

A GIRL OF GRIT.

BY MAJOR ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY H. F. PENNO & CO.

"Es claro—of course—I know that Captain Wood is one of the chief of fortune's favorites. But believe me, sonny, you have also come into great trouble. 'Vast wealth is a terrible burden; to use it aright is a grave responsibility. Especially so when you will pardon me, Captain Wood—it has come undesired."

"But, Pepe, it is not fair to say that Captain Wood was a relation—he had a right to inherit."

"I only mean that Captain Wood does not know, probably will never know, whether there were not others with greater claims—moral claims, I mean—on Mr. McFought. That thought would always rankle with me. Yaya, I would rather it was you than me!"

"Do not let him disturb you, my dear Captain Wood. The duke has rather extreme views in theory, but he knows that wealth is wealth. Although we have no vast store, he would be sorry to surrender it."

"We got very friendly, quite confidential, together, she and I, as we talked on, tete-a-tete, the duke having gone off somewhere with Lawford."

"Of course you have not yet tasted the joys of possession. It is all very new to you still."

"I hardly realize it, indeed, or what I shall do with it."

"Your first business, Captain Wood, believe me, will be to keep your fortune safe. She spoke very gravely, looking at me intently over her fan. "Half the world will be in league to rob you. Ah, but yes, I am in earnest! You men fall naturally into three classes—rogues, fools, and policemen."

"And to which, pray, do I belong?" I asked lightly, not taking this bitter remark at all seriously.

"Not the first, I am sure; it would be a bad compliment to say the second, but if you were wise, you would certainly become the third. A whole police force in your pay would not be too many to protect you."

"Are you in earnest?" I said, suddenly struck with something in her eyes.

"Very much so, Captain Wood. If I were a friend, an old friend, let me say, I would counsel you, strongly urge you, to be constantly on your guard, very much on your guard."

As she spoke a deadly pallor overspread her face, which was high colored, as is often seen in very fair haired women, even when still quite young. Her husband had returned silently, and she first had caught sight of him standing there behind me. Why was she thus terrified? Because the duke had heard her last words?

Whether or not the Duke of Tierra Sagrada had ever heard his wife when she was earnestly counseling me to be upon my guard, I was unable to judge; at least he made no sign. His manner was perfectly quiet and natural, and he spoke in an unconcerned tone when he pressed me to keep my seat in the front of the box.

The next interval he said very courteously: "Do you propose to stay for the 'Cavalleria Rusticana'? Would you care to accompany us? Our carriage is here. Susetta will be very pleased to present you."

"You are very good," I said. "I should like to go very much if I may run away early. I have a couple of balls tonight."

It was a curious and not unimportant circumstance, when viewed by the three houses I was to visit that night were within a stone's throw of each other.

The first, that of the Dos Rios minister, to which I was introduced by the Duke and Duchess of Tierra Sagrada, was in Rutland Gate. The next, Mrs. Collingham Smith's, was in Prince's Gardens, and the last, Lady Delane's, in Prince's Gate. My new friends would have sent me on their carriage, especially when they learned I had not far to go. This near neighborhood was remarked on by the duke, when, observing that the reception did not greatly amuse me, he asked if I was not dying to get to my dancing, and where, exactly, I was going.

"You must let us send you on to Prince's Gardens in the carriage," he said, very civilly. "We have brought you out of your way to a not very bright entertainment and now we ought to speed your departure. We must stay on here for an hour or so more, but there is no reason why you should."

I protested that Prince's Gardens was only a few yards off, round the corner, in fact, and I really preferred to walk. Besides, I only meant to look in for a moment. My real destination was Lady Delane's, which was also quite close at hand.

"To be sure, yes, certainly, I know. Well, well, if you will not be persuaded. But the carriage is entirely at your disposition. Is that not so, Susetta?"

It occurred to me that the duchess was not altogether pleased at this off-hand disposal of her carriage. So I refused the kind offer and left them with the pleasurable sensation of having made a couple of charming new acquaintances.

There was another acquaintance, if I might so call him, whether friend or foe, waiting for me outside—the same shuffling, silpshod creature whom I had seen so often that evening. Directly I went out I saw him emerge from the portico of an unfurnished house and follow me to the very door to Prince's Gardens.

Enormous Sale. Many Imitations.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has come into popularity by leaps and bounds, until now the sales are enormous, far surpassing those of any nerve tonic or restorative. As a consequence of the phenomenal success there has sprung up many imitations, all of which are never really curative and are positively harmful and dangerous to the system. As you value your life and health, and refuse these worthless imitations, and refuse all substitutes which are said to be "just as good."

Imitators do not dare to reproduce the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, which are found on every box of his genuine remedies.

Messrs. T. G. McMullen, M. P. P. and Alfred Dickie, of Stewieside, two of the most extensive lumber merchants in Nova Scotia, are interested in a new company, the Grand River Pulp Lumber Company, the object of which is to go into the lumber and pulp on a large scale in Newfoundland extending to Labrador. These men will be the first to extend this work into Labrador. They are about beginning to clear ground in Labrador preparatory to beginning practical operations.

Constipated Bowels.

Constipation, or inactivity of the bowels, is probably the cause of more distress and suffering than any other organic derangement. Once the bowels are constipated, the kidneys become clogged, the liver torpid, and the stomach and whole digestive system completely interfered with.

The head aches, there is dizziness, weakness and sickness of vision, pains in the back, aches and limbs, the accumulation of wind and gas on the stomach, pains and fullness in the region of the stomach, and depression and despondency of spirits.

Constipation can never be cured by the use of salts and similar purgatives, but so strengthen and invigorate them so as to enable them to regularly perform their functions without the aid of medicines. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

I bought a little lawn for the girls' spring dresses today, said Mrs. Spenditt, and here is the bill for it.

Lawn! shouted Mr. Spenditt, looking at the bill. Lawn? Why, woman you must have bought a whole farm!

Crutches Discarded

Mrs. Wells, of Mochelle, Annapolis, Annapolis Co., writes:

May 8th, 1900

"I am an old woman, nearly eighty years of age. Sometime ago I fell and injured my hip. I was afterwards troubled with Sciatica; at times my sufferings were intense; I could not get about my room without the aid of a pair of crutches. I tried many remedies; none did me any good; some of them made me worse. At last I read of Egyptian Rheumatic Oil and tried that. I am happy to say that it has given me great relief, removing the pain and enabling me to move around much better than I could. I think Egyptian Rheumatic Oil a splendid liniment for use in cases of Rheumatism."
