. H. A. Orchestra were greatly enjoyed. The proceeds are for the new Hebrew School.
