Paris is still agitated. The resignation of Louis Napoleon postponed the ballot for President. Six candidates for the Presidency are already in the field, viz. -M. de Lamartine, M. Thiers, Louis Bonaparte, M. Marrast, General Cavaig-nac, M. Caussidiere, ex-Prefect of Police.

The Orleans party will support M. Thiers, and Berryer has declared in his favour. The legitimists are divided be-tween Thiers and Lamartine. If the elections were soon to ome off, little doubt would exist that Louis Bonaparte would be the successful candidate. The feeling exhibited by the French people in his favour leaves no doubt that in the event of a present election, he would be returned in almost every presidential electoral College in France. Accordingly, the onstitution has already been altered to meet this first difficulty in the working classes, and the president, being elected directly by the people, unless he has being elected directly by the people, unless the has an abu-lute majority of votes given, is to be selected by the National Assembly from five persons returned by the people. INSURRECTIONS IN CUBA.

Havana, March, 1818.

There have been lately some serious symptoms of in-surrection discovered among the slaves of this island and so sarious, that troops have been stationed on several plantations to be ready for immediate action in case of an outbreak. The timely discovery of these insured an ourbreak. The timely discovery of this index the tionary movements will probably postpone the danger but the inhabitants are in constant apprehension, and past events show that fears are not groundless. Large numbers of the slaves, trained to war and massacr in Africa, are ready to enlist in any scheme of plunder in Africa, are ready to enlist in any scheme of plunder and bloodshed, however small may be the prospect of securing their freedom. They only need competent leaders to excite their passions and direct their move-ments. Such leaders are found among the free negroes, who remember their sufferings while in boudage, and thirs for revenge. But the military force of the island is too great to allow the slightest hope to the slave of obtain-ing his liberty by insurrection, and the attempt is to be deprecated more on account of the cruelties it will prodeprecated more on account of the cruetues it will prove they may fear from the blacks. The scenes of November, 1843, would be re-enacted. The character and ber, 1843, would be re-enacted are probably little unconsequences of that insurection are probably little understood, as very few of the facts were ever published. derstood, as very few of the facts were ever published. In the first outbreak, which commenced on the estate Trimuvirabo, six white persons were killed, and properly to the amount of $30,000 was destroyed. A few days after, Don Estehan de Ovie o discovered a plan for an insurrection in Sabanilla, to which it is supposed that 60,000 slaves were accessory. The conspiracy was con-ducted by one Valdes, a mulatto poet, who was supposed to have been instigated by Turnbull, the British Consul. I am not aware, however, that there was any positive evidence of his agency in the affair. The measures of the conspirators were so ill-concerted, that they could not act in concert, and before a decisive blow was struck, the ringleaders were arrested, and that

Many who resided twenty or thirty miles from the scene of the outbreak, were seized and dragged with merciless cruelty from place to place, and flogged till death by their wounds This fact mult him a prominent mark for the inquisitors. He was seized, and confined tor several days in the stocks, with scarcely food enough to sustain life. Then he was marched on foot forty-five miles to Matanzas, where he was twice flogged almost to death to extort from him in-formation concerning the conspiracy, which he could not

Confessions thus obtained, especially when the prisoner was influenced by leading questions, could not be always relied on, and not a few in their dying moments declared that all they had said was false. A number of whites, both Creoles and foreigners, were arrested on such testi-mony, and confidence in the protection of the Govern-ment was entirely lost. Abandoned to the caprice of the sub-commissions that visited the plantations, the whole population, afraid to utter one word against their acts, in despair saw their property sacrifieed, and were compelled to witness the most revolting scenes of the inhabitants, and there is no security that they may
