Cuts, bruises, burns, scalds and "scrapes" are commen occurrences in every home. Busy house-wives, hustling bread-winners, athletic sons and daughters, and frolicsome children, all get their share of these injuries; and the handy box of Zam Buk will prove useful all round as a speedy cure. Zam Buk recommends itself to all thinking people because it is pure, being made from rich healing herbs and free from animal fats and oils. Because it soothes pain, is a powerful germ killer, and prevents festering and blood poison. It repairs skin injuries and diseases in Nature's own way.

COLORED GOODS.

Maybe you've found it hard to bring your colored clothes out of the wash clean and bright, without fading or running or looking messy.

If you try "SURPRISE" Soap you will see the difference in results. You know, "SURPRISE" is a pure soap, and there's nothing in it to hurt either the color or the fabric. And then no hard rubbing or boiling is necessary, so the colors don't get weakened and smudgy.

Some folks say they would buy and "SURPRISE" Soap for colored clothes if it cost a dollar a cake, so it's pretty plain why so many people use it when it costs no more than common soap.

MOTHER'S DAY OFF.

A Nevel Plan That Worked Splendidly. Try It.

"I'd been married twelve years be-fore it dawned on me that, with the exception of my wife, every one in the house had a day off once a week," said the man.

"I suppose a woman does generally have rather a bad time of it in that way," I remarked.
"I always had St way," I remarked.

"I always had Sundays," he continued, "the children had Saturdays and Sundays, too, and one of the maids had every Wednesday, while the other was free on Thursdays. But when I becap to think it over it geemed to me began to think it over it seemed to me that the wife never by any chance got a day entirely to herself."

"What did you do?"
"We talked it over together first, then the wife consulted the maids, and as soon as they grasped the idea they were as keen as mustard to do what they could to help.

"Finally we decided that every Tues day the servants, the children and I were to be left entirely to our own devices. The wife might stay in bed devices. The wife might stay in bed all day if she liked, go away, shop, visit, look in at a picture gallery or, in fact, do anything that she liked. She was to have absolutely no responsibil-ity for meals or anything on that one every week."

"And how does the thing work?"
"Splendidly! The maids rise to the asion, and we vie with one another occasion, and we vie with one about-in trying to keep everything running smoothly and are as pleased as possi-ble when we can manage to spend less than we are allowed for the catering department and yet show good re-

"And the wife?" "Isn't like the same woman. I tell her she seems to have discovered the secret of perpetual youth, and she assures me that if only every woman in the world had a chance of trying the same plan there would be more happy

"After all, I don't see how any one can expect a woman to keep bright and happy if she never has any regular time to amuse herself, do you?"

"I think you've probably hit on an idea that heaps of people would be only too glad to put into practice if they only knew of it," I said. And so I pass it on in case readers may be inter-

Tom Walker returned home on Monday morning, after spending a day or two with friends in the Manager of the collars in Vogue.

With her usual perversity, Fashion has decreed that collars increase in height and in comfort, too, strange as that may seem. It is, however, easily ple City. that may seem. It is, however, easily explained. Since those little "valleines," or featherbones, that give the necessary support have for some time reached fairly up to the ears, they could become no higher; but the change is in the transparent covering which is made of soft lace entirely or in combination with some filmy material. Instead of being rounded out, as it formerly was, the collar is now made straight; hence it must be a little looser, so that it shapes and gives properly with the neck—therein lies the comfort—while the top, which is unstiffened for about half an inch, turns over in a metry careless line, thus adding to could become no higher; but the change pretty careless line, thus adding to the soft becomingness. Be careful not to let it be a degree looser than is absolutely necessary for shaping itself and attempt it in none softest, thinnest material or the result will be that most unbecoming of all things, a thick neck.

Becoming Jewelry.

To insure beauty jewels must be worn with regard to color. Take, for instance, highly colored gems such as rubies and sapphires. They could not be worn with any shade of red. Soft rs should always be selected in such cases—turquoises, pearls or dia-

Another stone which is equally becoming is the opal. A stone called tonkinoise, which is a pure blue, makes a sallow skin many shades lighter.

HAS EYES LIKE OWL.

Daylight Is As Darkness to This Canadian Woodsman.

Because he has eyes like an owl and is unable to see during the day, Jacques Lombard, of the Lake St. John district, Quebec, is compelled to do all his hunting and trapping at night. He is the wonder of all the men in that district and many doubted the story until a fur trader named Jepson, who was never known to tell an son, who was never known to tell an untruth, went to see the man with the "night eyes."

As Lombard has never visited a physician, the cause of his affection is not known, but it is believed to be due to an ultra-sensitive retina. Whatever may be the reason, it is certain that he cannot stand ordinary light, while at night he is able to see well. The extent of his vision may be judged from the fact that he shoots accurately at two hundred yards and can find a pin dropped among leaves when the night is so black that an ordinary man would be forced to grope his way through the forest. The darker it becomes the better is the trapper's vision, moonlight nights being less suited to his work. When light is entirely absent the pupils entire iris, while at noon on a bright day the pupils are the size of pin tire iris, while at noon on a bright day the pupils are the size of pin points.

Shortly before Jepson visited the trapper Lombard was forced by circumstances to subject his eyes to strong light, and the lids were greatly inflamed. But this condition disappeared after he had remained in a dark room twenty-four hours. To him the room was light until a lamp was introduced, when, as he expressed it, darkness radiated from the lamp. This explanation brought out the fact that the flash from a rifle appeared to him to be a black streak, momentarily clouding the atmosphere. To his eyes a searchlight would darken all objects touched by its powerful rays, and the letters of an electric sign would spell in black.

The trapper's visual affliction has rather aided than interfered with his work, as most of the animals whose pelts he seeks are nocturnal rangers and he can observe their habits with his own eyes. He has a cabin at the outlet of a small lake, which forms the source of the River Croohe, lying due west of Dablon. Here Lombard sleeps during the day, and commences his duties at night. His traps are strung for three miles along the lake and in the forests adjacent to it, and the rounds of them are made while other trappers are asleep.

While Lombard's life has been particularly free from woodland mishaps, he has had some exciting experiences with wild animals, and on several occasions has been slightly wounded. His hurts have never been serious, and his physical health has been almost perfect. His one ailment has been chills and fever, which come when the heavy dews appear in the spring and summer.

The trapper never lacks for meat, for he is able to take sleeping birds without effort. When it comes to capturing partridges it isn't even necessary to use a gun. They can be knocked on the head with a stick. In fishing he isn't so successful, as trout seldom bite at night, and even on cloudy days the light is too strong for him. Deer are nocturnal, as are moose, but Lombard says they are easily shot at night, and even on cloudy days the light is too strong for him. Deer are nocturnal, as ar
