ing the management in changing from their usual programme and having the opening at a time when the most people did not go expecting to see the exhibition in full blast nor were they given to understand that such would be the case, but did not go expecting to see the exhibition in full blast nor were they given to understand that such would be the case, but every year heretofore it has been noticed that many exhibitors were not ready for opening day and usually the voices of the speakers at the opening ceremonies found accompaniment in the sound of hammers and the other noises attendant on the preparing of the exhibits. This year it was felt that with the start over on Saturday night, the exhibition would be in a much more forward condition by Monday, which may be termed the real opening day, for today all departments opening day, for today all departments will be in full swing.

a splendid one, and was in its make up, thoroughly representative as several of the speakers said it was shown that the in-terest in annual exhibitions, far from wanning, is on the increase, and a good aurgury for the success of the fair was found in the big gathering. Not only the speakers but the management of the exhibition were pleased to see such interest so early evinced.

Mr. R. B. Emerson presided in his capacity of vice-president of the Exhibi-tion Association, President McLaughlin being out of the city. Seated by Chairman Emerson were His Honor Lieut. Governor McClelan, Hon. A. T. Dunn, His Worship Mayor Daniel, while among the large num-ber on the platform were a'so noticed, Mr. A. W. Hickman, New Brunswick's ommissioner of immigration in England; Dr. A. A. Stockton, Sheriff Sturdee, Post Office Inspector Colter, Rev. R. W. Weddall, Percy Thomson, Manager C. A. Eyerett, A. O. Skinner, Ald. A. W. Macrae, Deputy Mayor Maxwell, W. M. Jarvis, H. D. J. Pitchiki Lucich Steafer Co. Hon. R. J. Ritchie, Josiah Fowler, Conactor Wade, Chamberlain Sandall, Ald. Hilyard, W. A. Chairman Emerson made a brief address. He regretted the absence of Premier Tweedie and Attorney General Pugsley, who had been called to Ottawa, also of President McLaughlin. He referred to changes which would be found in the arrangement of the exhibition and spoke of the absence of agricultural im-plement exhibits, the makers deciding not to go to the expense of showing for so short a period as the exhibition would continue. He showed, by a hurried sketch of some of the features of the fair that it would be found most interesting and in ter of amusements. He felt that in former years much more support might have been given the exhibitions by St. John citizens than had been the case and he hoped that this year our own people would attend in large numbers. He then introduced

Lieut. Governor McC'elan.

His honor was greatly pleased, he said, grand augury of the success of the fair. Exhibitions had been held from year to year in St. John and all had been good, each year's growing better than the one each year's growing better than the one before and the expectation was that the present one would be the best yet, this last exhibition of the old century. The dying century might be called one of steam, while the new one would be designated one of electricity and possibly of other forces as yet unknown. His honor felt that much good was done by exhibitions. He spoke of them as beneficial in training. In Ontario, he said, the teaching of agriculture in the common schools system was what, he asked, would we do without the tillers of the soil? They were the foundawere educative and gave an impulse to the people for greater effort. His honor closed with words of congratulation to the man-agement of the St. John fair.

Messrs. Aiex. H. Lindsay, John A. Kelly, Robert Seely, and A. Chip. Rittchie, the St. John Male Quartette, than sang a selection which so delighted the audience that another had to be given, and still a The quartette was never heard better. They appeared twice again on the programme and each appearance duplicated their first sucess.

was then called on. His worship said it was then called on. His worship said it gave him great pleasure to take part in the opening of the exhibition. He was pleased to see His Honor Governor McCle'an present and hoped he would consider a suggestion of establishing the gubernatorial residence in St. John. (Applause.) It would embrace not only animal life but also a display of our mineral resources. Or our minerals, he said, that in late years or late months they were being exploited to an extent grater than ever, and we could look for a very considerable development of a mineral character. It was almost on the card to have in St. John and other important industry employing a number of hands, and this wholly due to

His worship held that exhibitions were instructive. In reference to the amuse-ment part of them he said that to instruct the people it was necessary to get them together, and in this the advantage of the amusements was seen. He touched on the waragraph pictures which would be shown. These would supply a clear idea of the scenes now historic in which our brave lads in South Africa had taken such active part. (Applause.) He said that the thanks of the people were due to the directors and managers of the exhibits.

The Exhibits. The gxhibition of 1900 is now in the lands of the public. The great fair was favorably open Saturday night with observances at once unique and interesting. And 3,370 people attended, thus warranting the management in changing from their or the pains and trouble they had taken in preparing it, this without any recompense, and their only reward, the advancement and welfare of the city. A Woman's Scream Startled the Place-She Wanted to See the President.

Washington, Sept. 8—A woman giving her name as Mrs. Rosa Heiking, created a scene at the White House this afternoon. About a week ago the woman presented herself at the executive mansion and ac-cording to the statement of the policemen on duty, said she wanted to see the president as some one was trying to kill her children. She was told that the president did not receive callers at that hour, 4 came again and insisted on seeing the pre-sident. The messenger and watchman on duty at the door sought to pacify and in-duce her to leave the house. She grew more excited however, crying hysterically and at last a carriage from the house of detention was called and the woman was led down the basement stairs and through the garden at the east front of the house. While being assisted into the carriage she screamed at the top of her voice, which who was at his desk in the cabinet room garden and seeing the woman's struggles to free herself, sent his messenger to learn the cause of the commotion.

At the house of detention the woman gave her name and said she lived on Lombard street, Philadelphia.
