Beauty's Refuge

The finer or more delicate your complexion, the more it will suffer from the weather for several months now. Just a little lack or a little excess of moisture in the atmosphere and chapping will result. Those who care little for beauty at least care for comfort and there is comfort in a smooth soft skin. Our

Almond Cream Of Witch Hazel

Keeps the skin like velvet. We make it. It is harmless as dew. We do not believe the skin can possibly chap where it is used properly, or stay chapped long after it is applied. Price 25 Cents

TOOK REVENGE

Kansas City, Nov. 11.—Dr. W. H. Kimberlin, a pioneer citizen and a prominent oculist, was shot and killed in his office in this city this afternoon by John Scanlon, formerly a policeman, who shot and killed him. The bodies of both men were found in the doctor's office. Dr. Kimberlin was shot three times, and both men must have died almost instantly.
Scanlon, who is the brother of a prominent local politician, asserted it is said that Kimberlin had caused him to lose his eyesight.
Scanlon left a note on the dresser, in which he had written "Notify my brother at city hall that I did this because he destroyed my eyes."
Scanlon had been receiving treatment from Dr. Kimberlin for about two weeks. He entered the physician's office unseen and his is not known how long he had been there. Another patient, who was waiting in an outside office said:
"I heard Scanlon go into the doctor's private office and I heard him and the doctor talking. There was no quarrel or loud words, however, until Dr. Kimberlin cried out: 'Oh, don't, John!'"
"The shots followed immediately. A bullet came through the wall and passed over the chair from which I had jumped when the shooting began. The first person to enter the room was Dr. Kimberlin's son, also a physician, who is proprietor of a drug store on the ground floor of the building. Both men lay on the ground floor, covered with blood and dead. Scanlon had shot himself through the temple, the bullet tearing away the upper part of his face.
Dr. Kimberlin was 58 years old and had practiced in Kansas City for 30 years. Scanlon was 37 years old and unmarried. He lived formerly at Breckinridge, Mo. He had worked as fireman on the Burlington railroad, and later as petrolin on the Kansas City police force.

AN EASY WAY

To Keep Well.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.
The all important thing is to keep the stomach right and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that most favorite articles of food must be avoided.
Prof. Wischold gives pretty good advice on this subject, he says: "I am an old man and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to eat bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.
My physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, pepsone and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.
I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."
Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.
They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.
All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, half sized pkgs., at 50 cents, and for a full sized package a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars worth of good.

BOY IN TROUBLE

Two lads were arraigned before His Honor Judge Houston this morning on the charge of swearing on the street contrary to the city by-law. There was no evidence against one lad, but the other was convicted. The boy found guilty was a little fellow whose head only reached above the railing in the prisoner's docket. He said he was fifteen years old but he didn't look to be ten. The evidence of six other lads showed that the prisoner was angry and had used some pretty fierce language. The judge told the judge that there was a party at his home and his mother had lost a present she had for him. This made him feel bad and he was provoked when he met the other boys. The little fellow kept his face straight until he learned that he was fined a dollar and costs, then his will-power failed him and he wept violently. He was a very little fellow. Although his mother wasn't in court, and he was left to bear his trouble alone, he held up bravely, but the prospect of jail was too much. "Let me go, I swear to you," he passionately cried the boy between sobs that choked his utterances. "Please let me go," sobbed the boy. "Oh, my God, am I all alone?" The lad was retained at the police station to see if his fine would be paid and to give the judge a chance to consider how long a time he would give the lad in jail.

LETTER BOX

THAT MANIFESTO.

To the Editor of The Planet:
Dear Sir,—In the Wine and Liquor Journal it is advised that those personally interested in the trade appear as little as possible, but that it be made to appear to be a contest between the prohibition citizens and the non-prohibition citizens. Acting on this suggestion I betray its purpose, circulated by those interested in the trade has been published in The Weekly Planet and Banner-News, purporting to be the spontaneous expression of opinion from the business men of Chatham in opposition to the pending prohibition vote. Even if it were not known to be the work of those interested, the purely mercenary character of the firm endorses it, which is incorrect. Some who signed it say they did not see what they were asked to sign, and have never even read the Act. Others are apologizing that for business reasons they were induced to do it; while in every case the name of the firm in which the individual happens to be employed is placed after his name to convey the impression that the firm endorses it, which is incorrect. For instance, in the Banner-News Mr. McKay is described as "Manager of The Planet Printing Co.," whereas that paper has in no way expressed its opinion from its columns. Mr. McKay's name does not even appear.
The objections to the Act are easily answered. The law goes as far as the Legislature has power to go. Its design is to stop the selling of strong drink by retail. If strictly enforced it will prevent nine-tenths of the present drinking. That will be an immense gain.
Regarding drinking in private houses, sumptuary legislation is always condemned by opponents of prohibition, but now they object because the Legislature has power to go. Its design is to stop the selling of strong drink by retail. If strictly enforced it will prevent nine-tenths of the present drinking. That will be an immense gain.
