Book Review.
[Covers of Canada, etc., by Mrs. M. L. G. Charlottetown John Canning, Publisher, 81-03.]
Unfortunately, it is but seldom that we are called upon to notice poetical compositions of P. E. I. origin. Our people seem lacking in their devotion to the Muse. Rarely do we have poetry written here. J. Hunter Dyer, the Bard of Harnwood, and Mrs. M. L. G. are our only poets of any note. It is quite an agreeable event, then, to have published in our midst a volume of poems from so talented a writer as Mrs. M. L. G.

The present volume contains many pieces of sweetest, delicate and beautiful. To us it seems that the author has a predilection for legend and story. The major portion of her poems are of this nature. She also describes personal feelings well. Self-dedication must prevail largely in her mental habits, as in all her pieces there is distinct evidence of her own personality. In three and four lines she conveys grand moral lessons incoated. Thus of avarice she speaks:

Be's or not, to me it seems This cursed gold of Shuts all the four feelings out, Defends life's fairest mould, Rends our affections' dearest ties, Transforms the friend to foe,
In battlefields of worldly gain, Says the poetess.

Rejoice all humanizing love;
The world to reach his gates of paradise The earnest, God-ward soul.
Speaking of Misanthropy, the founder of Montreal leaving France, she says: He had in his last look of those farewell Where the golden and green interlaced Where some of the peasant doth die As he glistens the fruit of the vine He had breathed food and life to his own A land of rye and wheat and
Where his vast treasure to guide
And knowledge ennobles the heart.
Of Canada she says:

"Exhaustion, boundless Canada!
Thy myriad forests Thy snow-capped mountains cleave the The snows of thy summer hold Are wreaths of crystal shewn;
A land of rye and wheat and
Where his vast treasure to guide
And knowledge ennobles the heart.
Of Canada she says:

Catholic Notes.
The famous Jesuit College, in Mons, Belgium, was burned Wednesday. All the students escaped, but the splendid libraries and halls were burned. The Roman catholics and monks were saved. Three firemen were badly injured. The fire is known to have been incendiary.

Rev. John Morris, who died suddenly at the Charlevoix Hospital, London, England, recently at the age of 77 years, was educated at Harrow and Cambridge and also at the English College, Rome, after he had been a member of the Society of Jesus.
He had acquired much historical and antiquarian knowledge, and was the author of several works on the Reformation period, and of a life of St. Thomas A. Becket, and other works. He was a private in the Eighty-first Regiment, and served in the "O'Connell Rangers." In those days the soldiers of the English garrison in Ireland were marched to Church on Sunday.
When we called to see him about his man to play up "St. Patrick's Day," on pain of instant death.
The order was promptly obeyed; the band struck up the National air; and for the first time, in the streets of St. Thomas A. Becket, and other Protestants of the different regiments had been, with their officers, deposited at the Episcopal churches, the music ceased, and the Catholics had to go to Mass in silence. O'Reilly and his first move was to bring a libel suit. Four weeks later he sent us two annual passes and a dozen bottles of California wine.
When we called to see him about clearing the docket, he could not move fast enough, and his entire disposition was that of a man with a tender and loving heart.

Suit No. 4 was a modest little thing for $50,000 and was instituted by Bill Poole, the landlord of the Spread Eagle hotel. We used to board at Bill's, and when we published an article declaring that a hungry bottled wolf would tear up his nose at the provender and that Bill himself was better fitted for a swill than a hotel we knew that he was talking about. Bill thought we were kidding on a pair of trays and started his suit. When we called on him the other day, we had our guns handy, but they were not needed. Mr. Poole not only lay on our neck and expressly refused to have made an ass of himself, but announced that he had traded the hotel for a swill over on Cedar run and would let go the indivisible next week. We wish him success in his new undertaking.

Suit No. 5 was for $50,000, and was instituted under a misapprehension. Judge Hemphill of Leno came to this territory about 5 years ago from Ohio. He put it in the score of health. That's where the misapprehension came in. We discovered that the judge had three living wives and not a single living divorce, and when he bitterly opposed us as a candidate for senator we playfully alluded to his marital affairs. He had changed his name, dyed his hair and shaved off his whiskers and all kinds of things.
When we went over to see him the other day, he thought we had come to compromise. We hadn't. We had come to prove that he had run away from four wives instead of three, and it was over 10 minutes before he had tears in his eyes and was asking us to let up on him. We shall do so. The only thing we planned for him is in not bringing the five wives out here before he gave them the shake.

Suit No. 6 was a one horse affair for $75,000. It was brought by Jim Davis, foreman of the fire company, because we alluded to him as being drunk and a nuisance and a seven-day-a-week idiot. Jim didn't expect to prove to the contrary, but some one told him to, and he succeeded. When we went around to see him about clearing the docket, he expressed his sorrow that he had acted so foolishly and at once gave orders to quash proceedings. He still is a man and a citizen if we really thought he was what we alleged, and when our conscience forced us to reply in the affirmative he turned his head away and wept.
Poor old Bill! We felt sorry for him. We wish he were not an idiot, is what's the use of lying about it?
The docket now stands clear of everything against The Kicker, but inside of a month to interrupt the monotony.

The Old City of Damascus.
A recent work on sanitary engineering says that Damascus possesses in all probability the oldest waterworks in the world. The city itself is the most ancient of existing cities, having seen the rise and fall of the Greek and Roman empires, of Babylon, Nineveh, Palmyra and Jerusalem. When taken by the Saracens from the Romans, the waterworks already existed, and it is probable that the latter constructed the works which still exist and supply the town. Damascus lies in a valley on the river Abana, which flows from the Lebanon hills and is lost in the desert to the east of the town. In spite of a copious supply of excellent water, Damascus has no immunity from epidemics, owing to the fact that the double canalization for water supply and drainage, being more or less leaky, saturates the soil and raised the spring level nearly to the surface, and the sewers are rarely if ever cleansed, and they pass under many of the houses. It is not surprising, therefore, that Damascus is and always was an insalubrious town.

Female Banishment Sent to Prison.
Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 15.—Miss Vivian Dutton, 20 years old, who last September led a band of young outlaws that waylaid six prominent citizens, was convicted yesterday and sent to prison for one year.

Overheated the Dynamite.
Joliet, Ill., Nov. 15.—Harry Tinsley and John Riley and Patrick Ehrhart badly injured yesterday afternoon by an explosion of dynamite.
The men were employed on the drainage works and were engaged in heating the explosive.
The report of the explosion was plainly heard in Joliet, though it occurred nine miles from that place.

The Benefits of Law.
A despatch from Lonsano, Penn., of the 15th inst. says: $1,000 turkey will be served fast dinner to-morrow by Hiram L. Light, and a number of friends will help to devour the expensive bird. About a year ago a turkey strayed away from the farm of John K. Light of Swatara county. A few days later it was found in the possession of Hiram L.
Light. A lawsuit followed to determine the ownership, and before it ended the parties to the suit were out over $1,000. To-day the bird was purchased by Hiram L. Light.

Suspecting the Parson.
There are many tales told, most of them apocryphal, of queer incidents at weddings. I can vouch for the following: A workman was being united to the lady of his choice at a certain church, and just before the moment for the production of the ring arrived the officiating clergyman leaned over and whispered to the bride and whispered, "Please take off your glove." To his astonishment the bridegroom resented the advice, and cried, "Here is my hand, as witness to my joy."

A Valuable Present.
We understand that Mr. T. J.
Dillon, inspector of cheese factories of this province, has presented His Lordship Bishop McDonnell with one of the largest cheeses made on the Island as well as several samples of the cheese of the Ontario make.
When the presentation, Mr. Dillon referred to the many kindnesses he had received at the hands of the Catholic clergy throughout the Island and to the kindly interest they always manifested in the cheese industry wherever established. The kindness of Mr. Dillon is duly appreciated by His Lordship.—Examiner.

Church Re-opened.
St. George's Church at Grand River, Lot 55, was re-opened on Sunday last. His Lordship Bishop Macdonnell pontificated, assisted by Rev. S. T. Poirer, an High Priest, Rev. J. C. McMillan, Deacon, and Rev. J. C. McMillan, Sub-deacon.
Rev. J. C. McMillan was Master of Ceremonies. Rev. F. J. Macdonnell, former pastor of St. George's Church, presided at the service. A sermon, appropriate to the occasion, was preached by Rev. J. C. Mc-Millan. A silver collection was taken up, which amounted to a considerable sum.—Examiner.

One of the stories that has drifted out of the Platitudes into the newspapers is of the mosque there, where prayers are said daily at regular intervals by the natives. A pious woman passing accented, "All to Oriental and chatted," with him, talking with a nod toward his prayer house and the remark: "I hope you go to church every Sunday, like a Christianian." "No," I can quick reply, "I go every day, like a Turk."

In the old code of Massachusetts and other New England States there were once very severe penalties prescribed against the use of tobacco in any form. A statute, dated 1633, forbade the use of tobacco by any person in any place, public or private, under a penalty of a fine of a penny for each offence.
This law not proving effective, another was passed two years later which made greater severity. All tobacco users were ordered to discontinue the vile habit. Tavern-keepers were fined five shillings for permitting smoking on their premises, while the fine for every offence in private use of the weed, even in one's own house, was two shillings and sixpence for each offence.— noteworthy taken in connection
