International Bible Lesson for To-Morrow-Jesus Teaches Humility --Mark 10, 25-45; Matt. 20, 20-28.

Golden Text—"For even the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." "In honor prefer-ring one another."

but to minister." "In honor preferring one another."

The incident in our lesson teaches humility and much more. For the third time Jesus has been telling them of His coming torturous death at the hands of the High Priests, but not one of the twelve apostles are in sympathy or fellowship with H'm, all misunderstood Him. Salome, a constant attendant on our Lord, and her two sons, James and John, most devoted disciples, approach Jesus privately, fishing for special favors in the Kingdom of their Messiah, which they think is about to be established. Jesus bore gently with their selfishness and error,—"Ye know not what ye ask." They desire a position, which two thieves occupy a few days later. Their thoughts are on an earthly crown, His on a crown of thorns and cavarry; their minds on different things. When the 'ten heard, they were naturally indignant at this wire-pulling; it was the same old question then, and is to-day, "Who shall be greatest?"

When 12 good men and tru—save one—who were continually in the company of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, and were being taught by Him, so misunderstood Him, and His kingdom and grace, and so differed with each other, is it to be wondered at that professors now, who walk after the flesh and not after the Spirit, misunderstand Goi and differ indignantly with each other. Ye know how Gentile rulers lord it over men, "not so shall it be among you." Jesus said; but whosoever would be first among you shall be your slave. He is greatest who is most filled with love, for God is Love, and His Son in love took on Him the form of a slave, became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. The Christian filled with faith and the Holy Spirit is clothed with humility, "God resistent the proud, but giveth grace to the humble."

To the Grave In Spectacles.

At a recent funeral it was noticed that the face of the dead was adorned with glasses. Naturally the queer decundertaker seemed hardly to know what to make of it. "However," he said, "this is not the first time I have buried a man with glasses on. But the instances have been so few that I haven't got used to the idea. Certainly I never add that finishing touch of my own accord. It is always done at the request of the family. In every case I find that the deceased and his glasses were insepa-rable in life, and in order to preserve the likeness they are to be still undi-vided in death. Personally, I think the notion inartistic, but art is not my business. When anybody wants to be buried in glasses that's the way I bury him." been so few that I haven't got used to

Compass Plants:

Several different countries—America, Asia Minor, Tartary, Madagascar and Australia—have shrubs and flowers which are, locally at least, known as "compass plants." The compass plant of the United States is the common rosin weed of our western prairies, which has the long leaves near the ground set in a vertical position in such a way as to always present the edges to the north and south. This peculiar propensity of the rosin weed is attributed to the fact that both the upper and lower surfaces of the leaves demand an equal share of light, something which can be said of but few known plants, the upper surfaces usually being much more sensitive to both light and heat than the lower. This demand for a share of Old Sol's attention causes the leaves to stand in the manner mentioned above.

The chou will soon have to give way to the little double bow which is being seen on so many waists and gowns.

be finely tucked and shirred. Chiffen dresses are now being made of faint colorings in dull browns and moleskin tints. Shirring is the almost invariable trimming. Dyed lace forms a frequent trimming, and a bertha or cays collar of this is always handsome.

The black cloth gown made of very fine material is extremely chic, particularly when it is trimmed with openwork embroidery which allows glimpses of a bright taffeta lining to be seen, such as a deep red or green. Among the smartest novetites are Monte Carlo the smartest novelties are Monte Carlo toques in the long pointed shape, all covered with fruit—currants, raisins, plums even—and draped with lace.

The beauty of many of the new gowns consists in their carefully shadd trimmings.

The black hat trimmed with black and white ostrich feathers is always smart, whether in summer or winter. The illustration shows a white straw hat trimmed with a single black feath-JUDIC CHOLLET.

Trimmings Are Horisontal -- Smar Nearly all the trimmings now are norizontal. The old fashioned shawls can be turn ed into very pretty evening wraps, and the same is true of wedding veils, which are made up with chiffon ove

One of the prettiest evening gowns seen recently was of black spotted net over white chiffon and silk. The waist was almost covered by a deep bertha made of three narrow ruffles. The skirt had a shirred hip yoke, and from the knees down was a mass of ruffles; each ruffle was bound with a narrow black velvet ribbon. The short sleeve puffs were decorated with tiny velvet rosettes and the velvet sash had fancifully knotted ends.

Another evening dress was of heavy white lace and chiffon. The chiffon skirt, accordion plaited, had a very deep yoke, almost an overskirt, of the lace. The waist was of the full plaited chiffon with a front piece and puffs of lace. The decolletage was outlined with tiny white rosebuds.

A pale green taffets which is being made for a smart woman has its skirt arranged in heavy plaits from the waist. Above the knees are enormous tucks headed with ruches. Around the waist is a swathed band with knotted ends and little taffeta roses. These roses also ornament the pelerine collar and are intermingled with shades of pale plnk and heliotrope.

White frocks will be worn quite as much as ever this spring and summer, and they will be supplemented by the white cloth coat and the white lace hat trimmed with a feather or white resea. The illustration shows one of these white cloth coats. If has a cape yoke coming well down over the shoulders. It is trimmed with black and white seals.
