

Student disciplinary code

On November 18, 1980 the Board of Governors of the University of New Brunswick approved a Student Disciplinary Code, the provisions of which established a mechanism for self-discipline among students. The very concept of self-discipline reveals a philosophy held by the administrators at this University. They recognize that university life creates a special environment and that student discipline should be administered by individuals who are the most familiar with this environment -- the student themselves.

The merits of a self-discipline approach are most evident when one considers as an alternative the criminal or civil justice system. Judges apply a community rather than a university standard of behaviour. The impact of a court ruling often involves jail terms, a criminal record, adverse publicity and invariably a lawyer's bill.

Quite simply, the self-disciplinary model allows a student charged under our code to be charged, judged and sentenced by his peers in a speedy, informal and inexpensive fashion.

It is important to emphasize that the student disciplinary model cannot replace the laws of our courts -- it can only offer an alternative to them. If a victim insists on commencing legal action against a student, our Committee would lose control over the case. Obviously, it is in the interests of all students that we prove to the University administration and everyone else both on and off the campus that our Committee can produce just results for the victim and the accused.

The most lenient sanction which the Committee could impose is the levying of a $20.00 fine which is common in a case where the accused party pleads guilty to a minor offence. The most stringent sanction available to the Committee is that of a recommendation for suspension or expulsion to the Board of Deans.

Further provisions in the Student Disciplinary Code outline the structure of the Student Disciplinary Committee. The Committee is to be composed of eight individuals representing the collective interests of students from across campus. The Code specifies that the positions of Chairperson and Vice-Chairperson be occupied by a third year and a second year law student respectively. These positions are currently occupied by Mario DiCarlo and Stephen Johnson. In addition, there is one faculty member sitting on the Committee, Professor Peter Kent of the History Department. The recording secretary of the SRC sits as a non-voting member of the Committee. The other four individuals are selected in accordance with the 'Appointment of Officers' section of the Code. All appointments to the Committee are ratified by the University's Board of Governors.

The Student Disciplinary Code provides for a Supervisory Board which is composed of seven members appointed by the Board of Governors. The Supervisory Board works in conjunction with a Commissioner of Student Discipline (Dr. Woodfield), also appointed by the Board of Governors, to achieve and maintain efficiency in the carrying out of the Code's objectives. The Supervisory Board also accepts and considers recommendations for both student and faculty members. Professor David Townsend of the Faculty of Law sits as a member of the Supervisory Board and serves as a technical advisor to the Chairperson on legal and procedural matters.

What is Aiesec?

What is Aiesec?

It is the International Association for students of Economics and Commerce (pronounced eye-sec). We operate throughout 58 countries involving over 400 universities.

AIESEC'S Objectives

-Attempt to bridge the gap between theoretical university education and the practical business world.

-Develop better trained managers and improve international understanding through a joint student-business venture.

AIESEC'S Activities

The International Job Exchange

-Seminars, business luncheons, wine and cheese parties

-special projects

-Seasonal business conferences at various universities

-Frequent dealings with the business community providing both experience and valuable contacts.

Why Join?

All who join gain something. It may be just meeting people, a lot of fun, chance to travel, a summer job or a career after graduation.
